Gentlemen Of Japan Grave, Deep, Thorough Mussolini's Decision He Writes A Piece

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

MR. CHOJIRO KURIYAMA, representing, in America, the Tokyo "Nichi-Nichi," and the Osaka "Mainichi," invited Admiral Isamu Takeshita and General Haruschige Ninomiya to meet American newspaper men. The latter learned something.

Admiral Takeshita, retired, was commander-in-chief of the united fleets of Japan, General Ninomiya was ranking officer in Japan's Kwantung army in the Manchurian campaign. Silent, dignified, deep, are these representatives of high Japanese ability. They would like to make themselves more shallow, to fit American ideas, but cannot manage it.

"WE DO NOT LIKE to meddle with Europen wars at all," was the admiral's reply to "will Japan become involved in the Ethiopian matter?"

A hidden mine can put a battleship out of commission, a torpedo from a submarine or a heavy bomb from an airplane, could do it. The admiral, once commander of all the battle fleets of Japan, thinks battleships will soon be obsolete.

Why do nations continue building them? Well, habit is strong.

THAT ENGLISH and German fleets came out only once in the big war, and ran away from each other is a memory that slightly amuses the admiral. Yes, Japanese prosperity is returning. The yen has dropped, but will buy as much as ever in Japan, like our dollar, worth 59 cents, although we do not know it.

The admiral visited the Empire State building in New York, went to the 80th story, bought a little ash tray in a shop there, turned the tray over and read "Made in Japan." That seemed not to hurt his feelings.

If Japan ever builds an Empire State building in Tokyo, and you climb to the 80th floor and buy an ash tray you will not find "Made in the United States" written on the back of it.

JAPAN'S ADMIRAL, then young, was stationed in Washington during the Russian-Japanese war, was intimate with President Theodore Roosevelt, and with a famous Japanese jiujitsu expert, helped the president learn that Japanese manly art.

President Roosevelt was so deeply interested that his daughter Ethel had to come and play the piano to remind him to stop.

The jiujitsu professor, Yamashita, was "the only foreigner who ever threw a president of the United States over his shoulder."

The admiral spent Friday night at Sagamore Hill, with Theodore Roosevelt, II., and Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the late president.

ADMIRAL TAKESHITA and General Ninomiya visited the United States as representatives of the Japanese war veterans, a semi-official organization of great importance and power, numbering 3,000,000.

Its purpose is to educate young Japanese, not merely to fight, but especially to think and feel correctly, and specifically to teach the young to detest communism and everything it stands for.

Japan has a constitution, as we have but it comes "from the emperor's royal will."

It does not say that you can talk as you please. No speeches on communism allowed in public in Japan.

REPEAL OF NEW LAWS URGED BY ORLEANS LABOR

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Central Trades and Labor Council in a meeting here last night adopted resolutions calling upon Governor O. K. Allen to call the legislature into special session for repeal of "dictatorial" and "obnoxious" laws passed by recent sessions of the body.

The council in another resolution condemned T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, "because he has done nothing to help labor in manufacturing textbooks in Louisiana."

The repeal resolutions asked Governor Allen to repeal all laws "which will have the effect of depriving citizens, generally, of their rights as citizens of this free republic."

SATURDAY LAST DAY OF DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

Officially, wherever daylight saving time is in effect, the clocks go back one hour at 2 a. m. tomorrow—from 2 a. m., daylight, to 1 a. m., standard.

The advanced time, widely recognized over the country and especially in industrial sections began at 2 a. m., last April 28.

ROOSEVELT SAYS FARMERS GETTING REAL CHANCE NOW

Declares Effort To Aid Agriculture Is True Duty Of Government

CHIEF EXECUTIVE STATES AAA IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Program Is 'Democracy In Good Old Sense Of Word,' He Declares

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a farm audience today the agricultural adjustment act is giving farmers "really a chance for the first time in this generation."

He declared the effort to aid the agriculturists was "the true function of government under our constitution."

Speaking in the heart of the grain belt while midway to the coast on his western tour, Mr. Roosevelt called the AAA economically and constitutionally, "Democracy in the good old sense of the word."

"The government's part in this program is merely to supply the unifying element that the farmers themselves, in their past efforts, found so essential to success," he declared.

"That, it seems to me, is the true function of government under our constitution—to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the constitution is intended to guarantee."

Constitutionality of the act has been challenged in the courts.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the income of the farmers has been increased by $5,300,000,000 over the 1932 level. He said many factors were involved in the readjustment.

"Our monetary policy was one," he said. "The drought was another. Increased demand for products caused by the economic revival was an-

MAN IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Henry Hack, 50, Of Spencer Dies Of Internal Injuries After Accident

Henry Hack, 50, of Spencer, was almost instantly killed about 2 o'clock Saturday morning when an automobile he was driving collided with one driven by W. C. Donovan, 505 Harrison street, Monroe, on the Sterlington highway about six miles northeast of Monroe. The body was brought to a local morgue by an ambulance but was later taken to Farmerville, where it was prepared for burial.

Little details of the accident were known here and responsibility had not been fixed last night. No arrests have been made in the case, however.

Mr. Hack suffered internal injuries and bad body bruises. Donovan was not seriously hurt. Both cars were badly damaged.

He is survived by his wife and several children. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Two negroes miraculously escaped serious injury late Saturday afternoon when their automobiles collided at the intersection of Thomas and Lee avenues with so much force that one of the automobiles was careened into a standing street car nearby.

The drivers were Tom Williams of West Monroe and F. Dudley of Monroe. One of the cars was going south on Lee avenue and the other west on Thomas avenue.

ETHIOPIA DESOLATE AS RAINY SEASON NEARS CLOSE

The desolation created by tropic rains is shown in this view of the native village of Marta in Ethiopia's Harrar province, its little straw huts looking forlorn among the puddles. The rainy season, which is drawing to a close, has compelled Italy to delay its proposed attack.

BUYERS APPLAUD COTTON RULING

Subsidy Payments May Not Be Made Through Cooperation Associations

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Comptroller General J. R. McCarl's ruling that 1935 cotton subsidy payments may not be made through cotton cooperative associations was applauded tonight by southern cotton buyers and shippers.

Speaking for "the established cotton trade," Caffey Robertson, president of the Memphis cotton exchange, said the decision was welcomed "by every citizen interested in the perpetuation of the spirit of fair play and constitutional rights that is the keystone of our great Democracy."

He said the American Cotton Cooperative association instigated the request "that they be given preferential treatment in the distribution of parity payments."

Charging that E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the A. C. C. A. undertook to twist the issue around to "charge the established cotton trade with selfishness," he said it is "so obvious that the true facts of the case are that his organization undertook to gain an utterly unqualified buying advantage for themselves."

Robertson declared the "established cotton trade" acts as marketing representatives for at least 85 per cent of the producers and could not "sit idly by" and allow the A. C. C. A. "get away with a special government provided advantage for itself."

Charging that the A. C. C. A.'s only credentials as a representative of the farmers is that it has at some time bought one or more bales from not over 15 per cent of the cotton producers," he said the cotton trade does not object to "truly cooperative marketing," but that the history of cooperative marketing in cotton has proved that cotton producers have shown "a preponderant preference for marketing through established trade channels."

It is "rather ridiculous and certainly far-fetched," he said, for the A. C. C. A. to "presume" to speak and act "for the farmer," charging it maintains a "semblance" of cooperative marketing "by buying one or more bales from the producers, making these producers "members."

"It can readily be seen that the real purpose in demanding the ability to immediately pay, with government provided funds, the parity to their 'members' was merely to gain a distinct buying advantage which could be used by the A. C. C. A. in

Hurricane Warnings Ordered Lowered As Storm Loses Force

32 Persons Killed And Many Injured By Winds In Cuba And Jamaica

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The following advisory was received and distributed by the weather bureau tonight:

Advisory 8:30 p.m. All warnings down Florida west coast and hurricane warnings will be lowered Miami to West Palm Beach 10 p.m. Center of tropical disturbance passing about 40 miles southeast of Miami moving north northeastward with diminished intensity but still attended by hurricane winds over small area near center.

Winds will reach hurricane force over a small area between the southeast Florida coast and the Bahamas but probably not on the mainland. No further danger Lake Okeechobee region.

Miami and south Florida waited up Saturday night as a tropical hurricane that killed at least 32 persons in Cuba and Jamaica, approached from the Atlantic.

Experienced in the ways of such disturbances, southern Florida took no chances and prepared for any eventuality.

City buildings—private and public—were boarded up and supplies laid away. Hammers and saws flew everywhere along the coast as windows were protected.

HOME IS REPORTED SOUGHT FOR FRIEND OF RUMANIAN RULER

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Unsubstantiated reports which, however, persisted today in central European circles, were to the effect that agents of King Carol of Rumania are in Vienna to find a suitable residence for his red-headed friend, Magda Lupescu.

The reports had it that a "modest palace" would do for the woman whose continued association with the king has threatened a crisis in Rumanian politics.

Some of the king's advisers, they said, felt that if Mme. Lupescu's influence were removed for a time it would quiet some of the opposition, which has grown steadily more vociferous.

It was pointed out that if she were to leave Bucharest, she might find Vienna congenial, as her mother and sister live here in seclusion.

STORM WRECKED LINER IS TOWED TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Morgan liner Dixie, which was stranded on French reef near Miami, Fla., is to arrive here tomorrow in tow of a salvage tug.

The ship is to be taken to a pier where cargo and passengers' baggage will be removed. Line officials will then inspect the boat and begin plans for its reconditioning.

'BILL' RODRIGUEZ WILL MAKE RACE

Insurance Man Announces Candidacy For Commissioner Of Finance

W. D. H. "Bill" Rodriguez, president of the Cobb-Rodriguez Insurance company, yesterday announced his candidacy for commissioner of finance and public utilities in the primary to be held on January 21. The commissionership is now held by D. A. Breard, Jr.

Although rumors have been current that there would be a contest for the various city offices, the announcement of Mr. Rodriguez is the first to be made formally.

Although he has been prominent in local business and civic circles for a number of years, Mr. Rodriguez has not sought public office before.

He was born in Franklin, Tenn., January 26, 1896, attending public schools at Nashville and Clarksville, Tenn., later attending the Sewanee Military academy at Sewanee, Tenn.

Completing his preparatory course, he matriculated at Southwestern university then located at Clarksville, but later removed to Memphis.

While attending college, the United States had trouble with Pancho Villa, the Mexican bandit, and Mr. Rodriguez went to the border with the First Tennessee infantry. Returning to the university, he again took up his studies, only to have them interrupted three weeks later when the

PUBLIC HEARING ON AAA COTTON CONTROL PROGRAM IS PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A public hearing to weigh sentiment on the AAA cotton control program has been planned for Memphis on October 11.

It will be the fourth major hearing on control policies of the farm administration.

A hearing on the corn-hog program was concluded recently in Washington. Some time ago, growers and processors aired their views on a rye control plan, and next week the AAA will hear arguments for and against the controversial potato control plan.

Hearing on AAA control programs are required under terms of the agricultural adjustment act amendments passed by the last congress.

VANDERBILT STUDENT IS SHOT BY NEGRO BURGLAR

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—James Haynes, 23-year-old Vanderbilt university student, was shot twice early today when he grappled with a negro burglar in his room at the Kappa Alpha fraternity house. One bullet struck his leg and the other lodged in his shoulder.

Other students, aroused by five pistol shots, found him lying in the hall in front of his door. He said he was awakened by a negro ransacking his room and struggled with him.

SHERMAN ADMITS ILLICIT CONDUCT

Both Sides Rest In Murder Case After Defendant Tells Of Love Affair

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 28.—(AP)—From the reluctant lips of Newell P. Sherman, husky 26-year-old choir singer, on trial here for the murder of his 22-year-old wife, the state today forced an admission of illicit relations with the other woman in the case.

In quick succession three relatives did what they could to bolster his story that the canoe drowning of his wife in lonely Lake Singletary on the night of July 20 was an accident.

Then both sides rested.

Only the final arguments on Monday of counsel and Judge Thomas J. Hammond's charge to the jury intervened between Sherman and a knowledge of his fate.

Buxom Esther Magill, 18-year-old other woman in the case, for whose love Sherman allegedly drowned the mother of their two children, yesterday refused on advice of counsel to concede her affair with the 242-pound scoutmaster had gone beyond the "hugging and kissing" stage.

Today Sherman told the jury all about it although with considerable reluctance.

At times he appeared on the verge of tears as District Attorney Owen A. Hoban demanded the truth about his relations with Miss Magill, but in the end Sherman stuck to his contention that they had sexual relations "once and only once."

But, he admitted, that was within two weeks of the time his wife expected the birth of their second son.

Yesterday he admitted to the jury that some months before his wife's death he had enjoyed a trial courtship with Miss Magill.

It was largely a story of clandestine romance with Miss Magill to whom, he admitted, he had broached the subject of marriage provided he could obtain a divorce from his wife but it included much wrangling over whether the confession the state says he signed was voluntary or not.

In the course of his testimony Sherman conceded that although he earned $23.50 a week in the Whitinsville machine shop in which both he and Miss Magill were employed, he allowed his wife only $1.25 a week plus some money for clothes.

At the same time he told of having given Miss Magill $45.

He said Miss Magill had acted as a sort of banker for him but he couldn't tell why.

Blast Shakes 30-Mile Area

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Dynamite stored in a stone quarry at West Lebanon, a mile and a half from here, exploded tonight with a terrific blast that was felt more than 30 miles away.

Police Sergeant Abram Bomberger of the Lebanon force said reports coming to police headquarters said no one was injured. The blast was felt through much of southwestern Pennsylvania. The shock broke windows as far away as Lancaster, 30 miles to the south, and Reading, an equal distance eastward.

NEW NRA WON'T HURT LITTLE MAN

Legislation Would Eliminate Small Industries, Harrison Says

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—NRA's blue eagle, if it sprouts wings again, will not fly about the head of the "little business man," Senator Pat Harrison assured the nation today.

As chairman of the senate finance committee, in whose hands will rest proposed legislation for revival of the national recovery act, Senator Harrison spoke with some authority.

"If new legislation is proposed," Senator Harrison said in discussing the NRA, "it will eliminate small industries engaged in intrastate commerce, and will apply only to industries engaged in interstate commerce, or to industries which directly effect interstate commerce."

"The very thorough investigation made by the senate finance committee during the last congress into the national recovery act administration and effects, will enable the congress to remove the inconveniences and abuses and unfair requirements against which criticism of the NRA was hurled," he continued.

"It is my hope," Senator Harrison added, "that industry itself will so conduct itself that no new legislation will be required.

"It will be recalled that just before adjournment of congress the president requested me as chairman of the finance committee to make a further study this fall of the NRA . . . to ascertain to what extent all industries were maintaining wage scales, hours of labor provisions, and fair practices of the various codes which were in operation at the time of the supreme court decision. That investigation and inquiry is constantly being made.

"There can be no doubt that reasonable wage scales, humane hours of labor and fair practices of industry should be maintained.

"The future course of the NRA depends upon the results of this investigation. It would be far better for industry and the country if the fine

WHEELER-RAYBURN ACT IS ATTACKED BY JOHN W. DAVIS

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28. — (AP) — A sharp attack on the constitutionality of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act was sounded today in United States district court by John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee.

He termed the act "the most drastic and extreme legislation ever passed in American law" and asserted its intentions were "bizarre and fantastic."

Representing the Edison Electric Institute, which brought a test suit against the holding company act jointly with the American States Public Service company, Davis said provisions of the act presented a dilemma to the latter.

If trustees of the company failed to register with the securities and exchange commission, he said, they would be subject to fine or imprisonment. If they registered, he asserted, jurisdiction of the case would be removed from the local court.

SELASSIE WARNS LEAGUE HE MAY MOBILIZE ARMY

Mussolini Lets It Be Known That He Is Accelerating War Plans

IL DUCE MAKES FRIENDLY GESTURE TOWARD BRITAIN

England Unconcerned As She Continues Plans To Increase Navy

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Italy announced she has speeded her shipment of troops to East Africa today, and in reply Emperor Haile Selassie warned the League of Nations if Rome continued its militant preparations he would be forced to call a general mobilization.

A communique after a brief session of the Italian cabinet contained friendly gestures toward Great Britain. But Premier Mussolini made it known he is not only continuing his East African campaign, but is accelerating it.

After receipt of the communique, Haile Selassie dispatched a message to Geneva protesting against Italy's military preparations and provocative attitude.

The assembly of the league adjourned, subject to instant call, while the council prepared to draft recommendations on the quarrel next week.

European attention also was centered on Memel, which will elect its diet of 29 members tomorrow. Both Germany and Lithuania are jealously watching the result.

Official London appeared unconcerned over Italy's gesture of friendship as defense preparations went forward. The first call for bids on a series of naval vessels included in the 1935 building program was issued.

In Paris, officials of the Suez Canal company, which is privately owned, indicated they would not close the vital sea link in case the league applies sanctions against Italy.

ITALY'S LEAGUE DELEGATES DEPART

GENEVA, Sept. 28—(AP)—Italy's delegation to the League of Nations startled Geneva tonight by either leaving, or preparing to leave, for Rome.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi departed, accompanied by Guido Rocco of the foreign office. Headquarters of the delegation announced the others would leave tonight or tomorrow.

If and when the delegation will return was not clear. The action created great surprise, especially in view of the communique of the Italian cabinet today saying the delegation would remain here for a period.

Aloisi yesterday had vigorously protested the action of the steering committee in recommending that the assembly adjourn, subject to immediate call, rather than end its session.

This action was carried out today. The assembly left for Rome, prepared to reassemble as an instant's notice, while the council of the league resolved into a committee of 13, labored on its own work of making a report.

Recommendations will be drafted by the council next week. It reviewed the Italo-Ethiopian conflict today, making a basis for its work.

In some circles it was pointed that with the assembly in adjournment and the council in committee there was no reason why the Italians should not go

SENATOR LEWIS, ILL IN RUSSIA, SUFFERS RELAPSE

MOSCOW, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, who is ill here with bronchial pneumonia, suffered a slight relapse during the night but physicians said today there was still hope for his recovery.

Condition of the lungs was slightly improved and the principal concern was whether his heart could sustain the strain put upon it.

Kentucky Governor Sends Troops To Harlan County

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Ruby Laffoon today ordered national guard troops to proceed immediately to Harlan county. The governor said he was sending troops to "stop the worst reign of terror in the history of the county."

The order was issued after Adjt. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, head of the Kentucky National Guard, heard complaints of southeastern Kentucky mine labor leaders at hearings here and in Louisville. United Mine Workers of America representatives pressed their request for troops to maintain order and prevent evictions.

At Harlan, County Judge Morris Saylor denied there had been any evictions since the walkout of miners in six Harlan county coal camps Monday. Most of the Harlan county mines were reported operating. Judge Saylor described the situation as quiet with no disorders.

The decision to send national guardsmen was reached following a conference between Governor Laffoon, General Denhardt and representatives of the U. M. W. A.

General Denhardt said he did not know exactly how many troops would move into Harlan county but said he expected to have "at least" half of them there by night fall.

"Members of the union presented the governor with affidavits concerning the terrible conditions in the county," Denhardt said, "and after hearing the testimony the governor decided to protect the lives of the citizens of the county it would be necessary to send troops."

Selassie Tells League He May Mobilize All Troops

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie served notice upon Geneva tonight that if Italy continues her warlike preparations in east Africa he must, in self-defense, order a general mobilization of Ethiopia's warriors.

Italy's provocative attitude indicates an offensive is near, the king of kings told the league.

Haile Selassie sent his message after receiving news of the Italian announcement today that the departure of troops for east Africa was being speeded up.

The little ruler expressed confidence the league would support Ethiopia and prevent her from becoming the victim of aggression.

The declaration in the Rome communique that Ethiopia has completed mobilization with the declared intention of attacking Italian colonies caused indignation and brought bitter denials from official circles.

Authorities ridiculed reports (not carried by the Associated Press) that Haile Selassie had been advised Italian troops will advance toward Lake Tana and as a result is shifting his forces.

Heavy intermittent rains pounded down today throughout Ethiopia's towering escarpment, and some military authorities predicted they might continue into October.

The rains, falling paradoxically during the nation-wide Maskal ceremonies which pious Ethiopians declared inaugurate the dry season, un-

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Comptroller General J. R. McCarl's ruling that 1935 cotton subsidy payments may not be made through cotton cooperative associations was applauded tonight by southern cotton buyers and shippers.

Speaking for "the established cotton trade," Caffey Robertson, president of the Memphis cotton exchange, said the decision was welcomed "by every citizen interested in the perpetuation of the spirit of fair play and constitutional rights that is the keystone of our great Democracy."

He said the American Cotton Cooperative association instigated the request "that they be given preferential treatment in the distribution of parity payments."

Charging that E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the A. C. C. A. undertook to twist the issue around to "charge the established cotton trade with selfishness," he said it is "so obvious that the true facts of the case are that his organization undertook to gain an utterly unqualified buying advantage for themselves."

Robertson declared the "established cotton trade" acts as marketing representatives for at least 85 per cent of the producers and could not "sit idly by" and allow the A. C. C. A. "get away with a special government provided advantage for itself."

Charging that the A. C. C. A.'s only credentials as a representative of the farmers is that it has at some time bought one or more bales from not over 15 per cent of the cotton producers," he said the cotton trade does not object to "truly cooperative marketing" but that the history of cooperative marketing in cotton has proved that cotton producers have shown "a preponderant preference for marketing through established trade channels."

It is "rather ridiculous and certainly far-fetched," he said, for the A. C. C. A. to "presume" to speak and act "for the farmer," charging it maintains a "semblance" of cooperative marketing "by buying one or more bales from the producers, making these producers "members."

"It can readily be seen that the real purpose in demanding the ability to immediately pay, with government provided funds, the parity to their 'members' was merely to gain a distinct buying advantage which could be used by the A. C. C. A. in

32 Persons Killed And Many Injured By Winds In Cuba And Jamaica

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The following advisory was received and distributed by the weather bureau tonight:

Advisory 8:30 p.m. All warnings down Florida west coast and hurricane warnings will be lowered Miami to West Palm Beach 10 p.m. Center of tropical disturbance passing about 40 miles southeast of Miami moving north northeastward with diminished intensity but still attended by hurricane winds over small area near center.

Winds will reach hurricane force over a small area between the southeast Florida coast and the Bahamas but probably not on the mainland. No further danger Lake Okeechobee region.

Miami and south Florida waited up Saturday night as a tropical hurricane that killed at least 32 persons in Cuba and Jamaica, approached from the Atlantic.

Experienced in the ways of such disturbances, southern Florida took no chances and prepared for any eventuality.

City buildings—private and public—were boarded up and supplies laid away. Hammers and saws flew everywhere along the coast as windows were protected.

HOME IS REPORTED SOUGHT FOR FRIEND OF RUMANIAN RULER

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Unsubstantiated reports which, however, persisted today in central European circles, were to the effect that agents of King Carol of Rumania are in Vienna to find a suitable residence for his red-headed friend, Magda Lupescu.

The reports had it that a "modest palace" would do for the woman whose continued association with the king has threatened a crisis in Rumanian politics.

Some of the king's advisers, they said, felt that if Mme. Lupescu's influence were removed for a time it would quiet some of the opposition, which has grown steadily more vociferous.

It was pointed out that if she were to leave Bucharest, she might find Vienna congenial, as her mother and sister live here in seclusion.

STORM WRECKED LINER IS TOWED TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Morgan liner Dixie, which was stranded on French reef near Miami, Fla., is to arrive here tomorrow in tow of a salvage tug.

The ship is to be taken to a pier where cargo and passengers' baggage will be removed. Line officials will then inspect the boat and begin plans for its reconditioning.

'BILL' RODRIGUEZ WILL MAKE RACE

Insurance Man Announces Candidacy For Commissioner Of Finance

W. D. H. "Bill" Rodriguez, president of the Cobb-Rodriguez Insurance company, yesterday announced his candidacy for commissioner of finance and public utilities in the primary to be held on January 21. The commissionership is now held by D. A. Breard, Jr.

Although rumors have been current that there would be a contest for the various city offices, the announcement of Mr. Rodriguez is the first to be made formally.

Although he has been prominent in local business and civic circles for a number of years, Mr. Rodriguez has not sought public office before.

He was born in Franklin, Tenn., January 26, 1896, attending public schools at Nashville and Clarksville, Tenn., later attending the Sewanee Military academy at Sewanee, Tenn.

Completing his preparatory course, he matriculated at Southwestern university then located at Clarksville, but later removed to Memphis.

While attending college, the United States had trouble with Pancho Villa, the Mexican bandit, and Mr. Rodriguez went to the border with the First Tennessee infantry. Returning to the university, he again took up his studies, only to have them interrupted three weeks later when the

PUBLIC HEARING ON AAA COTTON CONTROL PROGRAM IS PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A public hearing to weigh sentiment on the AAA cotton control program has been planned for Memphis on October 11.

It will be the fourth major hearing on control policies of the farm administration.

A hearing on the corn-hog program was concluded recently in Washington. Some time ago, growers and processors aired their views on a rye control plan, and next week the AAA will hear arguments for and against the controversial potato control plan.

Hearing on AAA control programs are required under terms of the agricultural adjustment act amendments passed by the last congress.

VANDERBILT STUDENT IS SHOT BY NEGRO BURGLAR

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—James Haynes, 23-year-old Vanderbilt university student, was shot twice early today when he grappled with a negro burglar in his room at the Kappa Alpha fraternity house. One bullet struck his leg and the other lodged in his shoulder.

Other students, aroused by five pistol shots, found him lying in the hall in front of his door. He said he was awakened by a negro ransacking his room and struggled with him.

SHERMAN ADMITS ILLICIT CONDUCT

Both Sides Rest In Murder Case After Defendant Tells Of Love Affair

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 28.—(AP)—From the reluctant lips of Newell P. Sherman, husky 26-year-old choir singer, on trial here for the murder of his 22-year-old wife, the state today forced an admission of illicit relations with the other woman in the case.

In quick succession three relatives did what they could to bolster his story that the canoe drowning of his wife in lonely Lake Singletary on the night of July 20 was an accident.

Then both sides rested.

Only the final arguments on Monday of counsel and Judge Thomas J. Hammond's charge to the jury intervened between Sherman and a knowledge of his fate.

Buxom Esther Magill, 18-year-old other woman in the case, for whose love Sherman allegedly drowned the mother of their two children, yesterday refused on advice of counsel to concede her affair with the 242-pound scoutmaster had gone beyond the "hugging and kissing" stage.

At times he appeared on the verge of tears as District Attorney Owen A. Hoban demanded the truth about his relations with Miss Magill, but in the end Sherman stuck to his contention that they had sexual relations "once and only once."

But, he admitted, that was within two weeks of the time his wife expected the birth of their second son.

Yesterday he admitted to the jury that some months before his wife's death he had enjoyed a trial courtship with Miss Magill.

It was largely a story of clandestine romance with Miss Magill to whom, he admitted, he had broached the subject of marriage provided he could obtain a divorce from his wife but it included much wrangling over whether the confession the state says he signed was voluntary or not.

In the course of his testimony Sherman conceded that although he earned $23.50 a week in the Whitinsville machine shop in which both he and Miss Magill were employed, he allowed his wife only $1.25 a week plus some money for clothes.

At the same time he told of having given Miss Magill $45.

He said Miss Magill had acted as a sort of banker for him but he couldn't tell why.

Blast Shakes 30-Mile Area

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Dynamite stored in a stone quarry at West Lebanon, a mile and a half from here, exploded tonight with a terrific blast that was felt more than 30 miles away.

Police Sergeant Abram Bomberger of the Lebanon force said reports coming to police headquarters said no one was injured. The blast was felt through much of southwestern Pennsylvania. The shock broke windows as far away as Lancaster, 30 miles to the south, and Reading, an equal distance eastward.

NEW NRA WON'T HURT LITTLE MAN

Legislation Would Eliminate Small Industries, Harrison Says

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—NRA's blue eagle, if it sprouts wings again, will not fly about the head of the "little business man," Senator Pat Harrison assured the nation today.

As chairman of the senate finance committee, in whose hands will rest proposed legislation for revival of the national recovery act, Senator Harrison spoke with some authority.

"If new legislation is proposed," Senator Harrison said in discussing the NRA, "it will eliminate small industries engaged in intrastate commerce, and will apply only to industries engaged in interstate commerce, or to industries which directly effect interstate commerce."

"The very thorough investigation made by the senate finance committee during the last congress into the national recovery act administration and effects, will enable the congress to remove the inconveniences and abuses and unfair requirements against which criticism of the NRA was hurled," he continued.

"It is my hope," Senator Harrison added, "that industry itself will so conduct itself that no new legislation will be required."

"It will be recalled that just before adjournment of congress the president requested me as chairman of the finance committee to make a further study this fall of the NRA . . . to ascertain to what extent all industries were maintaining wage scales, hours of labor provisions, and fair practices of the various codes which were in operation at the time of the supreme court decision. That investigation and inquiry is constantly being made.

"There can be no doubt that reasonable wage scales, humane hours of labor and fair practices of industry should be maintained.

"The future course of the NRA depends upon the results of this investigation. It would be far better for industry and the country if the fine

WHEELER-RAYBURN ACT IS ATTACKED BY JOHN W. DAVIS

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28. — (AP) — A sharp attack on the constitutionality of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act was sounded today in United States district court by John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee.

He termed the act "the most drastic and extreme legislation ever passed in American law" and asserted its intentions were "bizarre and fantastic."

Representing the Edison Electric Institute, which brought a test suit against the holding company act jointly with the American States Public Service company, Davis said provisions of the act presented a dilemma to the latter.

If trustees of the company failed to register with the securities and exchange commission, he said, they would be subject to fine or imprisonment. If they registered, he asserted, jurisdiction of the case would be removed from the local court.

SELASSIE WARNS LEAGUE HE MAY MOBILIZE ARMY

Mussolini Lets It Be Known That He Is Accelerating War Plans

IL DUCE MAKES FRIENDLY GESTURE TOWARD BRITAIN

England Unconcerned As She Continues Plans To Increase Navy

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Italy announced she has speeded her shipment of troops to East Africa today, and in reply Emperor Haile Selassie warned the League of Nations if Rome continued its militant preparations he would be forced to call a general mobilization.

A communique after a brief session of the Italian cabinet contained friendly gestures toward Great Britain. But Premier Mussolini made it known he is not only continuing his East African campaign, but is accelerating it.

After receipt of the communique, Haile Selassie dispatched a message to Geneva protesting against Italy's military preparations and provocative attitude.

The assembly of the league adjourned, subject to instant call, while the council prepared to draft recommendations on the quarrel next week.

European attention also was centered on Memel, which will elect its diet of 29 members tomorrow. Both Germany and Lithuania are jealously watching the result.

Official London appeared unconcerned over Italy's gesture of friendship as defense preparations went forward. The first call for bids on a series of naval vessels included in the 1935 building program was issued.

In Paris, officials of the Suez Canal company, which is privately owned, indicated they would not close the vital sea link in case the league applies sanctions against Italy.

ITALY'S LEAGUE DELEGATES DEPART

GENEVA, Sept. 28—(AP)—Italy's delegation to the League of Nations startled Geneva tonight by either leaving, or preparing to leave, for Rome.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi departed, accompanied by Guido Rocco of the foreign office. Headquarters of the delegation announced the others would leave tonight or tomorrow.

If and when the delegation will return was not clear. The action created great surprise, especially in view of the communique of the Italian cabinet today saying the delegation would remain here for a period.

Aloisi yesterday had vigorously protested the action of the steering committee in recommending that the assembly adjourn, subject to immediate call, rather than end its session.

This action was carried out today. The assembly left for Rome, prepared to reassemble as an instant's notice, while the council of the league, resolved into a committee of 13, labored on its own work of making a report.

Recommendations will be drafted by the council next week. It reviewed the Italo-Ethiopian conflict today, making a basis for its work.

In some circles it was pointed that with the assembly in adjournment and the council in committee there was no reason why the Italians should not go

SENATOR LEWIS, ILL IN RUSSIA, SUFFERS RELAPSE

MOSCOW, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, who is ill here with bronchial pneumonia, suffered a slight relapse during the night but physicians said today there was still hope for his recovery.

Condition of the lungs was slightly improved and the principal concern was whether his heart could sustain the strain put upon it.

Kentucky Governor Sends Troops To Harlan County

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Ruby Laffoon today ordered national guard troops to proceed immediately to Harlan county. The governor said he was sending troops to "stop the worst reign of terror in the history of the county."

The order was issued after Adjt. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, head of the Kentucky National Guard, heard complaints of southeastern Kentucky mine labor leaders at hearings here and in Louisville. United Mine Workers of America representatives pressed their request for troops to maintain order and prevent evictions.

At Harlan, County Judge Morris Saylor denied there had been any evictions since the walkout of miners in six Harlan county coal camps Monday. Most of the Harlan county mines were reported operating. Judge Saylor described the situation as quiet with no disorders.

The decision to send national guardsmen was reached following a conference between Governor Laffoon, General Denhardt and representatives of the U. M. W. A.

General Denhardt said he did not know exactly how many troops would move into Harlan county but said he expected to have "at least" half of them there by night fall.

"Members of the union presented the governor with affidavits concerning the terrible conditions in the county," Denhardt said, "and after hearing the testimony the governor decided to protect the lives of the citizens of the county it would be necessary to send troops."

Selassie Tells League He May Mobilize All Troops

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie served notice upon Geneva tonight that if Italy continues her warlike preparations in east Africa he must, in self-defense, order a general mobilization of Ethiopia's warriors.

Italy's provocative attitude indicates an offensive is near, the king of kings told the league.

Haile Selassie sent his message after receiving news of the Italian announcement today that the departure of troops for east Africa was being speeded up.

The little ruler expressed confidence the league would support Ethiopia and prevent her from becoming the victim of aggression.

The declaration in the Rome communique that Ethiopia has completed mobilization with the declared intention of attacking Italian colonies caused indignation and brought bitter denials from official circles.

Authorities ridiculed reports (not carried by the Associated Press) that Haile Selassie had been advised Italian troops will advance toward Lake Tana and as a result is shifting his forces.

Heavy intermittent rains pounded down today throughout Ethiopia's towering escarpment, and some military authorities predicted they might continue into October.

The rains, falling paradoxically during the nation-wide Maskal ceremonies which pious Ethiopians declared inaugurate the dry season, un-

COCA COLA STOCK TO BE SPLIT UP

1,000,000 Common Shares To Be Divided Into 4,000,000 Units

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Coca-Cola company today voted to recommend to a meeting of stockholders on October 28, a split-up of the present outstanding 1,000,000 common shares into 4,000,000 shares. If approved the increased capital stock will be distributed among common stockholders of record at a date to be fixed later.

The common stock, listed on the New York stock exchange, closed today at $244 a share, up $1 from Friday's quotation.

The action of the directors had been forecast several days ago and was attributed principally to the fact that, at the present high per-share quotation, trading in the issue is greatly restricted. Officials of the company were said to believe that a wider market would be more beneficial to shareholders generally.

The existing common stock is without par value, although it is carried on the company's balance sheet at $25 a share. The Coca-Cola concern's capital and profit and loss surplus, after deducting treasury stock, amounted to $45,955,458 as of December 31, last. This included $4,000,000 assigned to the class "A" shares of no par at the rate of $5 a share.

Redemption of the class "A" stock is also understood to be under consideration. This $3 dividend issue was put out in 1929 as a dividend to common stockholders. There are 800,000 shares outstanding, including reacquired shares, callable in whole or part on any dividend date on 30 days notice at $52.50.

DEPUTY ARRESTED IN CREMPA DEATH

Officer Charged With Manslaughter For Killing New Jersey Woman

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Charles Remley, of Cranford, was arrested today and charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Sophie Crempa, who was slain by gunfire when a sheriff's posse raided the Crempa Scotch Plains home.

Remley was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Adrian McManus and ordered held in $5,000 bail for the action of the grand jury. Bail was posted by Deputy Sheriff Thomas L. Carey.

Prosecutor Abe J. David, who is directing the investigation of the fatal shooting Thursday, said Remley was the only deputy armed with a shotgun and added that the slugs which killed Mrs. Crempa came from Remley's gun.

David, who will present the case to the grand jury Oct. 8, dismissed the charges of deputies that Mrs. Crempa was armed when she was shot down on her front porch. "Nothing in the statements made in my office convinces me that Mrs. Crempa had a gun," he said.

The shooting occurred when a party of seven deputies descended on the Crempa Scotch Plains property to arrest John Crempa for contempt of court because he had disregarded an injunction prohibiting him from damaging and interfering with the Public Service Gas and Electric company high tension lines passing over his land.

Crempa, twice wounded in the raid, from his bed in the Elizabeth General hospital, told Rev. R. H. Mikolon, of Plainfield, so the clergyman said, that the deputies had shot his wife and him down without provocation.

"No one in the house shot at anyone outside," the minister quoted Crempa as saying.

ELECTRIC CHAIR CLAIMS TWO MEN

Arkansas Youths Pay Extreme Penalty For Separate Slayings

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Bill Barnes, 21, and Paul Nelson, 23, were put to death in the electric chair early today for separate 1934 murders alleged to have been prompted by robbery motives.

Victims in both cases were beaten to death.

Barnes was one of three persons charged with the slaying last october in a robbery which netted 40 cents. His father, Frank Barnes, 50, paid the death penalty in the same chair several months ago. A brother, Archie, arrested with them, has never been brought to trial.

Nelson was convicted of slaying B. F. Mitchell, 75-year-old recluse at the latter's home near Newport in May, 1934. Three other persons were charged in this case, one winning acquittal. The others have never been tried.

"Oh God, I am an innocent man," Nelson prayed aloud as he knelt beside the electric chair here this morning in the presence of prison officials and official witnesses at the executions.

"This is the truth," he said. "Oh Heavenly Father, make the people realize the mistake they are making in taking my life."

As he sat in the chair—an ordinary household chair wired with the death carrying electrodes—his last words were: "I hope this is an easy death for me."

He died within six minutes after the current had been thrown into the chair four times.

"I am going like a man," said Barnes a moment later as he entered the execution chamber, telling all present goodby, he said he did not believe he had received a fair trial.

Both men went to the chair unassisted.

Ten minutes before the executions, the Rev. C. W. Holmes of Pine Bluff telephoned Governor Futrell from the death house in an effort to obtain clemency for the two young men. The governor, who had previously postponed the executions to study the cases, said he would not interfere.

BIDS FOR PUMP STATION ASKED

Project For West Monroe Planned; To Open Proposals Oct. 15

Announcement has just been made that on Oct. 15, at the offices of the Gravity Drainage district No. 1, of Ouachita parish, bids will be opened for the construction of "Project B," comprising a pump station for West Monroe. Members of the board of commissioners who will have charge of the letting of the contract are T. L. Hood, chairman; Sam Humphries, Dick Wheelis, D. C. Metcalf and Sam Norris.

Plans and specification for the system proposed, which will cost an estimated $60,000, will comprise two units having a maximum capacity of six million gallons of water per hour.

Need of the construction of this system is pointed out by engineers who say that in time of severe rain, when the river is high, and culverts are closed, water will collect inside the levee in West Monroe. The gravity drainage system proposed is to throw this water back over the levee into the river. Location of the proposed pump station will be at Black bayou, the lowest point in the vicinity of West Monroe.

SIX MEN INDICTED FOR STRIKE BATTLE SLAYING

ROME, Ga., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Murder indictments were returned against six men today in the slaying here September 14 of Fred Reed, during a gun battle between workers and pickets at the Rome Stove and Range company.

Reed was shot to death near the stove company plant as guns blazed after labor troubles at the plant.

Rome police said the trouble arose after the company brought in workers from outside of Rome to take the places of men who quit their jobs.

Murder charges against 13 men were dismissed in justice court here September 20 after the state failed to enter an appearance at a preliminary hearing.

BIBLE CLASS TO LAY ANNUAL RALLY PLANS

Plans for the annual rally day, to be held Sunday, October 6, will be formulated at the regular session of the Frank P. Will Of Prince Alexis Is Filed At New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The late Prince Alexis Mdivani, who was killed last August 2 in an automobile accident in Spain, divided his residuary estate equally among his divorced wife, the former Barbara Hut on, and his brothers and two sisters, it was disclosed today with the filing of his will.

The probate petition in surrogate's court formally valued the estate at "more than $10,000."

The residue includes two trust funds created for the prince on January 2, 1934, the day before the testament was executed.

Attorneys for the estate declined to divulge the amount of the principal of the funds, or to comment upon reports that they had been given to the prince as a marriage dowry.

The will said that the residue "expressly includes the principals of two certain trust funds created for me bearing date January 2, 1934, under the first of which the City Bank Farmers Trust company and Millard F. Thompkins are designated as trustees and under the second of which the Chase bank and said Millard F. Tompkins are designated as trustees."

The prince and the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to five-and-ten-cents store millions, were divorced last May 15. She obtained a decree in Reno, charging cruelty.

A month later she became the Countess Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, of Denmark.

The prince's two brothers, Serge, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and David, of Santa Monica, Calif., also share equally his interest in the Pacific Shore Oil Company, Limited, and the Pan-Tex Oil corporation.

The sisters are Boussadanna Sert, of Bourbon, Paris, and Nina Huberlich, also of Paris.

THREE FARM DEBT ADJUSTERS NAMED

District Supervisors For Three States Are Also Appointed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Appointment of three state farm debt adjustment specialists and district supervisors for Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, were announced today by A. L. Gabler, sixth district regional chief of the farm debt adjustment unit of the resettlement administration.

Subject to approval by Washington, Gabler named as specialists: J. M. Hewitt, Little Rock, for Arkansas; E. R. Hodgson of Jackson, for Mississippi; and C. C. Fernandez, Baton Rouge for Louisiana.

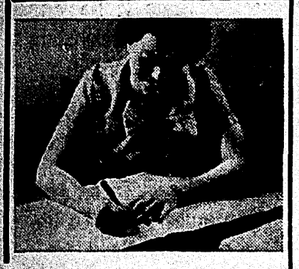

A. C. Stover, Morrilton, will be one of the two district adjustment supervisors for Arkansas, the other place to be filled later.

John Dickenson, Kentwood, and Charles Ewartzenberger, Marksville, will be district supervisors in Louisiana; and John Bennett, Yazoo City, and John Gibson, D'Lo, will serve in similar capacities in Mississippi.

All the appointees will work with state and county debt adjustment advisory committees to aid distressed farmers and their creditors to solve debt problems.

COCA COLA STOCK TO BE SPLIT UP

1,000,000 Common Shares To Be Divided Into 4,000,000 Units

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Coca-Cola company today voted to recommend to a meeting of stockholders on October 28, a split-up of the present outstanding 1,000,000 common shares into 4,000,000 shares. If approved the increased capital stock will be distributed among common stockholders of record at a date to be fixed later.

The common stock, listed on the New York stock exchange, closed today at $244 a share, up $1 from Friday's quotation.

The action of the directors had been forecast several days ago and was attributed principally to the fact that, at the present high per-share quotation, trading in the issue is greatly restricted. Officials of the company were said to believe that a wider market would be more beneficial to shareholders generally.

The existing common stock is without par value, although it is carried on the company's balance sheet at $25 a share. The Coca-Cola concern's capital and profit and loss surplus, after deducting treasury stock, amounted to $45,955,458 as of December 31, last. This included $4,000,000 assigned to the class "A" shares of no par at the rate of $5 a share.

Redemption of the class "A" stock is also understood to be under consideration. This $3 dividend issue was put out in 1929 as a dividend to common stockholders. There are 800,000 shares outstanding, including reacquired shares, callable in whole or part on any dividend date on 30 days notice at $52.50.

DEPUTY ARRESTED IN CREMPA DEATH

Officer Charged With Manslaughter For Killing New Jersey Woman

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Charles Remley, of Cranford, was arrested today and charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Sophie Crempa, who was slain by gunfire when a sheriff's posse raided the Crempa Scotch Plains home.

Remley was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Adrian McManus and ordered held in $5,000 bail for the action of the grand jury. Bail was posted by Deputy Sheriff Thomas L. Carey.

Prosecutor Abe J. David, who is directing the investigation of the fatal shooting Thursday, said Remley was the only deputy armed with a shotgun and added that the slugs which killed Mrs. Crempa came from Remley's gun.

David, who will present the case to the grand jury Oct. 8, dismissed the charges of deputies that Mrs. Crempa was armed when she was shot down on her front porch. "Nothing in the statements made in my office convinces me that Mrs. Crempa had a gun," he said.

The shooting occurred when a party of seven deputies descended on the Crempa Scotch Plains property to arrest John Crempa for contempt of court because he had disregarded an injunction prohibiting him from damaging and interfering with the Public Service Gas and Electric company high tension lines passing over his land.

Crempa, twice wounded in the raid, from his bed in the Elizabeth General hospital, told Rev. R. H. Mikolon, of Plainfield, so the clergyman said, that the deputies had shot his wife and him down without provocation.

"No one in the house shot at anyone outside," the minister quoted Crempa as saying.

ELECTRIC CHAIR CLAIMS TWO MEN

Arkansas Youths Pay Extreme Penalty For Separate Slayings

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Bill Barnes, 21, and Paul Nelson, 23, were put to death in the electric chair early today for separate 1934 murders alleged to have been prompted by robbery motives.

Victims in both cases were beaten to death.

Barnes was one of three persons charged with the slaying last october in a robbery which netted 40 cents. His father, Frank Barnes, 50, paid the death penalty in the same chair several months ago. A brother, Archie, arrested with them, has never been brought to trial.

Nelson was convicted of slaying B. F. Mitchell, 75-year-old recluse at the latter's home near Newport in May, 1934. Three other persons were charged in this case, one winning acquittal. The others have never been tried.

"Oh God, I am an innocent man," Nelson prayed aloud as he knelt beside the electric chair here this morning in the presence of prison officials and official witnesses at the executions.

"This is the truth," he said. "Oh Heavenly Father, make the people realize the mistake they are making in taking my life."

As he sat in the chair—an ordinary household chair wired with the death carrying electrodes—his last words were: "I hope this is an easy death for me."

He died within six minutes after the current had been thrown into the chair four times.

"I am going like a man," said Barnes a moment later as he entered the execution chamber, telling all present goodby, he said he did not believe he had received a fair trial.

Both men went to the chair unassisted.

Ten minutes before the executions, the Rev. C. W. Holmes of Pine Bluff telephoned Governor Futrell from the death house in an effort to obtain clemency for the two young men. The governor, who had previously postponed the executions to study the cases, said he would not interfere.

DR. F. C. MORGAN TO LECTURE HERE

BIDS FOR PUMP STATION ASKED

Project For West Monroe Planned; To Open Proposals Oct. 15

Announcement has just been made that on Oct. 15, at the offices of the Gravity Drainage district No. 1, of Ouachita parish, bids will be opened for the construction of "Project B," comprising a pump station for West Monroe. Members of the board of commissioners who will have charge of the letting of the contract are T. L. Hood, chairman; Sam Humphries, Dick Wheelis, D. C. Metcalf and Sam Norris.

Plans and specification for the system proposed, which will cost an estimated $60,000, will comprise two units having a maximum capacity of six million gallons of water per hour.

Need of the construction of this system is pointed out by engineers who say that in time of severe rain, when the river is high, and culverts are closed, water will collect inside the levee in West Monroe. The gravity drainage system proposed is to throw this water back over the levee into the river. Location of the proposed pump station will be at Black bayou, the lowest point in the vicinity of West Monroe.

SIX MEN INDICTED FOR STRIKE BATTLE SLAYING

ROME, Ga., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Murder indictments were returned against six men today in the slaying here September 14 of Fred Reed, during a gun battle between workers and pickets at the Rome Stove and Range company.

Reed was shot to death near the stove company plant as guns blazed after labor troubles at the plant.

Rome police said the trouble arose after the company brought in workers from outside of Rome to take the places of men who quit their jobs.

Murder charges against 13 men were dismissed in justice court here September 20 after the state failed to enter an appearance at a preliminary hearing.

BIBLE CLASS TO LAY ANNUAL RALLY PLANS

Plans for the annual rally day, to be held Sunday, October 6, will be formulated at the regular session of the Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class at the Paramount theater this morning, it was announced Saturday by R. M. Troy, president of the class. The rally day program will initiate an attendance contest, which is to be conducted during the next three months amongst the membership of the class.

Today's services will begin at 9:45 a. m. Following the meeting the members of the class will attend the first of the services to be conducted at the First Presbyterian church by Dr. F. Crossley Morgan, famed Bible scholar, who is to give a series of lectures during the week.

Whaling was the first important maritime industry of Long Island, beginning in the sixteenth century at East Hampton and Southampton.

Will Of Prince Alexis Is Filed At New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The late Prince Alexis Mdivani, who was killed last August 2 in an automobile accident in Spain, divided his residuary estate equally among his divorced wife, the former Barbara Hutton, and his brothers and two sisters, it was disclosed today with the filing of his will.

The probate petition in surrogate's court formally valued the estate at "more than $10,000."

The residue includes two trust funds created for the prince on January 2, 1934, the day before the testament was executed.

Attorneys for the estate declined to divulge the amount of the principal of the funds, or to comment upon reports that they had been given to the prince as a marriage dowry.

The will said that the residue "expressly includes the principals of two certain trust funds created for me bearing date January 2, 1934, under the first of which the City Bank Farmers Trust company and Millard F. Thompkins are designated as trustees and under the second of which the Chase bank and said Millard F. Tompkins are designated as trustees."

The prince and the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to five-and-ten-cents store millions, were divorced last May 15. She obtained a decree in Reno, charging cruelty.

A month later she became the Countess Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, of Denmark.

The prince's two brothers, Serge, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and David, of San'a Monica, Calif., also share equally his interest in the Pacific Shore Oil Company, Limited, and the Pan-Tex Oil corporation.

The sisters are Boussadanna Sert, of Bourbon, Paris, and Nina Huberich, also of Paris.

'MONROE NIGHT' TO BE OBSERVED

Mayor Arnold Bernstein Will Be Chief Speaker At Booster Club

"Monroe Night" will be observed by the Missouri Pacific Booster club at a meeting to be held at the club house in Monroe Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Mayor Arnold Bernstein will be the principal speaker of the evening, and talks will be made by other city officials and prominent railroad men who will come to Monroe from St. Louis.

Music will be furnished by a 32-piece band and there will be a number of other entertainment features. Refreshments also will be served.

THREE FARM DEBT ADJUSTERS NAMED

District Supervisors For Three States Are Also Appointed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Appointment of three state farm debt adjustment specialists and district supervisors for Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, were announced today by A. L. Gabler, sixth district regional chief of the farm debt adjustment unit of the resettlement administration.

Subject to approval by Washington, Gabler named as specialists: J. M. Hewitt, Little Rock, for Arkansas; E. R. Hodgson of Jackson, for Mississippi; and C. C. Fernandez, Baton Rouge for Louisiana.

A. C. Stover, Morrilton, will be one of the two district adjustment supervisors for Arkansas, the other place to be filled later.

John Dickenson, Kentwood, and Charles Ewartzenberger, Marksville, will be district supervisors in Louisiana; and John Bennett, Yazoo City, and John Gibson, D'Lo, will serve in similar capacities in Mississippi.

All the appointees will work with state and county debt adjustment advisory committees to aid distressed farmers and their creditors to solve debt problems.

The word "tabu" is of Polynesian origin and was first introduced to English speaking people by Captain Cook in the eighteenth century.

RED CROSS PLANS CONFERENCE HERE

Series Of Whirlwind Roll Call Meetings To Be Held In State

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(Special)—A series of seven whirlwind roll call conferences is planned for Red Cross chapters in Louisiana, it was announced at national headquarters here today. The schedule for the conferences is as follows:

Monroe, Monday, September 30.

Minden, Tuesday, October 1.

Lake Charles, Wednesday evening, October 2.

Lafayette, Thursday, October 3.

New Orleans, Friday, October 4.

The speaker from national headquarters will be Robert E. Bondy, Red Cross director of disaster relief, who will speak at the luncheon or dinner conference in each of the seven cities. His subject will be "Devise and Carry On," and the talk will deal with present Red Cross objectives of cutting down accidents in the home, on the farm and on the highway. He has been active in developing the plans through which this campaign is to be pressed in Red Cross chapters all over the United States, and his talk will be of timely interest in the state.

Red Cross leaders who are prominent in Louisiana chapters will have important places on the programs of all the conferences. A roll call clinic will be given over to a discussion of plans the chapters have for reaching the goals set for them in the roll call campaign this autumn. A skit illustrating roll call preparations and activities will be given at all of the conferences.

At the closing session of each meeting the Red Cross film will be shown. The film, "The Greatest Mother," was issued during the past summer, and it represents all phases of the Red Cross program. It has been reported as a successful feature on theater programs all over the country.

IN NEW ROLE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 28.—Acclaimed by critics as "America's first lady of song," Grace Moore is now delighting radio listeners every Monday night in a new series of unusual broadcasts. NEW EXTENSION COURSE PLANNED

Physical Education Work Proposed By Louisiana State University

A Louisiana State university course in physical education will be given in Monroe this fall, it was assured at a meeting held Saturday morning in the auditorium of the Ouachita parish grammar school, which was attended by principals of all elementary schools and all fifth grade teachers of Ouachita parish.

Dr. Douglas Williams, director of the Ouachita parish health unit, outlined his plans for the coming year, while Miss Bernice Wright, secretary of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association, told of the work of that group.

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, secretary of the parish Red Cross chapter, told of plans to safeguard life as proposed by the Red Cross. Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of the Monroe Recreation department, discussed plans for recreation here.

A representative of the extension course from Louisiana State university failed to attend but he sent a telegram assuring that a course in physical education will be held here shortly.

The aborigines of Tasmania, who belonged to the early stone and wood age, are now extinct.

Louisiana's Only Indian School In New Building

JENA, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Louisiana's only Indian school boasts a new building.

Uncle Sam, "the great white father," came to the rescue of his Louisiana red children and through the federal emergency relief administration and with the cooperation of the LaSalle parish school board, supplied necessary funds for the erection of a suitable school building and the purchase of suitable equipment.

The school, located on the Trout-Pollack highway, near the Indian settlement at Eden, opened this week with an enrollment of 20, the students ranging in age from 5 to 23 years.

Mrs. Charles Renick, who has been in charge of the school since its organization three years ago, is again the teacher.

All of the students are members of the Choctaw race. Since the early Choctaws came to this parish from Mississippi, the school is under the direction of the government day schools of that state.

Too proud to attend the negro schools and apparently not wanted at the white schools, the Indians had little education until the federal government stepped in.

This year the government will finance the expenses of the school and has guaranteed a full nine months term.

The star pupil of the school is only in the high second grade but Mrs. Panick says that the student body as a whole shows an inclination to learn and that with a full nine months term in prospect she believes they will show marked improvement.

A New Orleans family returned from a night at the movies to discover that during their absence a 15-foot magnolia tree had been dug up and removed from their yard.

ASSISTANT GIVEN TO PARISH AGENT

Weldon W. Cos Assumes New Duties As Aide In Demonstration Work

MARION, Sept. 28.—(Special)—Weldon W. Cox has been appointed assistant parish demonstration agent for Union parish by the extension department of Louisiana, and has assumed his duties. The extension division recently decided to appoint assistants in parishes having the largest number of boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18, and Union parish is one of 12 having sufficient boys and girls of the ages required to justify the appointment of an assistant. There are 4,447 boys and girls of the required age in the parish. Mr. Cox is a graduate of the agricultural department of the state university and has served as teacher of agriculture in Jefferson parish. His duties will be to give special attention to the 4-H clubs and stimulate interest in community and parish fairs, as well as assisting Parish Agent J. V. Rabb in general demonstration work.

Friday was arraignment day in the criminal court of Union parish, at which time the following cases were set for trial: O. C. O'Neal, practicing medicine without license, set for trial Nov. 22; Grady Hollis, breaking and entering in night time with intent to steal. Case set for Oct. 21; Bill Wall, false swearing, set for Oct. 22; Lonnie Hendrex, negro, charged with murdering Ophelia Jenson near Marion on Aug. 4, case set for Oct. 23; L. G. Gaston, negro, manslaughter, case set for Oct. 24; Willie Herndon, negro, attempting to administer poison with intent to murder, set for trial on Oct. 22; Boots McGuire, negro, breaking and entering garage in night time with intent to steal, and Willie Washington, negro, shooting with intent to kill, case set for trial Oct. 21.

RED CROSS PLANS CONFERENCE HERE

Series Of Whirlwind Roll Call Meetings To Be Held In State

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(Special)—A series of seven whirlwind roll call conferences is planned for Red Cross chapters in Louisiana, it was announced at national headquarters here today. The schedule for the conferences is as follows:

Monroe, Monday, September 30.

Minden, Tuesday, October 1.

Lake Charles, Wednesday evening, October 2.

Lafayette, Thursday, October 3.

New Orleans, Friday, October 4.

The speaker from national headquarters will be Robert E. Bondy, Red Cross director of disaster relief, who will speak at the luncheon or dinner conference in each of the seven cities. His subject will be "Devise and Carry On," and the talk will deal with present Red Cross objectives of cutting down accidents in the home, on the farm and on the highway. He has been active in developing the plans through which this campaign is to be pressed in Red Cross chapters all over the United States, and his talk will be of timely interest in the state.

Red Cross leaders who are prominent in Louisiana chapters will have important places on the programs of all the conferences. A roll call clinic will be given over to a discussion of plans the chapters have for reaching the goals set for them in the roll call campaign this autumn. A skit illustrating roll call preparations and activities will be given at all of the conferences.

At the closing session of each meeting the Red Cross film will be shown. The film, "The Greatest Mother," was issued during the past summer, and it represents all phases of the Red Cross program. It has been reported as a successful feature on theater programs all over the country.

IN NEW ROLE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 28.—Acclaimed by critics as "America's first lady of song," Grace Moore is now delighting radio listeners every Monday night in a new series of unusual broadcasts. In addition to singing several familiar songs, Miss Moore participates during each program with a group of Hollywood actors in brief dramatic sketches of episodes in her colorful career—from church choir soprano in Jellico, Tenn., to international star of the screen, concert, opera and radio. The new program will be broadcast from Hollywood over a coast-to-coast network every Monday evening at 8:30 central standard time.

NEW EXTENSION COURSE PLANNED

Physical Education Work Proposed By Louisiana State University

A Louisiana State university course in physical education will be given in Monroe this fall, it was assured at a meeting held Saturday morning in the auditorium of the Ouachita parish grammar school, which was attended by principals of all elementary schools and all fifth grade teachers of Ouachita parish.

Dr. Douglas Williams, director of the Ouachita parish health unit, outlined his plans for the coming year, while Miss Bernice Wright, secretary of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association, told of the work of that group.

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, secretary of the parish Red Cross chapter, told of plans to safeguard life as proposed by the Red Cross. Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of the Monroe Recreation department, discussed plans for recreation here.

A representative of the extension course from Louisiana State university failed to attend but he sent a telegram assuring that a course in physical education will be held here shortly.

The aborigines of Tasmania, who belonged to the early stone and wood age, are now extinct.

Cultivate A Pleasant Personality

Of all the many little things which make a difference in one's contacts with people and cause unpleasant reactions, there are two much more important than people realize. One, of course, is the flabby handshake without character and meaning, and so without reason. The other is the tone of one's voice.

There are many really lovable, fine people, who, because of carelessness in this respect, make subconscious enemies before ever they have had a chance to make friends, or they defeat themselves in business and other ways by an entirely unintentional but most unfortunate manner of speaking. Sometimes the root of the matter is self-consciousness, sometimes just a bad habit. But always there's a total lack of understanding of what a difference it makes.

There are those who answer the telephone as if offering or resenting a deadly insult, those who say "how do you do" as if it hurt them, those who are so snippy they leave the greeted wondering what they could have done to offend, those who earn for themselves the accusation of being "stuck up," those whose discouraged, monotonous manner of speech daunts the most intrepid, those who are harsh, crude, rough—in fact, there is no end to the sins the voice can commit. Yet it is one of the most useful instruments we have. For the tone, the inflection we put into mere spoken words is what really matters.

Run through your own mind. There are certain people who will stand out instinctively as pleasant, fine, cordial and so on. And, invariably, if you think about it a minute, they seem so to you because, first of all, they laid the foundation of your liking with their voices and manner of speaking. You've classed them by that—the sunny-voiced, the cheerful, the warm and hearty, the well-modulated, the cordial, the sincere, and so on.

Unfortunately, by the same token, you also class the unpleasant and instantly dislike them. Very often you're wrong about these. They're misunderstood because of their failure to realize the importance of adjusting their manner of speech and the tones of their voices. They don't know themselves what causes the unpopularity they grieve over, though it is within their own power to change.

So listen to yourself when you speak and compare your voice with the voices of those who charm you. Cultivate those charms in your own speech and root out the faults as fast as you find them. Even the so-called "natural" timbre of a voice often turns out to be mere sloppiness curable by training and it's all well worth the effort. Just add to it a hearty handshake that really means something and see what happens.

THAT CIVIL WAR

The feud that Germany has carried on with France is just small potatoes compared with the deep-seated enmity between the surviving forces of the Civil war veterans. Europe does not begin to possess a country that has so consistently refused to be reunited in spirit with a former foe.

Now as the veterans of '61 grow few in number and as their faltering steps grow weaker, there is a movement under way to effect a reunion between the Blue and the Gray at Gettysburg in 1938. The Confederate forces say they will come north provided they are permitted to carry with them the flag under which they fought.

The north is proud of the men that fought for the preservation of the Union in that bloody war, and the south is equally proud of the men that served under the Stars and the Bars. But it would seem at this time that further bickering between those surviving forces is foolish and it certainly does little to break down the sectional barriers. Northerners and southerners fought side by side in the Spanish-American war and they did the same in the World war. It is high time that they shook hands and shared their reminiscences. The Civil war ended in 1865.

MORE BOONDOGGLING

Pause for a moment, dear reader, to hear the strange tale of the little town of Palmero, N. D.

Palmero's only school building burned down a short time ago. The community, willing to pay its proportionate share, sought a WPA loan with which to build a new structure.

The appeal was turned down by WPA authorities at Washington. Palmero, it seems, is in greater need of a golf course and a bird sanctuary, both of which are to be constructed without any local aid.

If this is a sample of the manner in which the $4,880,000,000 fund is going to be expended, then the nation might just as well fold up and quit.

But then, we may be mistaken. Perhaps Palmero's golf fiends and feathered visitors are more important than mere children of school age.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

RESISTING A TEMPTATION

(On being told that some young college undergraduates pay their expenses by raising chickens)

Young man, or young maid, if you hope to succeed
In the gruelling battle for knowledge,
Crate some smart Plymouth Rocks
In a trunk or a box
When you start on your journey to college.
In fact any species of chickens will do
Even those that roost 'round upon fences;
Make every one lay
An egg every day
And they soon will pay all your expenses.

You may have to put up a few kopecks for grain;
You must build them a warm habitation;
You may have to find out
Quite a little about
The poulterer's tricky vocation.
Your job won't be done till the set of the sun,
You cannot wear shiny, white collars;
But stick to your task,
That is all that I ask,
And you soon will be piling up dollars.

Were I still a youth, I'd endeavor mystelf
Thus to lighten the load that I carry;
But a life lived with hens
In or out of their pens
I fancy would not be so merry.
The plan is a good one, I freely concede,
It doubtless brings peace and enjoyment;
But I know I shall find
More contentment of mind
If I stick to my present employment.

WARNING

Mr. Mussolini had better be just a bit careful. A lot of those wars lack terminal facilities.

HERE IS PROGRESS

The treasury deficit for July and August reached $671,812,773.00. With good luck and hard work, the administration ought to be able to double that in another twelvemonth.

Few Of Us Are Sane

BY BRUCE CATTON

One of the reasons why reading the newspapers is a joy is the fact that every so often they pop up with a story like the one about the crazy man in Kankakee, Ill.

It isn't quite right to call him a crazy man, at that, because he seems to have had right good sense. But, anyway, he was confined in an asylum, having been sent there on petition of his father; and he finally won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus after he had shown that, although supposedly off his base mentally, he had made $75,000 speculating in stocks.

"No man," remarked the judge, "can make that much money these days on the stock market and be insane."

So, logically enough, he adjudged the man sane and freed him.

• • •

Solomon himself could hardly have turned in a sounder ruling. But if the judge's standard is to apply in all similar cases, we may be obliged to build rows upon rows of new asylums for the insane, for the ruling cuts both ways.

That is to say, if you can figure a man's mental capacity by the things he does, and not by the way he responds to some psychiatrist's tests, which of us is safe?

How about the good American (whose name is legion) who went to the stock market in September, 1929, when stocks were all set to fall over the cliff of their own weight, and bought heavily on margin in expectation of a continued rise? What section of the booby hatch does he occupy?

How about the chap who believed all that talk about a new era of high prices, or the man who rushed forth to buy when the Rockefellers, shortly after the crash, announced that they were loading up with good common stocks?

• • •

How about the man who innocently entrusted his money to Mr. Insull, the lad who financed the Kreuger swindle, or the investor who bought Allegheny Corp. at 50?

Or—to get away from the stock market—what shall we do with the citizen who figured that the way to get over the depression was to pretend that private charity could go right on handling the needs of 10,000,000 unemployed?

What about the men who find it logical to reduce the output of food at a time when millions don't have enough to eat? How about the people who want to see wages cut when we suffer from lack of purchasing power?

Maybe we'd better not carry this sort of thing any farther. Once we start judging our mental capacity by the imbecilic things we do, we are apt to find ourselves parading off to the loony bin by platoons. So very, very few of the things we do these days make sense.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—The president, sitting in a large, air-cooled circular office, is more or less insulated from contacts with the outside world.

But he must know by now, as he contemplates what seems to be the wreckage of his dearly beloved public utility holding company bill, that:

His confidential secretary, Marvin McIntyre, was found by investigators in a hotel room with one of the most active and effective paid lobbyists against that bill—on which he had forced a test of administration strength in congress.

• • •

Friends Fail to Help

His former law partner, Basil O'Connor—with whom he had had closer business relations than with any other man—had received $25,000 or more from Associated Gas & Electric, which spent at least a million dollars to beat the bill.

His administration's most vigorous top-rank leader in the house, John J. O'Connor—brother of Basil—is attacked by friends of the bill as one of its most effective enemies.

Two senators to whose presence here he contributed conspicuously—Burke of Nebraska (whose prestige F. D. enhanced greatly by quoting Burke's "definition of the New Deal" in his Green Bay speech, but who both voted and lobbied against the bill) and Chavez of New Mexico (for whom F. D. stultified himself by supporting his candidacy against the late Bronson Cutting) turned him down on the senate vote.

At least three of his political generals in the last campaign—Ex-National Committeemen Bob Jackson of New Hampshire, Bruce Kremer of Montana and Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, all friends of McIntyre and all recipients of numerous favors from this administration—were paid by holding companies to fight the bill.

• • •

"Cleanup" Demanded

All these incidents may make no impression on the president, who is a very great optimist. And in considering them it isn't necessary to accept bitter accusations by New Dealers of "betrayal" or to comment favorably or adversely on the ethics of McIntyre and the others named. (You can believe, if you like, that those fellows are only trying to save F. D. from his own worst instincts.)

But they do call to mind simultaneously the recent remark to this writer by a White House insider that if Roosevelt were politically ruined the fault would be that of "friends" to whom he remained loyal, the fact that they indicate a serious weakness in the administration and the news that they have helped bring on an under-cover campaign by New Deal liberals for an administration "clean-out."

Roosevelt may not have heard of this campaign yet. But he soon will.

It is directed most of all against McIntyre, the slender, white-haired man of 57 years who guards the president's inner door, controlling Roosevelt's visiting list and the matters which are laid before him.

• • •

McIntyre's Weakness

The lobbyists have done their worst by this genial, friendly, happy, fun-loving—and naive—man. Doubtless every presidential secretary ever known has had associates among lobbyists, but usually with discretion. McIntyre is mad about social life—not the formal, stuffy official society of Washington, but the gay, informal, vinous night life which lobbyists often use to such gainful purpose.

And the lobbyists took advantage of that weakness, entertaining "Mac" publicly and semi-publicly—as if anxious to be seen with him—until purists of the town came to consider the show a major scandal.

Shipbuilding, naval supply and "power trust" lobbyists were especially conspicuous among the secretary's associates.

• • •

In "Enemy" Camp

A climax came when senate investigators and newspapermen hunting Associated Gas & Electric's master mind H. C. Hopson found McIntyre in the hotel room of Bernard Robinson, one of Hopson's chief lobbyists, with Robinson, Assistant Secretary "Chip" Robert and Amon Carter, Texas publishers.

Alternating threats and pleas to newspapermen did no good. The story was printed. McIntyre had lunch with Robinson the day after the "raid" in the main dining room of the Mayflower hotel.

Later on the night of the "raid," I was mentioning to "Mac" the widespread criticism as to his friendships with lobbyists and he said:

"You know the answer to that. I'm friendly with everybody."

But that answer isn't enough for liberals and progressives in the government who accuse "Mac" of misusing his job for benefit of special interests and reactionary politicians. They're grimly determined to "get" him, and may succeed.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK—The big town is beautiful, seen from the air when a friendly dusk curtains its drabness but allows myriad millions of lights to delineate its sprawling outlines.

The plane from New Orleans came in high, and we circled a couple of times while traffic was cleared from the field below. Even the tall, blond pilot next to me on the aisle, who had dead-headed the trip from Atlanta, seemed impressed by the twinkling panorama. "Pretty swell," I tritely suggested.

"Okay from this altitude," he agreed. "But when we get on the ground, you can have New York. I know this town, and I'd trade it for any one of the farms we've flown over today. That's a funny thing about pilots; nearly every one I know is buying a farm to retire on.

"Why, living in New York is more dangerous than flying. Did you know that? You can have the noise and the rush and the dirt. And the people, too—the real New Yorkers, I mean. It seems to me they're almost a race apart from the rest of the country. And the people on Broadway—they'e like men from Mars!"

Well, I wouldn't be so sure of that. But the flyer's ideas did set me mentally to listing traits and habits peculiar to the natives of Gotham. One of the things an observer must notice is the dead-pan mask. Early in life a New Yorker develops a vacant expression for wearing in public, and allows nothing to jar him out of his stolid composure.

Occasionally your correspondent has so far relaxed while riding in the subway as to snicker aloud over a funny book. Each time I have glanced up to find fellow passengers regarding me uneasily, as though wondering whether to move into another car or get off at the next station and phone for a wagon from Bellevue.

Exigencies of city life have made them perfectly regimented. They line up automatically and patiently await their turns at subway turnstiles, bank windows, cafeteria counters and box offices. They stand uncomplainingly for hours in the lobbies of movie theaters waiting to be seated. Similarly imposed upon, any other group of self-respecting citizens would demand their money back, or would tear down the theater in righteous ire, or both. Visiting police officials have agreed that New York crowds are the most docile in the world.

Sucker Center

Gothamites allow themselves to be swindled by street peddlers, taxi drivers who pretend never to have change for a dollar, gyp auctioneers, beggars who obviously are undeserving and night club waiters. They sit in awe of waiters who happen to know a few words of French, but derive no comfort from being able to speak better English than the men who serve them.

Your typical New Yorker permits himself to be mauled and bullied unmercifully by subway guards. Sometimes he feels like mutiny against the harsh routine of metropolitan living, but he never deserts. He hasn't a vestige of civic pride, and is perfectly willing to agree with any critic that New York is a terrible town.

• • •

Distasteful

Given plenty of time to reach a destination in a local subway train, he'll always join the mad scramble to catch an express. Two minutes before the train reaches his station he'll rise and stand before a door so that he can be one of the first out. While waiting for a train he moves idly along before the slot machines, pushing all the plungers in the hope that a free stick of gum will fall.

On the street, he swears bitterly at the drivers of careening taxis and trucks, but after chartering a taxi he always tells the chauffeur to step on it. He jay-walks, and gets a thrill out of reaching the opposite curb with a whole skin. Crossing a one-way street, he looks first in the direction of traffic, then casts a furtive glance the opposite way. He knows perfectly well that no cars possibly could come from that direction, but he makes a small sacrifice to human fallibility. New Yorkers don't trust anything, not even the cosmic scheme.

VETERANS' RALLY TO BE HELD TUESDAY NIGHT

A veteran's rally will be held at Winnsboro, Tuesday night, October 1, to which members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars from posts at Monroe, Bastrop and Rayville are invited. Also all overseas veterans of Franklin parish are urged to attend.

There will be a class of recruits to be obligated. The meeting will be preceded by a parade by the Rodney J. Hobbs drum corps and speakers from the local post will include C. E. McKenzie, Ray B. Griffin and William Rodriguez. A barbecue will be served.

The local delegation will leave the clubrooms, Hall and Harrison streets, at 6 p. m. in the post bus.

And when they say a thing like that in Japan they mean it.

THE LEAGUE, saying to Mussolini "If you fight Ethiopia, the league will fight you," waited until Mussolini had gone too far to withdraw without disaster.

A serious decision rests with Mussolini. A most serious step has already been taken by England, one, not taken in the case of Japan's Manchukuo contest. Italy and other European nations may learn from wise Japan that the thing is to march in first, take what you want and then talk about it.

Had Mussolini, saying nothing, accumulated his troops and airships in territories adjoining Ethiopia, and moved in at the end of the rainy season all would have been over before England could have finished making the first few noble speeches.

AN EDITORIAL published in Mussolini's newspapers probably written by him, reminds the League of Nations that it did nothing when Japan took Manchuria, although condemned that step; it did nothing when Germany rearmed in spite of the Versailles treaty, defying the league. Mussolini reminds England that she holds India, Egypt and Iraq, "ancient civilization," and asks: "What reasons can be brought forth to show that Ethiopia, a nation under conditions of anarchy and slavery, cannot be recognized in accordance with a system adopted by England in Egypt, India and Iraq?"

HISTORICAL PAGEANT TO BE FAIR FEATURE

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Work on the elaborate historical pageant, to be presented at the Louisiana Delta fair here each night, is progressing with regular rehearsals at the fair grounds. The pageant, under the direction of Mr. John Hutchings, will be a spectacular affair with a cast of 500 persons and 50 horses and mules.

Much interest is being manifested in the queen contest. The successful winner, "Miss Delta Fair," will be attended by Miss Tensas, Miss East Carroll and Miss Madison, to be chosen from their respective parishes. The contestants are Misses Dorothy Fairly, Clair Mitchel, Carolyn Ratcliff, Lola Kate Clark, Gladys Robb, Margaret Boswell, Agatha Lanehart, Carolyn Cason and Elizabeth Holt.

The prologue, featuring "Miss Columbia" attended by representatives of the 48 states, will precede the pageant, which begins with the creation ballet, depicting the dawn of creation. This will be followed by scenes of Indian camp life, early trappers, early pioneers and the covered wagons. There will be an old fashioned wedding, then more modern scenes of the World war period, Boy Scouts, American Legion color guard and as the grand finale the masque of the nations.

(On being told that some young college undergraduates pay their expenses by raising chickens)

Young man, or young maid, if you hope to succeed
Crate some smart Plymouth Rocks
In a trunk or a box
When you start on your journey to college.
In fact any species of chickens will do
Even those that roost 'round upon fences;
Make every one lay
An egg every day
And they soon will pay all your expenses.

You may have to put up a few kopecks for grain;
You must build them a warm habitation;
You may have to find out
Quite a little about
The poulterer's tricky vocation.
Your job won't be done till the set of the sun,
You cannot wear shiny, white collars;
But stick to your task,
That is all that I ask,
And you soon will be piling up dollars.

Were I still a youth, I'd endeavor mystelf
Thus to lighten the load that I carry;
But a life lived with hens
In or out of their pens
I fancy would not be so merry.
The plan is a good one, I freely concede,
It doubtless brings peace and enjoyment;
But I know I shall find
More contentment of mind
If I stick to my present employment.

HERE IS PROGRESS

The treasury deficit for July and August reached $671,812,773.00. With good luck and hard work, the administration ought to be able to double that in another twelvemonth.

Few Of Us Are Sane

BY BRUCE CATTON

One of the reasons why reading the newspapers is a joy is the fact that every so often they pop up with a story like the one about the crazy man in Kankakee, Ill.

It isn't quite right to call him a crazy man, at that, because he seems to have had right good sense. But, anyway, he was confined in an asylum, having been sent there on petition of his father; and he finally won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus after he had shown that, although supposedly off his base mentally, he had made $75,000 speculating in stocks.

"No man," remarked the judge, "can make that much money these days on the stock market and be insane."

So, logically enough, he adjudged the man sane and freed him.

• • •

Solomon himself could hardly have turned in a sounder ruling. But if the judge's standard is to apply in all similar cases, we may be obliged to build rows upon rows of new asylums for the insane, for the ruling cuts both ways.

That is to say, if you can figure a man's mental capacity by the things he does, and not by the way he responds to some psychiatrist's tests, which of us is safe?

How about the good American (whose name is legion) who went to the stock market in September, 1929, when stocks were all set to fall over the cliff of their own weight, and bought heavily on margin in expectation of a continued rise? What section of the booby hatch does he occupy?

How about the chap who believed all that talk about a new era of high prices, or the man who rushed forth to buy when the Rockefellers, shortly after the crash, announced that they were loading up with good common stocks?

• • •

How about the man who innocently entrusted his money to Mr. Insull, the lad who financed the Kreuger swindle, or the investor who bought Allegheny Corp. at 50?

Or—to get away from the stock market—what shall we do with the citizen who figured that the way to get over the depression was to pretend that private charity could go right on handling the needs of 10,000,000 unemployed?

What about the men who find it logical to reduce the output of food at a time when millions don't have enough to eat? How about the people who want to see wages cut when we suffer from lack of purchasing power?

Maybe we'd better not carry this sort of thing any farther. Once we start judging our mental capacity by the imbecilic things we do, we are apt to find ourselves parading off to the loony bin by platoons. So very, very few of the things we do these days make sense.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—The president, sitting in a large, air-cooled circular office, is more or less insulated from contacts with the outside world.

But he must know by now, as he contemplates what seems to be the wreckage of his dearly beloved public utility holding company bill, that:

His confidential secretary, Marvin McIntyre, was found by investigators in a hotel room with one of the most active and effective paid lobbyists against that bill—on which he had forced a test of administration strength in congress.

• • •

Friends Fail to Help

His former law partner, Basil O'Connor—with whom he had had closer business relations than with any other man—had received $25,000 or more from Associated Gas & Electric, which spent at least a million dollars to beat the bill.

His administration's most vigorous top-rank leader in the house, John J. O'Connor—brother of Basil—is attacked by friends of the bill as one of its most effective enemies.

Two senators to whose presence here he contributed conspicuously—Burke of Nebraska (whose prestige F. D. enhanced greatly by quoting Burke's "definition of the New Deal" in his Green Bay speech, but who both voted and lobbied against the bill) and Chavez of New Mexico (for whom F. D. stultified himself by supporting his candidacy against the late Bronson Cutting) turned him down on the senate vote.

At least three of his political generals in the last campaign—Ex-National Committeemen Bob Jackson of New Hampshire, Bruce Kremer of Montana and Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, all friends of McIntyre and all recipients of numerous favors from this administration—were paid by holding companies to fight the bill.

• • •

"Cleanup" Demanded

All these incidents may make no impression on the president, who is a very great optimist. And in considering them it isn't necessary to accept bitter accusations by New Dealers of "betrayal" or to comment favorably or adversely on the ethics of McIntyre and the others named. (You can believe, if you like, that those fellows are only trying to save F. D. from his own worst instincts.)

But they do call to mind simultaneously the recent remark to this writer by a White House insider that if Roosevelt were politically ruined the fault would be that of "friends" to whom he remained loyal, the fact that they indicate a serious weakness in the administration and the news that they have helped bring on an under-cover campaign by New Deal liberals for an administration "clean-out."

Roosevelt may not have heard of this campaign yet. But he soon will.

It is directed most of all against McIntyre, the slender, white-haired man of 57 years who guards the president's inner door, controlling Roosevelt's visiting list and the matters which are laid before him.

• • •

McIntyre's Weakness

The lobbyists have done their worst by this genial, friendly, happy, fun-loving—and naive—man. Doubtless every presidential secretary ever known has had associates among lobbyists, but usually with discretion. McIntyre is mad about social life—not the formal, stuffy official society of Washington, but the gay, informal, vinous night life which lobbyists often use to such gainful purpose.

And the lobbyists took advantage of that weakness, entertaining "Mac" publicly and semi-publicly—as if anxious to be seen with him—until purists of the town came to consider the show a major scandal.

Shipbuilding, naval supply and "power trust" lobbyists were especially conspicuous among the secretary's associates.

• • •

In "Enemy" Camp

A climax came when senate investigators and newspapermen hunting Associated Gas & Electric's master mind H. C. Hopson found McIntyre in the hotel room of Bernard Robinson, one of Hopson's chief lobbyists, with Robinson, Assistant Secretary "Chip" Robert and Amon Carter, Texas publishers.

Alternating threats and pleas to newspapermen did no good. The story was printed. McIntyre had lunch with Robinson the day after the "raid" in the main dining room of the Mayflower hotel.

Later on the night of the "raid," I was mentioning to "Mac" the widespread criticism as to his friendships with lobbyists and he said:

"You know the answer to that. I'm friendly with everybody."

But that answer isn't enough for liberals and progressives in the government who accuse "Mac" of misusing his job for benefit of special interests and reactionary politicians. They're grimly determined to "get" him, and may succeed.

KEENAN HONORED BY HOTEL GROUP

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Seymour Weiss of New Orleans was re-elected president of the Louisiana Hotel association at the second day's session here today. L. Keenan of Monroe was elected first vice-president.

Other officers elected are: George W. Newman, Homer, second vice-president; Mrs. Emma Michie, Lake Charles, third vice-president; A. P. Gardner, Shreveport, fourth vice-president; A. F. Landstreet, New Orleans, fifth vice-president; George Thomas, Lafayette, sixth vice-president; J. W. Stimpson, New Orleans, secretary-treasurer; and R. L. White, Breaux Bridge, sergeant-at-arms.

New Orleans was selected as the 1936 convention city.

Jack Tullos, Shreveport, was selected as delegate to the American Hotel association convention in Atlantic City, N. J., November 13-16 inclusive, and Mr. Weiss was also elected as American Hotel association executive committeeman, and Mr. Tullos alternate.

After a luncheon the convention will end with an entertainment at the Forty and Eight club climaxed by a barbecue tonight.

TWO SILVER WEDDINGS—Mrs. Hannah Jorgensen married Peter Hansen in Denmark in 1877. In 1902 the couple celebrated their silver wedding anniversary and two years later the man died.

In 1907 Hannah Hansen came to the United States and married James Jepson of Reno, Nevada, on September 12, 1908. On September 12, 1933, Mrs. Jepson celebrated another silver anniversary with her second husband.

THE HOUSE OF SIX STATES—The Sibley House built in 1835 is now used as a museum in Mendota, Minn. It has undergone many geographical transformations since. Due to repeated changes in the territory, the house has been a part of Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, and has finally been included in the state of Minnesota. The birth of each of six children coincided with a new realignment of the site so that each child born in the house was born in a different state.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK—The big town is beautiful, seen from the air when a friendly dusk curtains its drabness but allows myriad millions of lights to delineate its sprawling outlines.

The plane from New Orleans came in high, and we circled a couple of times while traffic was cleared from the field below. Even the tall, blond pilot next to me on the aisle, who had dead-headed the trip from Atlanta, seemed impressed by the twinkling panorama. "Pretty swell," I tritely suggested.

"Okay from this altitude," he agreed. "But when we get on the ground, you can have New York. I know this town, and I'd trade it for any one of the farms we've flown over today. That's a funny thing about pilots; nearly every one I know is buying a farm to retire on.

"Why, living in New York is more dangerous than flying. Did you know that? You can have the noise and the rush and the dirt. And the people, too—the real New Yorkers, I mean. It seems to me they're almost a race apart from the rest of the country. And the people on Broadway—they're like men from Mars!"

Well, I wouldn't be so sure of that. But the flyer's ideas did set me mentally to listing traits and habits peculiar to the natives of Gotham. One of the things an observer must notice is the dead-pan mask. Early in life a New Yorker develops a vacant expression for wearing in public, and allows nothing to jar him out of his stolid composure.

Occasionally your correspondent has so far relaxed while riding in the subway as to snicker aloud over a funny book. Each time I have glanced up to find fellow passengers regarding me uneasily, as though wondering whether to move into another car or get off at the next station and phone for a wagon from Bellevue.

Exigencies of city life have made them perfectly regimented. They line up automatically and patiently await their turns at subway turnstiles, bank windows, cafeteria counters and box offices. They stand uncomplainingly for hours in the lobbies of movie theaters waiting to be seated. Similarly imposed upon, any other group of self-respecting citizens would demand their money back, or would tear down the theater in righteous ire, or both. Visiting police officials have agreed that New York crowds are the most docile in the world.

Sucker Center

Gothamites allow themselves to be swindled by street peddlers, taxi drivers who pretend never to have change for a dollar, gyp auctioneers, beggars who obviously are undeserving and night club waiters. They sit in awe of waiters who happen to know a few words of French, but derive no comfort from being able to speak better English than the men who serve them.

Your typical New Yorker permits himself to be mauled and bullied unmercifully by subway guards. Sometimes he feels like mutiny against the harsh routine of metropolitan living, but he never deserts. He hasn't a vestige of civic pride, and is perfectly willing to agree with any critic that New York is a terrible town.

• • •

Distasteful

Given plenty of time to reach a destination in a local subway train, he'll always join the mad scramble to catch an express. Two minutes before the train reaches his station he'll rise and stand before a door so that he can be one of the first out. While waiting for a train he moves idly along before the slot machines, pushing all the plungers in the hope that a free stick of gum will fall.

On the street, he swears bitterly at the drivers of careening taxis and trucks, but after chartering a taxi he always tells the chauffeur to step on it. He jay-walks, and gets a thrill out of reaching the opposite curb with a whole skin. Crossing a one-way street, he looks first in the direction of traffic, then casts a furtive glance the opposite way. He knows perfectly well that no cars possibly could come from that direction, but he makes a small sacrifice to human fallibility. New Yorkers don't trust anything, not even the cosmic scheme.

VETERANS' RALLY TO BE HELD TUESDAY NIGHT

A veteran's rally will be held at Winnsboro, Tuesday night, October 1, to which members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars from posts at Monroe, Bastrop and Rayville are invited. Also all overseas veterans of Franklin parish are urged to attend.

There will be a class of recruits to be obligated. The meeting will be preceded by a parade by the Rodney J. Hobbs drum corps and speakers from the local post will include C. E. McKenzie, Ray B. Griffin and William Rodriguez. A barbecue will be served.

The local delegation will leave the clubrooms, Hall and Harrison streets, at 6 p. m. in the post bus.

without jail for the speaker. No communist organization permitted.

And when they say a thing like that in Japan they mean it.

THE LEAGUE, saying to Mussolini "If you fight Ethiopia, the league will fight you," waited until Mussolini had gone too far to withdraw without disaster.

A serious decision rests with Mussolini. A most serious step has already been taken by England, one, not taken in the case of Japan's Manchukuo contest. Italy and other European nations may learn from wise Japan that the thing is to march in first, take what you want and then talk about it.

Had Mussolini, saying nothing, accumulated his troops and airships in territories adjoining Ethiopia, and moved in at the end of the rainy season all would have been over before England could have finished making the first few noble speeches.

AN EDITORIAL published in Mussolini's newspapers probably written by him, reminds the League of Nations that it did nothing when Japan took Manchuria, although condemned that step; it did nothing when Germany rearmed in spite of the Versailles treaty, defying the league. Mussolini reminds England that she holds India, Egypt and Iraq, "ancient civilization," and asks: "What reasons can be brought forth to show that Ethiopia, a nation under conditions of anarchy and slavery, cannot be recognized in accordance with a system adopted by England in Egypt, India and Iraq?"

HISTORICAL PAGEANT TO BE FAIR FEATURE

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Work on the elaborate historical pageant, to be presented at the Louisiana Delta fair here each night, is progressing with regular rehearsals at the fair grounds. The pageant, under the direction of Mr. John Hutchings, will be a spectacular affair with a cast of 500 persons and 50 horses and mules.

Much interest is being manifested in the queen contest. The successful winner, "Miss Delta Fair," will be attended by Miss Tensas, Miss East Carroll and Miss Madison, to be chosen from their respective parishes. The contestants are Misses Dorothy Fairly, Clair Mitchel, Carolyn Ratcliff, Lola Kate Clark, Gladys Robb, Margaret Boswell, Agatha Lanehart, Carolyn Cason and Elizabeth Holt.

The prologue, featuring "Miss Columbia" attended by representatives of the 48 states, will precede the pageant, which begins with the creation ballet, depicting the dawn of creation. This will be followed by scenes of Indian camp life, early trappers, early pioneers and the covered wagons. There will be an old fashioned wedding, then more modern scenes of the World war period, Boy Scouts, American Legion color guard and as the grand finale the masque of the nations.

home, Italy is not on the council committee.

Before granting the request of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia for a neutral commisson of observers, the council decided to get Italy's views upon the subject.

Officials explained it would be difficult, possibly dangerous, for a league group to go to the Ethiopian frontiers unless assurances were obtained from both Italy and Ethiopia that its work would be aided and the membership protected.

Before the assembly ended its brief meeting Eduard Benes, president, warned: "Grave events may still occur in a conflict which the council has not yet been able to settle."

MEMEL TENSE AS VOTE NEARS

MEMEL, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Beneath a surface calm, Memel boiled with suppressed tension today as its 68,000 voters prepared to cast their ballots Sunday for representatives in the landtag.

Seemingly a prosaic and humdrum manifestation of democratic principles, nevertheless the fierce rivalries in the territory—often called the powder keg of Europe—caused Great Britain, France and Italy to turn from the Italo-Ethiopian crisis and watch with careful eyes what may be another threat to the peace of Europe.

In Memel, battleground of German and Lithuanian nationalism, the struggle has been waged over the present 25 to four German majority in the landtag.

Lithuanians made no secret that they want the German representation decreased to permit more control without risking any infringement of the Memel statute. The German adherents, on the other hand, with all parties united in a common front with preservation of autonomy as a platform are anxious to make an impressive showing as a testimonial as to the reich's claims to the territory.

Over both these interests, however, is suspended that of the signatory powers to the Memel convention—Britain, France and Italy—to avoid any international crisis of any kind.

IN SOMALILAND WITH SECOND ITALIAN ARMY

While the main force of Italian troop has been concentrated in Eritrea, to the north of Ethiopia, intensive war preparations also are being made by Premier Mussolini in Italian Somaliland, to the south. Here is one of the first pictures from Somaliland showing a busy artillery battery headquarters in Mogadishi, carrying on under field conditions.

United States entered the World war. At the time, Mr. Rodriguez was a sergeant in his regiment. He was later commissioned a lieutenant in the field artillery, was graduated from the French artillery school at Saumur and assigned to the 312th field artillery as an instructo.

He was mu[illegible]ed out of service in June, 1919, going to New Orleans, and then moved to Monroe in October of the same year. He became associated with the Cobb-Jackson Insurance agency in 1922, now the Cobb-Rodriguez Agency, Inc., of which he is president and manager.

He is a past president of the Ouachita Insurance exchange, and past president of the Louisiana Insurance society. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma college fraternity, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Western Star Lodge, F. and A. M., the Rotary club and the Episcopal church. At the present time he is president of the Veterans council of Ouachita parish. He assisted in the organization of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Monroe in 1934, and is a member of the board of directors.

He married Miss Edith Brown of Minden in 1929 and they are the parents of two children, Billie, 4, and Mary, 2. They reside at 507 Park avenue.

Mr. Rodriguez said his platform will be announced at a later date.

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD SET BY AMATEUR PILOT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The National Aeronautics association announced today that Ben King, local amateur pilot, had set a new official altitude record of 15,082 feet for light seaplanes.

King made the record last Tuesday in a small seaplane weighing 524 pounds. The announcement was made after calibration of his barograph by the bureau of standards.

The old record of 11,355 feet had been held by France since December, 1930.

PERMISSION IS GRANTED THIBODAUX FOR PIPELINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The war department today granted permission to the town of Thibodaux, Louisiana, to construct a pipeline to be laid on pile support across the Bayou Citamon at a point about 6 miles upstream from the highway bridge across Bayou Chevreuil. The pipe is to be laid in such manner that it can be removed to permit the passage of water craft.

Special trains, boats and motor trucks evacuated all persons wishing to leave their homes or business activities within the expected storm area.

All inhabitants of the Lake Okeechobee area—where some 2,000 persons were drowned in the 1928 storm which tossed waters high and flooded the rich farm land surrounding the lake—were moved out in special trains.

Cuban advices of the extent of the storm's damage there Friday night and Saturday were meager, a single report from Havana announced a cruiser in the harbor of Cienfuegos, province of Santa Clara, reported 30 dead there with 300 injured and untold property damage. A thousand houses were destroyed. The town of Casilda — previously evacuated — was levelled.

Kingston, Jamaica, reported two dead in Friday night's storm which damaged the banana crop about $2,500,000 and about $200,000 to roads and bridges.

After reciting asserted improvements in the condition of agriculture, the president pointed to "the longer future," prevention of soil erosion and floods, encouragement of forestation and removal of unprofitable submarginal lands from production.

"I like to think," he said, "that agricultural adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmer patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the constitution.

"Methods and machinery change, but principles go on, and I have faith that, no matter what attempts may be made to tear it down, the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die."

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Thelma Buxton, 27, wife of a Washington college professor and admitted "hatchet" slayer of her mother-in-law, the elderly Mrs. Effie Buxton, will be given a mental examination tomorrow in the Kent county jail.

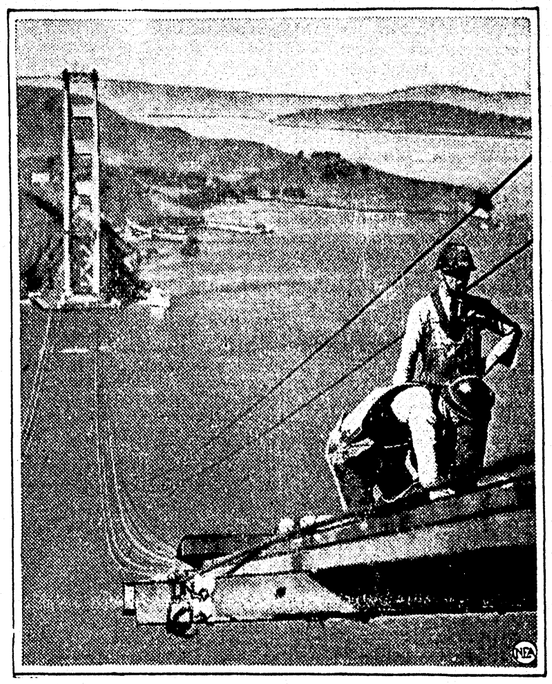

An agreement on this point was reached today between State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins and Defense Attorney F. Scott Beck at a private hearing in chambers before Circuit Judge Thomas J. Keating.

RUSTON MAN FALLS TO DEATH FROM DERRICK

BEAUMONT, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Emmett Tomlinson, oil rig worker, fell to his death today from the top of an 84-foot steel derrick at Sour Lake. Tomlinson and fellow workmen were dismantling the derrick. The body is being sent to Ruston, La., for funeral services and burial.

home, Italy is not on the council committee.

Before granting the request of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia for a neutral commisson of observers, the council decided to get Italy's views upon the subject.

Officials explained it would be difficult, possibly dangerous, for a league group to go to the Ethiopian frontiers unless assurances were obtained from both Italy and Ethiopia that its work would be aided and the membership protected.

Before the assembly ended its brief meeting Eduard Benes, president, warned: "Grave events may still occur in a conflict which the council has not yet been able to settle."

MEMEL TENSE AS VOTE NEARS

MEMEL, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Beneath a surface calm, Memel boiled with suppressed tension today as its 68,000 voters prepared to cast their ballots Sunday for representatives in the landtag.

Seemingly a prosaic and humdrum manifestation of democratic principles, nevertheless the fierce rivalries in the territory—often called the powder keg of Europe—caused Great Britain, France and Italy to turn from the Italo-Ethiopian crisis and watch with careful eyes what may be another threat to the peace of Europe.

In Memel, battleground of German and Lithuanian nationalism, the struggle has been waged over the present 25 to four German majority in the landtag.

Lithuanians made no secret that they want the German representation decreased to permit more control without risking any infringement of the Memel statute. The German adherents, on the other hand, with all parties united in a common front with preservation of autonomy as a platform are anxious to make an impressive showing as a testimonial as to the reich's claims to the territory.

Over both these interests, however, is suspended that of the signatory powers to the Memel convention—Britain, France and Italy—to avoid any international crisis of any kind.

IN SOMALILAND WITH SECOND ITALIAN ARMY

While the main force of Italian troop has been concentrated in Eritrea, to the north of Ethiopia, intensive war preparations also are being made by Premier Mussolini in Italian Somaliland, to the south. Here is one of the first pictures from Somaliland showing a busy artillery battery headquarters in Mogadishi, carrying on under field conditions.

United States entered the World war. At the time, Mr. Rodriguez was a sergeant in his regiment. He was later commissioned a lieutenant in the field artillery, was graduated from the French artillery school at Saumur and assigned to the 342th field artillery as an instructo...

He was mustered out of service in June, 1919, going to New Orleans, and then moved to Monroe in October of the same year. He became associated with the Cobb-Jackson Insurance agency in 1922, now the Cobb-Rodriguez Agency, Inc., of which he is president and manager.

He is a past president of the Ouachita Insurance exchange, and past president of the Louisiana Insurance society. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma college fraternity, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Western Star Lodge, F. and A. M., the Rotary club and the Episcopal church. At the present time he is president of the Veterans council of Ouachita parish. He assisted in the organization of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Monroe in 1934, and is a member of the board of directors.

He married Miss Edith Brown of Minden in 1929 and they are the parents of two children, Billie, 4, and Mary, 2. They reside at 507 Park avenue.

Mr. Rodriguez said his platform will be announced at a later date.

He said he had lied because "I was ashamed of it."

Earlier Sherman had admitted the truth of a statement contained in his alleged confession that when both were thrown into the water he had shaken off his wife's dying grip upon his shoulder.

He still insisted, however, despite the fact that he was a good swimmer, he acted for "self-preservation."

The advantage would have afforded "a big stick," he said, "to force other farmers into membership against their good judgment and natural desire to market their cotton independent."

Robertson said he had no fear that the A. C. C. A.'s interpretation of the decision "will becloud the true situation."

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD SET BY AMATEUR PILOT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The National Aeronautics association announced today that Ben King, local amateur pilot, had set a new official altitude record of 15,082 feet for light seaplanes.

King made the record last Tuesday in a small seaplane weighing 524 pounds. The announcement was made after calibration of his barograph by the bureau of standards.

The old record of 11,355 feet had been held by France since December, 1930.

PERMISSION IS GRANTED THIBODAUX FOR PIPELINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The war department today granted permission to the town of Thibodaux, Louisiana, to construct a pipeline to be laid on pile support across the Bayou Citamon at a point about 6 miles upstream from the highway bridge across Bayou Chevreuil. The pipe is to be laid in such manner that it can be removed to permit the passage of water craft.

and private yachts were stored securely or taken to safer quarters.

Special trains, boats and motor trucks evacuated all persons wishing to leave their homes or business activities within the expected storm area.

All inhabitants of the Lake Okeechobee area—where some 2,000 persons were drowned in the 1928 storm which tossed waters high and flooded the rich farm land surrounding the lake—were moved out in special trains.

Cuban advices of the extent of the storm's damage there Friday night and Saturday were meager, a single report from Havana announced a cruiser in the harbor of Cienfuegos, province of Santa Clara, reported 30 dead there with 300 injured and untold property damage. A thousand houses were destroyed. The town of Casilda — previously evacuated — was levelled.

Kingston, Jamaica, reported two dead in Friday night's storm which damaged the banana crop about $2,500,000 and about $200,000 to roads and bridges.

The haunts of the wealthy, at Palm Beach, some of which were about to open for the brilliant social season, were boarded up during the day and other precautions taken against possible destructive winds headed that way.

After reciting asserted improvements in the condition of agriculture, the president pointed to "the longer future," prevention of soil erosion and floods, encouragement of forestation and removal of unprofitable submarginal lands from production.

"I like to think," he said, "that agricultural adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmer patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the constitution.

"Methods and machinery change, but principles go on, and I have faith that, no matter what attempts may be made to tear it down, the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die."

Although Emperor Haile Selassie reiterated he had no intention of proclaiming general mobilization unless Premier Mussolini of Italy forced him to defend his empire, he has prepared to concentrate quickly a half million armed men at strategic points.

Today the Negus sent printed proclamations of mobilization to his provincial governors so the latter can release them immediately if and when Italy's attitude warrants.

MOTHER-IN-LAW SLAYER TO RECEIVE MENTAL TEST

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Thelma Buxton, 27, wife of a Washington college professor and admitted "hatchet" slayer of her mother-in-law, the elderly Mrs. Effie Buxton, will be given a mental examination tomorrow in the Kent county jail.

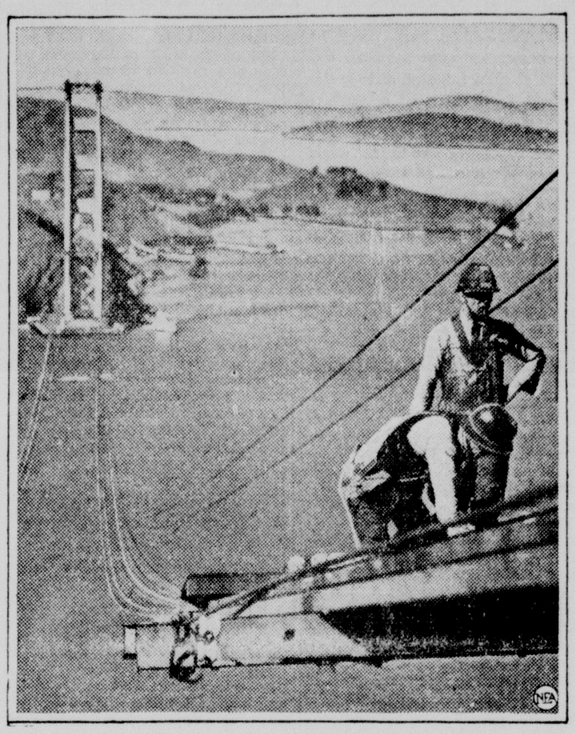

An agreement on this point was reached today between State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins and Defense Attorney F. Scott Beck at a private hearing in chambers before Circuit Judge Thomas J. Keating.

RUSTON MAN FALLS TO DEATH FROM DERRICK

BEAUMONT, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Emmett Tomlinson, oil rig worker, fell to his death today from the top of an 84-foot steel derrick at Sour Lake. Tomlinson and fellow workmen were dismantling the derrick. The body is being sent to Ruston, La., for funeral services and burial.

PITTSBURGH MAN HEADS NEW COAL COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The new national bituminous coal commission, charged with the task of administering the Guffey coal control act, today elected Charles F. Hosford, Jr., Pittsburgh attorney and former coal operator, as chairman.

This action was taken immediately after Walter H. Maloney of Kansas City, Mo., was sworn in as the fifth member.

MOONEY COUNSEL TO GET PAPERS

Nearly 1,000 Documents Declared Suppressed By State 19 Years

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Nearly 1,000 documents which adherents of Thomas J. Mooney claimed the state has suppressed for 19 years will be turned over to his counsel Monday, Assistant State Attorney General William Cleary promised today.

They consist primarily of letters and statements of witnesses taken before Mooney's trial for the 1916 San Francisco preparedness day bombing in which 10 persons were killed. Thirteen other such papers were given to his counsel yesterday before week-end adjournment of the noted prisoner's habeas corpus hearing.

Cleary pointed out that the state was under no obligation to turn over the papers but wanted to be fair.

Warren K. Billings, who like Mooney is under life sentence for the bombing, was on the stand when hearings adjourned yesterday.

His testimony continued to bolster Mooney's claim that he was "framed," but, under questioning by Cleary, veered more toward his own actions on the day of the explosion.

Billings, freely admitting he was a labor "sympathizer," related he was engaged in squirting a paint remover on automobiles parked in downtown San Francisco at the time of the explosion. At that time, he explained, automobile workers were on strike here.

JURIST CONTINUES ASSAULT HEARING

M'COMB, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The case of Bud Smith, superintendent of the Magnolia Cotton mills, held in connection with the shooting of Norman Crawford, a mill employe, on Sept. 20, was continued indefinitely today at the time set for a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace D. M. Huff in Magnolia, because Crawford's condition remained undetermined.

Ten cases of simple assault and battery filed against mill workers in connection with a beating administered to Smith before the shooting were continued also at the request of Edgar G. Williams, of McComb, defense attorney.

The cases arose out of a strike at the mill which has been settled. The strikers are to return to work Monday.

FRUIT DEALER ROBBED OF DAY'S PROCEEDS BY NEGRO

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Joseph Maggio, 42, was slugged on the head and robbed of his fruit stand's proceeds of between $40 and $50 early this morning when a negro attacked him with a pop bottle.

His assailant escaped.

Maggio was alone in his shop when the negro entered with an open knife in his hand. The negro backed Maggio into a corner after threatening him with the knife and when Maggio slumped against the wall the negro picked up the soda water bottle and beat his victim into semi-consciousness. The negro then searched Maggio's pockets, took all the money he found and departed.

Maggio recovered consciousness later but his attacker had escaped.

FLYING GLASS INJURES TWO WHEN TRUCK WRECKS

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Flying glass from a shattered windshield severely cut James P. Cochran, driver and George Wallace, negro, when a truck in which they were riding crashed in a dense fog on the highway near Daleville, Miss., today.

Cochran, gashed about the wrist, had several tendons severed, necessitating a sutre.

Wallace was cut on the forehead.

Political Activities

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Remnants of the once powerful Old Regular political machine of New Orleans which was shattered by the dictatorial offensive of the late Senator Huey P. Long signed up today to support the ticket put out by the Long and Governor O. K. Allen forces in the January 21 state-wide primary.

While they were surrendering two anti-Long factions were active on the political horizon, consulting supporters and mapping plans for a counter offensive dedicated to overthrow the Long dictatorship which fell upon the shoulders of Allen and to return local self-government to the state of Louisiana.

The Old Regulars adopted resolutions endorsing the Allen administration ticket headed by Judge Richard W. Leche for governor; Earl K. Long, brother of the late senator, for lieutenant-governor, and Allen J. Ellender, speaker of the house, for United States senator to succeed the late Long.

The anti-Longs were still holding caucus over the tickets which will back up Representative Cleveland Dear of the eighth Louisiana district, for governor and State Representative Mason Spencer, of Tallulah, who announced himself the "chosen leader" of the antis.

The Old Regulars who surrendered to Long shortly before his assassination when the senator was attempting to strangle the city administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, his enemy, demanded a special session of the legislature before the election to return self rule to the city.

They offered to deliver the vote in exchange for repeal of the laws which gave the state administration control of the city police and firemen and for removal of obstructions placed by Long in the city's refinancing plan.

But the city politicians were told by Robert Maestri, commissioner of conservation in the Governor Allen administration, that there would be no session of the legislature until after the election is held and support was bartered on the promise that after the election some of the "obnoxious" laws passed against New Orleans would be repealed.

Out of the confusion that followed the death of Long Maestri arose as a power in the ranks of the Long machine and the Old Regulars jumped at the crack of his whip.

After the state forces took over the city police force Maestri was made a member of the state police board and is considered influential in the police powers of the city.

In casting their political future with the Long-Allen ticket the Old Regulars declared that the assassination of Senator Long was "an act of lawlessness and a blow to constitutional government which was shocking to every good citizen, deplored as un-American by the president of the United States and denounced by all those believing in law and order."

They declared their endorsement of the administration ticket was prompted by their desire for "the future peace and prosperity for the welfare of the city of New Orleans and the state of Louisiana."

LANG ANNOUNCES FOR P. S. C. POSITION

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Representative Dudley D. Lang of Winn parish today formally announced as a candidaate for public service commissioner from the third public service commission district, composed of 28 north and central Louisiana parishes.

The third commission district is composed of the following parishes: Bienville, Bossier, Caddo, Caldwell, Catahoula, Claiborne, Concordia, DeSoto, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Natchitoches, Ouachita, Rapides, Richland, Red River, Sabine, Tensas, Union, Vernon, Webster, Winn and West Carroll.

Mr. Lang is a successful farmer and merchant at Atlanta, Winn parish, and an outstanding independent member of the Louisiana legislature.

In the legislature Mr. Lang has sponsored and supported all measures for the reduction of taxes, economy in government and labor. Mr. Lang was one of the authors of proposals for state old-age pension and is an ardent supporter of the plan to adequately care for the aged citizens of this state. He was one of the co-authors of measures to reduce automobile licenses and supported the bill to provide for homestead exemptions.

PEASANTS BATTLE PIRATES AT SEA

Rescue Party Recover 10 Of 31 Kidnaped Chinese Children

HANGCHOW, Sept. 28. — (AP) — A strange battle at sea between aroused peasants, aided by water police, and pirates, resulted in the rescue today of ten of 31 children who had been kidnaped.

Not only did the peasants and police rescue ten children, but they killed four of the pirates and captured three. One of the three pirate craft was sunk but the other two, carrying 20 children, fled. One child was killed.

After the battle, the villagers renewed their supplies and ammunition in preparation for another search for the junks.

Details of the daring pirate raid upon Peihsiang were reported from there today.

Forty of the bandits, disguised as beggars and peddlers, entered the village and quickly overpowered the ten policemen, none of whom had guns in a workable condition. After looting the town the outlaws raided the village school, carrying off the entire pupil body, and escaped to sea in three junks, but only after a running battle.

Aroused natives, with the police, followed to sea and engaged in the strange battle.

CHOUDRANT MAN IN RACE FOR STATE LEGISLATURE

CHOUDRANT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—C. B. Colvin, of Choudrant, today announced his candidacy for state representative from Lincoln parish. Mr. Colvin was representative from this parish from 1920 to 1924.

Mr. Colvin is given much credit for having the Dixie-Overland highway approved. He is a former president of the Lincoln parish school board and has been a member of the board for 12 years.

He is a farmer and business man, operates several large farms near Dubach and a government licensed cotton warehouse here. He is a member of the Baptist church and the teacher of the church's men's Bible class.

VAN SWERINGEN PLANS ARE SEEN

Capitalists Ready To Bid For Collateral Posted For Huge Loan

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Financial circles here believed tonight they had spotted the corporate vehicle through which O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland capitalists, expect to fight for control of their vast railroad empire.

It is, the observers believed, "Mid-America corporation," chartered at Columbus, Ohio, today with 400,000 shares of no-par value stock.

Neither of the Van Sweringen brothers could be reached for a statement and it was assumed they had gone to New York to be ready to bid, in the name of the corporation, for the collateral they posted several years ago with J. P. Morgan & Co., for a loan which with interest now amounts to about $48,000,000.

Included in the collateral are stocks representing control of a large part of the choicest portions of the Van Sweringen empire. It is understood that one of the biggest items to be put on the block will be about 50 per cent of the common stock of the Alleghany corporation, a holding company, which has control or virtual control of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pere Marquette, the Erie and the Nickel Plate railroads, as well as a considerable interest in the Missouri Pacific and Eastern Illinois railroads—all of which combined comprise the largest personally-controlled railroad system in the country.

How much money will be required to buy the collateral which the Morgan firm recently decided to market is uncertain.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED BY FUTURE FARMERS CHAPTER

CHOUDRANT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Dean Mabry was elected president of the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America, at a meeting here Friday. Other officers elected were: Louis Sizemore, vice president; Frentis Franton, secretary; Evans Taylor, treasurer, and Gerald Vining, reporter.

The local chapter has 40 active members and is affiliated with the state association, which boasts a membership of 3,000. There are 96 chapters in the state.

Purpose of the organization is to build good citizenship and to aid the young farmers in their vocation.

NEW RECRUITING CHIEF ARRIVES IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Colonel Frank E. Evans, United States marine corps, has arrived in New Orleans to take over command of the southern division recruiting service for the corps. Colonel Evans is a native of Pennsylvania and is 58 years of age. He has a long record of distinguished service and is a senior colonel of the United States marines. He succeeds Colonel William Curry Harllee, retired.

Billings, freely admitting he was a labor "sympathizer," related he was engaged in squirting a paint remover on automobiles parked in downtown San Francisco at the time of the explosion. At that time, he explained, automobile workers were on strike here.

JURIST CONTINUES ASSAULT HEARING

M'COMB, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The case of Bud Smith, superintendent of the Magnolia Cotton mills, held in connection with the shooting of Norman Crawford, a mill employe, on Sept. 20, was continued indefinitely today at the time set for a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace D. M. Huff in Magnolia, because Crawford's condition remained undetermined.

Ten cases of simple assault and battery filed against mill workers in connection with a beating administered to Smith before the shooting were continued also at the request of Edgar G. Williams, of McComb, defense attorney.

The cases arose out of a strike at the mill which has been settled. The strikers are to return to work Monday.

FRUIT DEALER ROBBED OF DAY'S PROCEEDS BY NEGRO

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Joseph Maggio, 42, was slugged on the head and robbed of his fruit stand's proceeds of between $40 and $50 early this morning when a negro attacked him with a pop bottle.

His assailant escaped.

Maggio was alone in his shop when the negro entered with an open knife in his hand. The negro backed Maggio into a corner after threatening him with the knife and when Maggio slumped against the wall the negro picked up the soda water bottle and beat his victim into semi-consciousness. The negro then searched Maggio's pockets, took all the money he found and departed.

Maggio recovered consciousness later but his attacker had escaped.

FLYING GLASS INJURES TWO WHEN TRUCK WRECKS

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Flying glass from a shattered windshield severely cut James P. Cochran, driver and George Wallace, negro, when a truck in which they were riding crashed in a dense fog on the highway near Daleville, Miss., today.

Cochran, gashed about the wrist, had several tendons severed, necessitating a sutre.

Wallace was cut on the forehead.

Political Activities

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Remnants of the once powerful Old Regular political machine of New Orleans which was shattered by the dictatorial offensive of the late Senator Huey P. Long signed up today to support the ticket put out by the Long and Governor O. K. Allen forces in the January 21 state-wide primary.

While they were surrendering two anti-Long factions were active on the political horizon, consulting supporters and mapping plans for a counter offensive dedicated to overthrow the Long dictatorship which fell upon the shoulders of Allen and to return local self-government to the state of Louisiana.

The Old Regulars adopted resolutions endorsing the Allen administration ticket headed by Judge Richard W. Leche for governor; Earl K. Long, brother of the late senator, for lieutenant-governor, and Allen J. Ellender, speaker of the house, for United States senator to succeed the late Long.

The anti-Longs were still holding caucus over the tickets which will back up Representative Cleveland Dear of the eighth Louisiana district, for governor and State Representative Mason Spencer, of Tallulah, who announced himself the "chosen leader" of the antis.

The Old Regulars who surrendered to Long shortly before his assassination when the senator was attempting to strangle the city administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, his enemy, demanded a special session of the legislature before the election to return self rule to the city.

They offered to deliver the vote in exchange for repeal of the laws which gave the state administration control of the city police and firemen and for removal of obstructions placed by Long in the city's refinancing plan.

But the city politicians were told by Robert Maestri, commissioner of conservation in the Governor Allen administration, that there would be no session of the legislature until after the election is held and support was bartered on the promise that after the election some of the "obnoxious" laws passed against New Orleans would be repealed.

Out of the confusion that followed the death of Long Maestri arose as a power in the ranks of the Long machine and the Old Regulars jumped at the crack of his whip.

After the state forces took over the city police force Maestri was made a member of the state police board and is considered influential in the police powers of the city.

In casting their political future with the Long-Allen ticket the Old Regulars declared that the assassination of Senator Long was "an act of lawlessness and a blow to constitutional government which was shocking to every good citizen, deplored as un-American by the president of the United States and denounced by all those believing in law and order."

They declared their endorsement of the administration ticket was prompted by their desire for "the future peace and prosperity for the welfare of the city of New Orleans and the state of Louisiana."

LANG ANNOUNCES FOR P. S. C. POSITION

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Representative Dudley D. Lang of Winn parish today formally announced as a candidaate for public service commissioner from the third public service commission district, composed of 28 north and central Louisiana parishes.

The third commission district is composed of the following parishes: Bienville, Bossier, Caddo, Caldwell, Catahoula, Claiborne, Concordia, DeSoto, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Natchitoches, Ouachita, Rapides, Richland, Red River, Sabine, Tensas, Union, Vernon, Webster, Winn and West Carroll.

Mr. Lang is a successful farmer and merchant at Atlanta, Winn parish, and an outstanding independent member of the Louisiana legislature.

In the legislature Mr. Lang has sponsored and supported all measures for the reduction of taxes, economy in government and labor. Mr. Lang was one of the authors of proposals for state old-age pension and is an ardent supporter of the plan to adequately care for the aged citizens of this state. He was one of the co-authors of measures to reduce automobile licenses and supported the bill to provide for homestead exemptions.

PEASANTS BATTLE PIRATES AT SEA

HANGCHOW, Sept. 28. — (AP) — A strange battle at sea between aroused peasants, aided by water police, and pirates, resulted in the rescue today of ten of 31 children who had been kidnaped.

Not only did the peasants and police rescue ten children, but they killed four of the pirates and captured three. One of the three pirate craft was sunk but the other two, carrying 20 children, fled. One child was killed.

After the battle, the villagers renewed their supplies and ammunition in preparation for another search for the junks.

Details of the daring pirate raid upon Peihsiang were reported from there today.

Forty of the bandits, disguised as beggars and peddlers, entered the village and quickly overpowered the ten policemen, none of whom had guns in a workable condition. After looting the town the outlaws raided the village school, carrying off the entire pupil body, and escaped to sea in three junks, but only after a running battle.

Aroused natives, with the police, followed to sea and engaged in the strange battle.

CHOUDRANT MAN IN RACE FOR STATE LEGISLATURE

CHOUDRANT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—C. B. Colvin, of Choudrant, today announced his candidacy for state representative from Lincoln parish. Mr. Colvin was representative from this parish from 1920 to 1924.

Mr. Colvin is given much credit for having the Dixie-Overland highway approved. He is a former president of the Lincoln parish school board and has been a member of the board for 12 years.

He is a farmer and business man, operates several large farms near Dubach and a government licensed cotton warehouse here. He is a member of the Baptist church and the teacher of the church's men's Bible class.

VAN SWERINGEN PLANS ARE SEEN

Capitalists Ready To Bid For Collateral Posted For Huge Loan

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Financial circles here believed tonight they had spotted the corporate vehicle through which O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland capitalists, expect to fight for control of their vast railroad empire.

It is, the observers believed, "Mid-America corporation," chartered at Columbus, Ohio, today with 400,000 shares of no-par value stock.

Neither of the Van Sweringen brothers could be reached for a statement and it was assumed they had gone to New York to be ready to bid, in the name of the corporation, for the collateral they posted several years ago with J. P. Morgan & Co., for a loan which with interest now amounts to about $48,000,000.

Included in the collateral are stocks representing control of a large part of the choicest portions of the Van Sweringen empire. It is understood that one of the biggest items to be put on the block will be about 50 per cent of the common stock of the Alleghany corporation, a holding company, which has control or virtual control of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pere Marquette, the Erie and the Nickel Plate railroads, as well as a considerable interest in the Missouri Pacific and Eastern Illinois railroads—all of which combined comprise the largest personally-controlled railroad system in the country.

How much money will be required to buy the collateral which the Morgan firm recently decided to market is uncertain.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED BY FUTURE FARMERS CHAPTER

CHOUDRANT, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Dean Mabry was elected president of the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America, at a meeting here Friday. Other officers elected were: Louis Sizemore, vice president; Frentis Franton, secretary; Evans Taylor, treasurer, and Gerald Vining, reporter.

The local chapter has 40 active members and is affiliated with the state association, which boasts a membership of 3,000. There are 96 chapters in the state.

Purpose of the organization is to build good citizenship and to aid the young farmers in their vocation.

NEW RECRUITING CHIEF ARRIVES IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Colonel Frank E. Evans, United States marine corps, has arrived in New Orleans to take over command of the southern division recruiting service for the corps. Colonel Evans is a native of Pennsylvania and is 58 years of age. He has a long record of distinguished service and is a senior colonel of the United States marines. He succeeds Colonel William Curry Harllee, retired.

RICE OWLS SCORE 10 TO 7 VICTORY OVER L. S. U.

Texans Make Field Goal And Touchdown In Opening Quarter

By Quincy Ewing
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Cracking loose with a smashing offensive at the third of the opening kick-off, the Rice Owls soared to a 10-7 victory tonight over Louisiana State university in a bitterly fought grid battle. Played before 22,000 tense spectators, the game was a repitition to large extent of the hammer and tongs contest the Owls and the Tigers of State have waged the past several years.

Beginning with a 54-yard kick-off return by the brilliant Bill Wallace that enabled Rice to get the ball in position for a field goal from the five-yard line, Rice followed quickly with a touchdown in the same period by McCauley and an extra point kicked by Sylvester for its points.

The Texans were unable to score after that, but the points were sufficient. Louisiana State, fighting a dogged, uphill battle in the second half, hammered over a touchdown on power plays in the fourth quarter, and seemed headed to another when the game ended.

The game was a battle of titans of the Southwest and Southeastern conferences. The Texans, substantially the same team that played a 9-9 deadlock with L. S. U. last year, seemed to display strength capable of carrying them to conference and national heights.

The first half was all Rice. Louisiana State couldn't seem to get started on the ground or in the air, while Wallace and McCauley unleashed speed and power that kept the Tigers backed against their goal line.

The great Abe Mickal played only a few minutes for Louisiana, at the end of the first half and at the close of the game, both times he was unable to connect with receivers for touchdown passes designed to bring victory.

Louisiana State's touchdown was scored just before the game's end by "Son" Seago, after Crass had torn through the bastion-like Rice line to bring the ball to the six-inch mark.

The Cats were held time after time and the ball went over, but as Sylvester tried to kick out of danger, Tinsley blocked his punt on the 1-yard line. Seago cracked left tackle and went over, later kicking the point.

Rice was credited with 11 first downs to 9 for L. S. U.

Rice	Pos.	La. State
Forbes	LE	Tinsley
Miller	LT	Calhoun
Bale	LG	Brown
Nicholls	C	Stewart
Brandon	RG	Helveston
Mays	RT	Rukas
Sylvester	RE	Barrett
McCauley	QB	Seago
Witt	LH	Crass
Wallace	RH	Fatherree
Friedman	FB	Reed

Score by periods:

Rice	10	0	0	0	0—10
L. S. U.	0	0	0	7	—7

NOTRE DAME WINS OVER KANSAS TEAM

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, led by the dashing Red Carideo, who scored two touchdowns, opened their football campaign before 20,000 fans here today with a smashing 28 to 7 victory over the University of Kansas.

The Jayhawkers were rushed off their feet, and only by a long forward pass from George Hapgood to Wade Green, averted a shutout.

Small Grid Teams Cut Big Elevens Down To Own Size

Cornell, Illinois, Wisconsin And Virginia Are Defeated

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cornell, Illinois, Wisconsin and Virginia all were beaten, and Alabama, Rose Bowl champion, was tied as the 1935 season formally got under way in spectacular style.

Bob Zuppke's Illini, hailed in advance as possible dark-horse contenders for the Big Ten crown, fell before a fighting Ohio university outfit, 6-0 and Wisconsin's Badgers were upset by South Dakota State, 13-6, in the mid-west's two big form reversals. Cornell, although threatening often, could not develop a scoring punch and went down before St. Lawrence university of Canton, N. Y., 12-6.

The biggest shock of all, however, was the failure of Alabama's Crimson Tide to get better than a 7-7 draw with Howard of Birmingham. Missing the scoring punch provided last year by the Dixie Howell-Don Hutson combination, the Tide found itself held in check by the smaller school's stalwart defense.

Notre Dame, aiming at regaining its former position around the top, trounced Kansas of the Big Six, 28-7, while Minnesota, the nation's powerhouse in 1934, had to turn loose some extra steam in the second half to turn back North Dakota State, 26-6. Nebraska, co-favorite with Kansas State for the Big Six crown this year, whipped Chicago easily, 28-7.

In the east only Navy, Colgate, Dartmouth and Villanova lived up to advance notices. Navy thoroughly trounced William and Mary, 30-0, the same margin by which Colgate's Red Raiders whipped Niagara. Dartmouth had no uneasy minutes in a 39-0 conquest of Norwich, and Villanova battered Ursinus, 31-0. Pitt's Panthers, however, had trouble with Waynesburg, winning only 14-0, and Fordham had to score twice in the final quarter to whip Franklin and Marshall, 14-7.

Among the southern powers, Duke's machine rode rough over South Carolina, 47-0 and Clemson spilled Virginia Poly, 28-7, in another Southern conference game. Tulane's Southeastern conference array ran over Virginia Military, 44-0. Ray Morrison's Vanderbilt outfit won the only Southeastern conference game of the day, a 14-9 victory over a scrappy Mississippi eleven.

Oklahoma's Sooners, making their first start under the leadership of Biff Jones, scored a hard-earned 3-0 triumph over Colorado university.

OTTYE WINS RACE

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Tom Ottye, tall Michigan State college cross country star, won the National A. A. U. 10,000 meter run championship today, defeating the 1934 title winner, Eino Pentti, of the Millrose A. A., in a brillant stretch drive. Ottye's time was 32 minutes, 7 3-10 seconds.

PAPPAS, HADDAD MAKE TALLIES OF LOCAL GRID TEAM

Long Gains Made Against Invading Eleven With End Runs

By Paul Martin

The Tigers of Neville high school bowled over a hard fighting Minden high school eleven, 13 to 0, here last night at Brown stadium to win their first game in Class A competition in Louisiana this season. It was also the Tigers' initial appearance on the home field this year and a large crowd of supporters turned out to see them perform.

Scoring in the first and second periods the Neville aggregation wasted no time letting the invaders know that they had a well drilled team. End run after end run whipped the Crimson Tide down, and the quick-forming interference for the Neville backs cut sorely into the Minden defense, allowing them to chalk up numerous long gains.

Andrew Pappas, veteran Tiger fullback, smashed through the Minden line from the one-yard line for Neville's first touchdown before the Crimson squad had had a chance with the ball. An almost identical play, with Pete Haddad, Neville's field general, lugging the ball, netted the locals their second and last touchdown near the middle of the second quarter.

Minden was completely outclassed throughout the first half. The team did little better in the third quarter as the Tigers were amassing five of their ten first downs. But in the last quarter the invaders battled the locals on almost even terms, holding them without a first down and making one of their two first downs. The Crimson team's only other first down was made in the second period on a long pass from F. Miller to G. Talton.

Both teams played rugged defensive games with the Minden line holding up well against Neville on straight line plays, but they could not master the Tigers' long end runs that were a constant threat and often put the Bengals in scoring positions.

Harris Bell, Tiger halfback, received the opening kick-off of the game on his own 20-yard stripe and made a return of 36 yards to Minden's 46. The first ball snapped back was fumbled but recovered by Neville for a four-yard loss, but after that Coach Percy Brown's boys really started and there was no stopping them.

The lost yardage was soon won back, however, and a first down with it as three end runs, a short one by Basco followed by a seven yard run around left end by Haddad and a 20 yard jaunt around right end by Basco put the nugget on Minden's 19-yard marker. Two thrusts at the line failed and then Basco circled left end for nine. He also hit the middle of the line for another yard and a second first down. With the ball just inside the invaders' ten-yard zone Basco scampered on another long end run to the right but was brought down just one yard short of a touchdown. Pappas plowed into the opposing forward wall for the extra yard and the touchdown. A place kick by Pappas converted the extra point.

At the opening of the second quarter, Harp, Minden fullback, kicked to Neville's 41-yard line where the ball was downed. A try around left end by Haddad resulted in no gain, but on the next play the fleet-footed Basco tore around the Tigers' left end behind perfect interference that pushed back the encroaching Tide. The sturdy halfback got into a clear field and seemed touchdown bound when Moses, fast stepping quarterback of the visitors, ran him down and tackled him from behind on the Minden 20, after a run of 39 yards.

Neville was held for downs after gaining five yards, and Minden, getting possession of the ball, attempted to kick out but the Tiger line surged in upon Harp to smother his punt which was recovered by Neville on

FERRIDAY-WINNFIELD GAME SCORELESS TIE

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—On a muddy field with both teams resorting to a passing attack, the Ferriday Bulldogs played a scoreless tie with Coach Alwin Stokes' Winnfield High school eleven here yesterday afternoon before a large gathering of local and visiting fans.

Although outweighed several pounds to the man by the visiting squad, the local eleven showed a well balanced attack and gave the Winn parish eleven plenty of competition throughout.

Both teams threatened several times but neither could get the wet pigskin over the last markers.

It was the second game of the season for the Bulldogs and while they showed some improvement over their opening engagement which they won from Rayville 7 to 0, the local mentors, Eastman and Priester, are far from being satisfied with the team as a whole and expect to work the Bulldogs overtime during the week in preparation for their tilt in Natchez Friday afternoon with Coach W. B. Fowler's Natchez Blue Boys.

CARDINALS BREAK WINNING STREAK OF CHICAGO CUBS

Too Late To Matter, St. Louis Beats New Champions, 7 To 5

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Too late to make any difference, except break the Chicago Cubs' winning streak at 21 straight games, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the new National league champions, 7 to 5, in eleven innings today.

Jack Rothrock singled to open the eleventh and Joe Medwick followed with his second home run of the game for the Red Birds' winning margin. Rothrock was also on base when Joe hit his first four-bagger in the sixth.

The two players each got four hits to lead the 13-hit attack against Larry French and Steve Kowalik. Recruit Jim Winford started for the Cards.

Rothrock singled in the fourth and Medwick promptly tripled him across, then scored on Jim Collins' long outfield fly. Virgil Davis and Leo Durocher singled, Davis scoring when Catcher Hank O'Dea threw wild on an attempted double steal.

Chuck Klein's home run with Augie Galan, who had tripled, on base gave the Cubs two runs in the fifth. Three behind, they tied the score in the ninth, driving Winford from the mound. Klein and O'Dea singled, Joe Demaree tripled and Phil Cavarretta singled. Stan Hack hit into a double play, Lyle Judy to Jim Collins, to end the rally.

WINNSBORO AND JENA IN SCORELESS GAME

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Winnsboro and Jena tied up yesterday afternoon in a sea of mud and after four quarters of slipping and sliding the score stood at 0 to 0.

An all day rain made the gridiron extremely slippery so that it was impossible to judge the caliber of either team. Frequent fumbles were made by both teams. Each tried several passes but none were completed. Straight football was used largely by both sides all through the game.

GOOD GOODS WINS HANDICAP BY NOSE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Good Goods, Brookmeade Stable's brown 4-year-old colt, put on a pounding drive in the last quarter today to come up from fourth and win the $10,000 added Havre De Grace handicap by a nose.

Second in the mile and a furlong test for 3-year-olds and up was Edward F. Seagram's Stand Pat by a length over Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One. Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply, the popular favorite, was fourth by a head.

CENTENARY GENTS TROUNCE NORMAL

Shreveport Eleven Is Held Scoreless In Opening Quarter

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Scoring in the second, third and fourth periods, after being held scoreless in the opening quarter, Centenary college defeated Louisiana State Normal, an S. I. A. A. foe, 21 to 0 here Saturday afternoon to usher in their home season.

The visitors presented a strong defense but their offense was nil against the powerful Gents, who allowed only six yards to be gained on plays from scrimmage. They failed to make a first down while Centenary turned in 16.

Starting on the enemy's eight yard line as the second quarter got under way, the Gents rushed over three line plays for their first score, Stone making the touchdown. A covered fumble on Normal's 18 yard line put the Gents in scoring position in the third quarter and Crowther took it across.

Completing a drive that started late in the third period the Gents scored in the first minute of play in the fourth quarter, Stone scoring from his one-yard line.

DETROIT TIGERS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH WHITE SOX

Jones Hurls Chicago Victory, Rowe Wins Game For Champions

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The champion Detroit Tigers split a double header with the White Sox at Comiskey park this afternoon, winning the final, 8 to 3, after dropping the opener, 6 to 3, to the cagey hurling of the veteran Sad Sam Jones.

Schoolboy Rowe virtually clinched the starting assignment in the opener of the world's series by turning in a neat hurling job in the nightcap before retiring in favor of Roxie Lawson after seven innings in which he yielded as many hits.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY WINS OPENING GAME

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Showing flashes of brilliant power, the University of Texas defeated the Texas College of Arts and Industries today in the season's opener, 38 to 6.

The Javelinas' only tally came in the second period when Johnny McNabb, halfback, took a Texas kickoff and drove and wiggled his way through a broken field for a 92-yard touchdown run.

Texas' backfield lived up to expectations but the line play was ragged. The Longhorn pass defense was almost faultless, six of eight Javelina passes being intercepted.

Texas made a net of 249 yards from scrimmage to eight for the Javelinas. The Longhorns were penalized 135 yards and the Javelinas 10.

Canzoneri Defends Lightweight Title Against Al Roth Friday Night

By John J. Romano

Tony Canzoneri's right to the world's lightweight title will be contested by Al Roth at Madison Square Garden, New York, next Friday evening. The little Italian who has had his name inscribed as the holder of four titles, the featherweight, junior lightweight, lightweight and junior welterweight, no longer feels the urge to do great things in the ring because he is now thoroughly convinced that Barney Ross can no longer do 135 pounds and will never fight him.

The news from San Francisco that Ross weighed 142 pounds, survived two knockdowns at the hands of Ceferino Garcia in the first round and then came on to win, is proof that the Chicagoan is at his best over the 140-pound mark and that it would be sheer folly for him to pare down to the lightweight limit to give Tony a chance to avenge the two hairline decisions scored against him.

Canzoneri has never subscribed to the opinion that Ross was a better man, despite the fact that Barney surprised the fistic world by not only standing toe to toe with the hard-hitting Jimmy McLarnin but actually outboxing him to earn the decision and welter crown. When Ross later lost to McLarnin, Canzoneri made every effort to induce Ross to meet him. A dispute over the site of the battle prevented a third meeting between the pair of little game-cocks and this summer saw Barney and Jimmy at it hammer and thongs in their third meeting, with the former coing out on top after a close, bitter struggle which found many dissenting with the official verdict.

The idea that Ross would not enter the ring at his best fighting weight with a puncher like Garcia was considered foolhardy. Barney is not that foolish. One hundred and forty-two pounds was the official weight. This can only mean that the Windy City battler cannot possibly work off seven pounds by ordinary work and the lightweight title, whatever it is worth to Canzoneri, is his by default.

Tony was a little shaver in his native New Orleans when he came under the eye of Pete Herman, the former world's bantamweight champion. He boxed fully two years in the amateur ranks before he moved to Brooklyn, N. Y. He was only 19 years when he took part in his first 10-round contest in 1926. He gave his age as 21 in order to be permitted to box more than six rounds. Therefore, his close friends say, he is really two years away from the 30 on the books.

Canzoneri's opponents read like a "Who's Who In Boxing" during the time he has wielded his fists. Imagine a warrior fighting such bantams as Young Montreal, Bushy Graham, Andre Routis, Davey Abad, and others in his second year as a pro! Add to these the names of Johnny Dundee, Bud Taylor, Eddie Anderson, Ignacio Fernandez, Benny Bass, Chick Suggs, Al Singer, Sammy Mandell, Kid Chocolate, Jack Kid Berg, Wesley Ramey, Harry Dubinsky, and not forgetting Barney Ross, and you have the names of those past and present who have made ring history.

The scrappy little Italian has turned back many heavier boys who aspired to heavier titles. These was never any question of his gameness and fitness in the ring. You have but to remember that Canzoneri never lost a fight on a foul throughout his entire career and your opinion of a remarkable fighter is considerably heightened.

The idea that Canzoneri will not fight his best against Al Roth now that Barney Ross is definitely out of his plans is preposterous. Tony has contracted to do his best and he is no less determined to fight as well against Roth as he would if facing Ross. The fighting instinct is too much a part of him to allow a disappointment, as great as it is, to let down for an instant. He has all to lose and nothing to gain against a boy little known outside of his native city and beaten several times last year by featherweights. Roth's best fights this year were against Leonard Del Genio and Davey Day. His victory over the latter is the basis of his right to contest for the 135-pound title.

Too often in the past has it been said that Tony Canzoneri is burned out. It is true that he has fought often and regularly against the best of his weight in the world. He has lost close decisions when nothing much was at stake. But that was the expected let-down of a highly geared, frequently working fighting machine. The fact that he suffered the first knockdown of his long career against a light puncher like Bobby Pacho recently does not necessarily mean Tony is washed up.

Roth is a determined youngster with a chip on his shoulder. He is one of the new order who looks confidently forward to upsetting the old deal. He is aggressive and stands up nicely under a hard blow, but if Canzoneri is in anything like the form he displayed against Lou Ambers, a far classier and better boxer than Roth, Tony figures to box rings around his rival and make him look silly trying to park one of his wild swings on the proud wearer of the purple robes.

WORLD SERIES TEAMS EVEN IN DEFENSIVE STRENGTH

HANK GREENBERG IS TIGER THREAT FOR BAT ATTACK

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Big Hank Greenberg and his home run bat give the Detroit infield an edge in attack over the sensational Chicago Cubs but from the standpoint of defensive excellence it's a case of close your eyes and take your pick.

Taking man for man in the two infields, which have dazzled their respective leagues, you can't give any player a wide edge of superiority until you get to big Hank. Although a flop at the plate last fall when the St. Louis pitchers side-armed him into helplessness, Hank rates as the one-man question mark over the Cub world series hopes.

Greenberg and 19-year-old Phil Cavarretta, guardians of first base for the series foes, represent striking contrasts. The Detroit star is steady, experienced and brilliant. Cavarretta, just out of high school, is inexperienced and his judgment, at times, is shaky. His throwing arm isn't so good but he can get "tough" when the going is the roughest. Phil undoubtedly will be a great star some day but right now he's far from being a Greenberg, who is batting .334 with 36 home runs to Cavarretta's .273.

Charley Gehringer and Billy Herman are the finest second basemen of their circuits, defensively and offensively, but in fielding you have to give Bill Jurges the nod over Billy Rogell and Stan Hack an edge over Marvin Owen at shortstop and third, respectively. Jurges can't hit with Rogell but he can cover more territory. Hack is superior to Owen at bat and in competitive spirit, a margin that is reduced somewhat by his inherent weakness in fielding bunts.

Mickey Cochrane, one of baseball's greatest figures, is faster on his feet than the great Cub backstop, Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, whose lack of speed contributes a lot of double plays to the enemy, but there isn't much to choose between them. Base stealers had better beware their mighty throwing arms. Both are the real spark plugs of their clubs. Gabby has been having his best hitting year this season, a better one than Mickey.

The Cubs have one distinct margin in infield reserves with their team captain, Woody English, ready to step in at any infield position, and with Outfielder Fred Lindstrom capable of moving in to play either third, shortstop or second in an emergency.

SERIES BROADCAST

The sports department of the Morning World and News-Star will broadcast each game of the world series by loudspeaker from the newspapers' offices. A big play-o-graph will be installed in front of the building and each play will be illustrated.

The first game of the series will be played Wednesday at Navin field in Detroit, starting at 12:30 o'clock noon Monroe time.

OUTCLASS CADETS COMPLETELY WITH SLASHING ATTACK

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A slashing, crashing Tulane football team today smothered the Virginia Military institute Cadets 44 to 0 in the opening game of the football season.

The Cadets fought valiantly but they were outclassed completely. The game was so one-sided the 15,000 spectators lost interest in the last quarter and began moving homeward.

The first team of the Green Wave toyed with the Cadets and if the second and third Tulane teams had not been thrown in the score would have been larger.

The game produced for public inspection for the first time, another budding gridiron star in Douglas Johnson, of New Orleans, a fast, hard driving runner, blocker and anything else needed on a football field. The short times he was in play he dominated the situation. He set up the first two touchdowns of the game, cleared the way for Mintz and came back in the third quarter and took one over himself.

But among the Cadets there was one little trooper, Wayt Clark of Roanoke, who rose to the heights of brilliancy and made heroic efforts to stop the storm of the Green Wave and rally his fallen comrades.

The Cadets were literally crushed by Tulane's first and second teams but they gave the third team all they wanted. The coaches had to pull the third team out in mass and substitute the first and then the second. The Cadets had few reserves and were outweighed ten pounds to a man in the backfield.

Tulane launched a rapid fire running attack that swept the Cadets backwards and sideways. Then Tulane fired an air attack that baffled the Virginians and cracked the line when it chose. With the first team it was a rout, with the second a charge and with the third an even break.

A glance at the statistics tell the story. Tulane gained 360 yards from running and passing against V. M. I.'s 59, Tulane gained 61 yards from completed passes against V. M. I.'s 30, Tulane made 14 first downs against the Cadets' 6. Tulane lost 17 yards in running plays against the Cadets' 78. And the rest is the same story.

OLE MISS BEATS TEACHERS, 92-0

State University Eleven Scores At Will Through Forward Wall

Gaining through the line at will and using frequent lateral passes to advantage, Ole Miss substitute backs in the second and fourth quarters failed to slacken their scoring pace.

The Teachers failed of a touchdown threat and only twice advanced the ball to Mississippi territory, once on a pass, Johnson to Mayo, in the first quarter and again on a pass in the second, Tucker to Schweiger.

Rab Rodgers circled ends for many long gains and in the first quarter returned a punt from his own 95 yard line for a touchdown. Ray Hapes made the second longest run of the game in the fourth period when he took the kickoff on the ten yard line and skirted the right side of the field for a touchdown.

HOWARD COLLEGE BATTLES ALABAMA TO 7 TO 7 SCORE

Bulldogs Upset Dope In Earning Tie With Mighty Crimson Tide

By T. M. Davenport
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A brilliantly executed forward pass shunted Howard college into the gridiron spotlight today, as the fighting Bulldogs came from behind to tie the mighty Crimson Tide of Alabama, 7 to 7.

Howard's heroes of the first major upset of the football season were Ewing Harbin, a sharpshooting halfback, and Dave Snell, flashy end.

Alabama was leading 7 to 0 in the fourth period when the break came for the Bulldogs, a slugging penalty that put Howard on the Crimson 37-yard line.

Two line stabs netted seven yards, then the Crimson forwards smothered Harbin for a two-yard loss. Undaunted the plucky halfback faded back as the Crimsons surged forward and sailed a perfectly arched pass to Snell who was standing on the goal line.

Pandemonium reigned in the stands. Several hundred Howard rooters who had come to see their favorites take the usual drubbing of the "warmup" game, begged for a tie.

"Penny" Penrod, a substitute halfback, cool and calm, sighed the cross bars. Then the ball was passed and he booted a perfect kick from placement to raise Howard to the heights in football—a tie with Alabama.

Alabama had scored in the second period, after a brilliant show by Joe Riley had touched off a drive that bogged down as an offside penalty nullified a touchdown. The touchdown that didn't count came early in the second period. As the Howard line smothered the Alabama attack, Riley faded back and dropped a pass to Jimmy Walker, Tide captain, who was over the goal line, but an overanxious lineman was offside. A moment later, Riley retired, his injured leg hurt.

It looked like the usual Alabama victory over Howard in the season opener but the passing ability of Harbin changed the entire picture.

Eager with the scent of Crimson blood, Howard made a desperate effort to score again, and as the game ended the Bulldogs were battering a frantic Alabama team deep in the 'Bama territory.

The play of Howard was inspired in the second half while Alabama failed to show the fine blocking and timing of offensive play that swept the Southeastern conference and then Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

In line play, Howard had an edge, the Red and Blue forwards consistently getting the jumps on the Crimson linemen.

Penalties were frequent, both teams drawing heavy losses for slugging, and offsides were unusually numerous. Alabama lost 97 1-2 yards on penalties, and Howard 61.

The Crimsons gained a total of 136 yards, and Howard 115, with Alabama making 10 first downs to Howard's five.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Bobby Jones putting. The stroke is directed straight for the hole and the putter head kept close to the ground.

It is possible, in talking with any number of golfers, to reach a close agreement on the essentials of a correct swing for the longer clubs. But, in any company, as soon as you come to putting the harmony disappears. Inevitably there appears in this phase the old argument of the hitters against the swingers.

Two men whose work on the greens stands out are Lawson Little and Paul Runyan. Lawson, one night at Cleveland, expressed his angle something like this: "My first concern, when I step up to a putt, is of course to select the line upon which I want the ball to travel. Then I take a great deal of care to align the blade of the putter exactly square to this line."

Lines Up Putt Carefully

Little's backswing, although not fast, is of only moderate length. His stroke is very smooth, but he gives the ball a decided rap. He is a very bold putter on the holeable lengths and yet has a good touch from the edges of the greens. He takes great care to set himself and line up his putt. His stroke is directed downward so that the putter stops almost immediately after he hits the ball.

Paul Runyan, during a recent round, said, "I hang on to a putter like grim death." And plainly he does. Using a small trim aluminum putter, of fairly flat lie, he uses a very short backswing and taps the ball solidly in the direction of the hole. Although his backswing is shorter than Travis' was, every time I see him putt I think of the "Old Man's" conception of driving a tack into the back of the ball.

On the other side of the argument are Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers and Gene Sarazen, to name a few. These men all swing the putter quite freely. Their backswings are long enough to allow them to "float" the club-head through, and smoothness is the keynote throughout. When you are speaking in terms of results, the hitters will have some difficulty matching this trio.

Alignment Not Always Helpful

Lawson Little's explanation of the necessity for a careful alignment of the face of the putter forms an interesting contrast with a recent experience of my own. Three years ago the notion struck me that a little more attention to lining up my putter blade might be well repaid. So I began to work with the idea that if a precise alignment could be had, and the swing could be made so reliable that the face could be returned to the ball exactly as it left it, putting could be made to approach infallibility. My putting began immediately to grow worse. Soon I was in such a state that, confronting a 20-foot putt, I was never certain whether the ball would finish five feet short, five feet over, or as much to one side. The pains which I took to align the putter served only to tighten me up so that I could not swing it back. A considerable improvement has now appeared since I have determined to disregard the alignment altogether, and to think only of looking at the ball and swinging toward the place where I want it to go.

The Stroke's The Thing

After all, even with those whom I call hitters, the stroke is the thing. I do not believe that it is humanly possible to align a putter with the unaided eye so accurately that if swung by a machine a ball struck by it would inevitably hit a 4 1-4 inch circle at a distance of twenty feet. And when the complication of "borrow" is added the "touch" becomes equally important, for the line is right only if the speed be right.

For the average golfer, let him be a swinger or a hitter as suits him best. But let him in either case do as all good putters do—keep his putter close to the ground on both sides of the ball and direct his stroke straight toward the spot over which or to which he wants his ball to go.

DEMONS WIN GAME WITH MISSISSIPPI

Louisiana College Scores Lone Touchdown In Last Quarter

CLINTON, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A 58-yard run in the fourth quarter by Quarterback Rush gave the Louisiana college Demons of Pineville, La., a 7 to 0 victory over Mississippi college here this afternoon.

Rush picked a hole through the line on his own 42-yard line, shook off two would-be tacklers and sprinted down the sideline shortly after the final period opened to score the only touchdown of the game. He scored standing up.

Mississippi college threatened to score in the dying minutes of the game, carrying the ball deep into Louisiana territory, but the rally was short lived when a Choctaw pass was intercepted and the Demons kicked out safely.

WATERPROOF TIGERS BEAT MANGHAM, 13-2

MANGHAM, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—The Dragons of Mangham high school went down in defeat here Friday afternoon before the Waterproof Tigers, 13 to 2, in a hard fought game on a soggy turf and through a steady drizzle of rain.

Bob Fife, big Waterproof fullback, accounted for every Tiger marker with two touchdowns and an extra point. A safety gave the locals their only counter. Touchdowns by Fife came in the first and final periods.

Nash played an outstanding game for the locals. The Waterproof line played an exceptionally good game despite the fact that they were outweighed by the Dragons.

VAUGHAN, VOSMIK LEAD MAJORS IN BATTING HONORS

Each Has Virtually Won Hitting Title As Season Nears End

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—There seems to be no danger at all in awarding the major league batting titles to Floyd (Arky) Vaughan of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Joe Vosmik of the Cleveland Indians before the final results are in.

Vaughan was as safe as the proverbial church at the top of the National league when the unofficial records up through yesterday showed a .386 average for him and .350 for his nearest rival, Joe Medwick of St. Louis. There was a chance that Buddy Myer of Washington, trailing Vosmik's .351 by six points, could capture the American league lead but it was a slim one. The third place men in both leagues, Gabby Hartnett of Chicago at .344 and Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics at .338 were too far back to be considered.

WORLD SERIES TEAMS EVEN IN DEFENSIVE STRENGTH

HANK GREENBERG IS TIGER THREAT FOR BAT ATTACK

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Big Hank Greenberg and his home run bat give the Detroit infield an edge in attack over the sensational Chicago Cubs but from the standpoint of defensive excellence it's a case of close your eyes and take your pick.

Taking man for man in the two infields, which have dazzled their respective leagues, you can't give any player a wide edge of superiority until you get to big Hank. Although a flop at the plate last fall when the St. Louis pitchers side-armed him into helplessness, Hank rates as the one-man question mark over the Cub world series hopes.

Greenberg and 19-year-old Phil Cavarretta, guardians of first base for the series foes, represent striking contrasts. The Detroit star is steady, experienced and brilliant. Cavarretta, just out of high school, is inexperienced and his judgment, at times, is shaky. His throwing arm isn't so good but he can get "tough" when the going is the roughest. Phil undoubtedly will be a great star some day but right now he's far from being a Greenberg, who is batting .334 with 36 home runs to Cavarretta's .273.

Charley Gehringer and Billy Herman are the finest second basemen of their circuits, defensively and offensively, but in fielding you have to give Bill Jurges the nod over Billy Rogell and Stan Hack an edge over Marvin Owen at shortstop and third, respectively. Jurges can't hit with Rogell but he can cover more territory. Hack is superior to Owen at bat and in competitive spirit, a margin that is reduced somewhat by his inherent weakness in fielding bunts.

Mickey Cochrane, one of baseball's greatest figures, is faster on his feet than the great Cub backstop, Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, whose lack of speed contributes a lot of double plays to the enemy, but there isn't much to choose between them. Base stealers had better beware their mighty throwing arms. Both are the real spark plugs of their clubs. Gabby has been having his best hitting year this season, a better one than Mickey.

The Cubs have one distinct margin in infield reserves with their team captain, Woody English, ready to step in at any infield position, and with Outfielder Fred Lindstrom capable of moving in to play either third, shortstop or second in an emergency. Heinie Schuble and Herman "Flea" Clifton are the Tiger infield reserves.

Double plays are brilliantly executed by the rival infields, the Tigers holding the edge there with a high total of 147 to 129 for the Cubs.

SERIES BROADCAST

The sports department of the Morning World and News-Star will broadcast each game of the world series by loudspeaker from the newspapers' offices. A big play-o-graph will be installed in front of the building and each play will be illustrated.

The first game of the series will be played Wednesday at Navin field in Detroit, starting at 12:30 o'clock noon Monroe time.

OUTCLASS CADETS COMPLETELY WITH SLASHING ATTACK

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A slashing, crashing Tulane football team today smothered the Virginia Military institute Cadets 44 to 0 in the opening game of the football season.

The Cadets fought valiantly but they were outclassed completely. The game was so one-sided the 15,000 spectators lost interest in the last quarter and began moving homeward.

The first team of the Green Wave toyed with the Cadets and if the second and third Tulane teams had not been thrown in the score would have been larger.

The game produced for public inspection for the first time, another budding gridiron star in Douglas Johnson, of New Orleans, a fast, hard driving runner, blocker and anything else needed on a football field. The short times he was in play he dominated the situation. He set up the first two touchdowns of the game, cleared the way for Mintz and came back in the third quarter and took one over himself.

But among the Cadets there was one little trooper, Wayt Clark of Roanoke, who rose to the heights of brilliancy and made heroic efforts to stop the storm of the Green Wave and rally his fallen comrades.

The Cadets were literally crushed by Tulane's first and second teams but they gave the third team all they wanted. The coaches had to pull the third team out in mass and substitute the first and then the second. The Cadets had few reserves and were outweighed ten pounds to a man in the backfield.

Tulane launched a rapid fire running attack that swept the Cadets backwards and sideways. Then Tulane fired an air attack that baffled the Virginians and cracked the line when it chose. With the first team it was a rout, with the second a charge and with the third an even break.

A glance at the statistics tell the story. Tulane gained 360 yards from running and passing against V. M. I.'s 59. Tulane gained 61 yards from completed passes against V. M. I.'s 30. Tulane made 14 first downs against the Cadets' 6. Tulane lost 17 yards in running plays against the Cadets' 78. And the rest is the same story.

HOWARD COLLEGE BATTLES ALABAMA TO 7 TO 7 SCORE

Bulldogs Upset Dope In Earning Tie With Mighty Crimson Tide

By T. M. Davenport
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A brilliantly executed forward pass shunted Howard college into the gridiron spotlight today, as the fighting Bulldogs came from behind to tie the mighty Crimson Tide of Alabama, 7 to 7.

Howard's heroes of the first major upset of the football season were Ewing Harbin, a sharpshooting halfback, and Dave Snell, flashy end.

Alabama was leading 7 to 0 in the fourth period when the break came for the Bulldogs, a slugging penalty that put Howard on the Crimson 37-yard line.

Two line stabs netted seven yards, then the Crimson forwards smothered Harbin for a two-yard loss. Undaunted the plucky halfback faded back as the Crimsons surged forward and sailed a perfectly arched pass to Snell who was standing on the goal line.

Pandemonium reigned in the stands. Several hundred Howard rooters who had come to see their favorites take the usual drubbing of the "warmup" game, begged for a tie.

"Penny" Penrod, a substitute halfback, cool and calm, sighed the cross bars. Then the ball was passed and he booted a perfect kick from placement to raise Howard to the heights in football—a tie with Alabama.

Alabama had scored in the second period, after a brilliant show by Joe Riley had touched off a drive that bogged down as an offside penalty nullified a touchdown. The touchdown that didn't count came early in the second period. As the Howard line smothered the Alabama attack, Riley faded back and dropped a pass to Jimmy Walker, Tide captain, who was over the goal line, but an overanxious lineman was offside. A moment later, Riley retired, his injured leg hurt.

It looked like the usual Alabama victory over Howard in the season opener but the passing ability of Harbin changed the entire picture.

Eager with the scent of Crimson blood, Howard made a desperate effort to score again, and as the game ended the Bulldogs were battering a frantic Alabama team deep in the 'Bama territory.

The play of Howard was inspired in the second half while Alabama failed to show the fine blocking and timing of offensive play that swept the Southeastern conference and then Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

In line play, Howard had an edge, the Red and Blue forwards consistently getting the jumps on the Crimson linemen.

Penalties were frequent, both teams drawing heavy losses for slugging, and offsides were unusually numerous. Alabama lost 97 1-2 yards on penalties, and Howard 61.

The Crimsons gained a total of 136 yards, and Howard 115, with Alabama making 10 first downs to Howard's five.

Bobby Jones putting. The stroke is directed straight for the hole and the putter head kept close to the ground.

It is possible, in talking with any number of golfers, to reach a close agreement on the essentials of a correct swing for the longer clubs. But, in any company, as soon as you come to putting the harmony disappears. Inevitably there appears in this phase the old argument of the hitters against the swingers.

Two men whose work on the greens stands out are Lawson Little and Paul Runyan. Lawson, one night at Cleveland, expressed his angle something like this: "My first concern, when I step up to a putt, is of course to select the line upon which I want the ball to travel. Then I take a great deal of care to align the blade of the putter exactly square to this line."

Lines Up Putt Carefully

Little's backswing, although not fast, is of only moderate length. His stroke is very smooth, but he gives the ball a decided rap. He is a very bold putter on the holeable lengths and yet has a good touch from the edges of the greens. He takes great care to set himself and line up his putt. His stroke is directed downward so that the putter stops almost immediately after he hits the ball.

Paul Runyan, during a recent round, said, "I hang on to a putter like grim death." And plainly he does. Using a small trim aluminum putter, of fairly flat lie, he uses a very short backswing and taps the ball solidly in the direction of the hole. Although his backswing is shorter than Travis' was, every time I see him putt I think of the "Old Man's" conception of driving a tack into the back of the ball.

On the other side of the argument are Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers and Gene Sarazen, to name a few. These men all swing the putter quite freely. Their backswings are long enough to allow them to "float" the club-head through, and smoothness is the keynote throughout. When you are speaking in terms of results, the hitters will have some difficulty matching this trio.

Alignment Not Always Helpful

Lawson Little's conception of the necessity for a careful alignment of the face of the putter forms an interesting contrast with a recent experience of my own. Three years ago the notion struck me that a little more attention to lining up my putter blade might be well repaid. So I began to work with the idea that if a precise alignment could be had, and the swing could be made so reliable that the face could be returned to the ball exactly as it left it, putting could be made to approach infallibility. My putting began immediately to grow worse. Soon I was in such a state that, confronting a 20-foot putt, I was never certain whether the ball would finish five feet short, five feet over, or as much to one side. The pains which I took to align the putter served only to tighten me up so that I could not swing it back. A considerable improvement has now appeared since I have determined to disregard the alignment altogether, and to think only of looking at the ball and swinging toward the place where I want it to go.

The Stroke's The Thing

After all, even with those whom I call hitters, the stroke is the thing. I do not believe that it is humanly possible to align a putter with the unaided eye so accurately that if swung by a machine a ball struck by it would inevitably hit a 4 1-4 inch circle at a distance of twenty feet. And when the complication of "borrow" is added the "touch" becomes equally important, for the line is right only if the speed be right.

For the average golfer, let him be a swinger or a hitter as suits him best. But let him in either case do as all good putters do—keep his putter close to the ground on both sides of the ball and direct his stroke straight toward the spot over which or to which he wants his ball to go.

OLE MISS BEATS TEACHERS, 92-0

State University Eleven Scores At Will Through Forward Wall

Gaining through the line at will and using frequent lateral passes to advantage, Ole Miss substitute backs in the second and fourth quarters failed to slacken their scoring pace.

The Teachers failed of a touchdown threat and only twice advanced the ball to Mississippi territory, once on a pass, Johnson to Mayo, in the first quarter and again on a pass in the second, Tucker to Schweiger.

Rab Rodgers circled ends for many long gains and in the first quarter returned a punt from his own 95 yard line for a touchdown. Ray Hapes made the second longest run of the game in the fourth period when he took the kickoff on the ten yard line and skirted the right side of the field for a touchdown.

DEMONS WIN GAME WITH MISSISSIPPI

Louisiana College Scores Lone Touchdown In Last Quarter

CLINTON, Miss., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A 58-yard run in the fourth quarter by Quarterback Rush gave the Louisiana college Demons of Pineville, La., a 7 to 0 victory over Mississippi college here this afternoon.

Rush picked a hole through the line on his own 42-yard line, shook off two would-be tacklers and sprinted down the sideline shortly after the final period opened to score the only touchdown of the game. He scored standing up.

Mississippi college threatened to score in the dying minutes of the game, carrying the ball deep into Louisiana territory, but the rally was short lived when a Choctaw pass was intercepted and the Demons kicked out safely.

KELLY TO WRESTLE MANSOUR IN STADIUM FEATURE

SPECIAL PROGRAM SLATED TO USHER IN FALL SEASON

Promoter Announces Reduced Prices For Weekly Mat Program

With the advent of cool weather and a strong revival of interest in sports activities, Promoter Charlie Bruscato is arranging an all-star wrestling program which coupled with admission prices cut almost in half is designed to fill the stands of Roosevelt stadium with a capacity attendance next Wednesday night.

Promoter Bruscato is completing arrangements to sign two giants of the wrestling world for the semi-final. He said last night that he would make no definite announcement concerning this bout until the arrangements are actually completed.

Bruscato did say, however, that the semi-final performers he is endeavoring to sign will be newcomers here, grapplers recognized the country over as headliners in the wrestling world.

Each of the main event performers have appeared here before, Kelly being perhaps the most popular grappler ever to perform in Monroe. Mansour's last appearance here was several weeks ago when he wrestled Chief Chewki, the wild Indian.

The Syrian has a slight edge over Kelly, according to his record. He has defeated Louis Bacigalupi, the giant Italian, Dr. Sarpolis and Ernie Dusek.

Mansour has also distinguished himself as a weight lifter.

Promoter Bruscato announced that the price of admission for the wrestling program inaugurating the new sports season at Roosevelt stadium will be cut from 75 cents to 40 cents. Each fan purchasing one of the cut price tickets will be given a courtsey ticket to accompany the special ticket for the occasion.

In order to avoid the crowd expected to gather at the ticket window shortly before the evening's program begins, fans may call at the stadium any day preceding the program and obtain their tickets in advance.

"I would like to make the special admission price for next Wednesday night the regular admission price for all programs at the stadium," Bruscato said. "Providing a sufficient number of fans attend next Wednesday night's program, I will offer the following Wednesday night's program at the same low price, and continue the reduced price as long as I can make a go of it."

For Wednesday night of next week, the promoter is working to sign Hank Metheney for a return bout with Kelly. Last Wednesday night when the two matmen appeared in the main event here Kelly was knocked against a corner post by a blow from Metheney's fist, and his head struck the post and was severely cut. Metheney refused to meet Kelly in a return bout, but the promoter says he will either meet Kelly in a return match or be disbarred from wrestling in Louisiana.

ARKANSAS GRIDSTERS DOWN KANSAS ELEVEN

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A pair of 45-yard dashes, both in the last period, gave the University of Arkansas a 12 to 0 football victory over Kansas State Teachers College of Pittsburgh today.

A terrific drive against the tiring Teacher line, coupled with an Arkansas Porker air attack led to the touchdowns, the first by Halfback Bobbie Martin and the second by Fullback Jael. Robbins.

Kansas threatened to score several times but the Razorback line held.

Victory Marks Commodores As Future Power On Dixie Gridirons

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 28.—A dazzling 43-yard dash by Captain Willie Geny and a long pass from Rand Dixon to Dick Plasman gave Vanderbilt two touchdowns and a 14 to 9 victory over a stubborn Mississippi State eleven on Dudley field this afternoon.

The triumph sent Ray Morrison's boys off to a victorious start in the Southeastern conference race and marked Major Ralph Sasse's machine as a future power in Dixie football.

The Maroon team sent shivers down the backs of the estimated 7,000 spectators by their determined bid in the first quarter. It was in this period that Gelatka, brilliant Mississippi State end, blocked Dixon's punt behind the double stripes for a safety and two points.

After the Maroons had bottled everything the Gold and Black had to offer in an offensive way in the opening period, the Commodores forged ahead early in the second period.

Geny came back from his right flank, took the ball from Dixon on the 43-yard line and began his elusive run around left end and over the goal line. He was afforded magnificent interference, racing over the last line standing up. Throgmorton's try for point was squarely between the uprights.

It was not until the third period that Morrison's colorful brigade could muster another scoring attack. Failing to make any headway through the rugged Delta line, Dixon backed up to midfield and rifled a pass down the field to Plasman.

Pickle, Mississippi State halfback, reached out and barely tipped the ball, deflecting it but not enough to keep the elongated Commodore end from snatching it and racing the remaining 28 yards over the goal line. Again Throgmorton converted the point after from placement.

With this 12-point margin the Commodores elected to play defensive football, repulsing the dangerous Maroon offense every time in the last half except once in the fourth period.

After Dixon had punted from his 15-yard line to midfield, the Maroons began an offensive with Pickle making 15 yards around right end and Hardison adding 12 on a smash through left tackle. Vanderbilt was penalized 15 yards for holding, placing the ball on the Commodore's 8-yard stripe. Hardison battered the line for two short gains and then scored through left guard. He also place-kicked the point from placement.

Fired by their successful scoring effort, the Maroons threatened again immediately after the kickoff to Vandy Gelatka blocked Dixon's quick-kick and recovered on Vanderbilt's 23-yard line.

Pickle and Hardison advanced the ball four yards on two plays but Armstrong's fumble on the next play was recovered by Vandy. A punt sent the ball out of danger, the remainder of the game being spent near midfield.

TECH TIDINGS

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Gratified with the improvement noted in the varsity football team of Louisiana Tech, Coach Eddie McLane annointed his gridiron machinery with a few drops of praise-scented oil at the conclusion of this week's noggin knocking. The only flaw in the ointment was the chief mentor's oft-repeated remarks about that blocking bugaboo which has put dark rings under his eyes ever since the first Bulldog bit the dust early this month. The coach's intentions are to give the fans the spectacle of fast-running backs to get the job done this season, and that's why he keeps harping "block or bust" as his team song.

Hour after hour, by day or night or both, from Monday perhaps until simetime Friday, the Techsters will keep pounding away—and then at 8 o'clock this coming Friday night they will line up for the first time to disport their gridiron wares before a crowd of anxious fans who have been waiting and wondering through summer and fall what Tech can do at football. The Techmen will whet their gridiron appetites on a dish of their namesakes from Cookeville, Tenn., namely, Tennessee Tech.

The opener will be featured by the attendance of hundreds of Boy Scouts of North Louisiana, accompanied by their leaders, who have been invited to occupy the east-side stands as guests of the Tech athletics department. The other variety of scouts will be sheltered with the scribes in the press box which tops the new concrete stadium. Equipped with individual shaded lights and electric heat, the weatherproof press coop is greeted by visitors with "Oh, boy" and other expressions of journalistic ambition.

The new stadium is a story itself, judging by the remarks of those who orally editorialize that the structure is "concrete evidence of a new era in athletics at Louisiana Tech." In short, Tech is "all set" and the fans will be that way, too, when the whistle blows Friday night.

Although but little is known locally about the possibilities of Tennessee Tech for the present, Thomas L. Passons, publicity director for the institution, writes that "We are eager to give you a good game, and the Louisiana Tech boys will have to be on guard to win."

On the other hand, P. V. Overall, head mentor of the Tennessee Techmen, is beginning his thirteenth year at Cookeville Poly, and he is fearful lest the unlucky jinx will put his boys on the blink, according to press reports.

The Tennesseans launched their current campaign on their own field Friday night, defeating Milligan college, 26 to 7, and the Louisiana game will be their second of the season.

Last fall, Tennessee Tech defeated Middle Tennessee Teachers, Hiwasse, and Arkansas State college, and tied West Tennessee Teachers. They lost to West Kentucky Teachers, Murray Kentucky Teachers, Sewanee, Union university and Howard college. Perhaps their most impressive defeat came in their game with Sewanee, which they lost by the close score of 6 to 7.

This year, Tennessee Tech has virtually a new team. Only six of the 1934 lettermen returned to the Cookeville camp this fall, and only four of the six were on the first team last year. Their squad totals 27 men. The roster includes four men weighing 190 or above, who are: Evans, 195, fullback; Treis, 200, guard; Tarwater, 190, end, and Davis, 197, center.

In preparation for the Tennessee visitors, Coach McLane has been continuing his experiments with whole team combinations of sophomores and more advanced students, rather than entire aggregations of each classification alone. There have been a few changes in the practice personnel. For example, Archie Turner of Ferriday has been transferred from fullback to right half; Howard Kidd, Gibsland, from center to fullback; and Thomas Deas, Arcadia, from guard to tackle. Incidentally, the head tutor had a good word for Deas, whose work in his new role suits the fancy of the mentor.

Although the coach of the Louisiana Techmen may change his mind when the time comes, he has announced on this date that he will make substitutions by teams. After the indefinite length of "a while," the coach expects to send in a brand new team to relieve the starters.

American Golfers Gain Big Start In Ryder Cup Matches

BRITISH PLAYERS ALL BUT ROUTED IN OPENING DAY

United States Professionals Win Three Out Of Four Foursomes

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 28.—Racing away to an overwhelming start in the first day's play of the international Ryder cup golf matches, a team of American professionals today all but routed their British cousins by winning three out of four Scotch foursome matches.

The nature of the competition, two ball, alternate shots, wasn't the only thing Scotch about the opening session of the two-day biennial meeting between the golfers of the two nations. A Scotch mist, much like the Britons are used to at home, blanketed the 27-hole Ridgewood Country club layout but the mist and an accompanying drizzle turned out to be a boomerang for the invaders who found the soupy greens practically unnegotiable.

Although denied a complete rout by virtue of a one up 36-hole victory by the veteran Whitcome brothers, Charles and Ernest, over big Olin Dutra and Ky Laffoon, apparently nothing barring a complete reversal of form can now stop the Americans from recapturing the $15,000 gold cup taken by the Britons in England two years ago.

Eight singles matches, likewise at 36-holes, will close the show tomorrow. In order to clinch the cup, emblematic of world's professional team supremacy, Uncle Sam's representatives must win at least half of them. There was none, not even in the British camp, who would doubt the Yankees' ability to do this.

Veterans of all previous cup matches, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen harmoniously blended their talents to set the pace for their younger teammates. The Americans closed out Alf Perry and Jack Busson on the 30th with a brilliant display of sub-par golf.

The most lop-sided American victory was turned in by young Paul Runyan, American pro-champion and tall and willowy Horton Smith. They were only one over par for the 28 holes it took them to knock out Bill Cox and Ted Jarman by the count of 9 and 8—one of the most one-sided victories in the eight years' history of the cup competition.

PAPPAS, HADDAD MAKE TALLIES OF LOCAL GRID TEAM

Minden's 11 yard stripe. A pass, Haddad to Joe Gimler, who was playing his first game at end, netted eight yards. Two thrusts at the line brought a first down and placed the ball on the Tide's one-yard line where Haddad stabbed through right tackle for the second touchdown. The kick for the extra point went wide.

It would be hard to say which line was the best for the invaders had a line that held unwaveringly and it was rarely that Neville gained much by that route. Neville's line, too, played a sturdy game, much better than anticipated in view of the fact that only three veterans returned to the line from last year.

However, the Bengal backs surpassed their rivals without difficulty and all of them played a creditable game. Pappas, Basco, Bell, Haddad and Jim Davis were constant thorns in the Tide's defense, while F. Miller and Harp were outstanding in the Minden backfield.

P. A. Poag, Jr., Darius Crews and Ed Tonore showed up to their usual standards, while the men who are beginning their first year as regulars, John Cole, Gimler, Nick Danna and Urbane Kelly, showed they were worthy successors to those before them. G. Talton, Manis, B. Miller and L. Lewis were best in the Minden line.

The Tigers' next engagement will be with their old rivals, the Oak Grove High school Tigers. The game will be played next Saturday night at Brown stadium.

INDIANS WIN DOUBLE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians took both ends of a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns today, 3 to 0 in the first game and 7 to 3 in the final, clinching third place.

Hal Trosky hit his 26th homer of the season in the third inning of the second game and Earl Averill smacked his 19th homer of the season in the first inning of the initial game.

Joe Vosmik, battling for the league batting championship, went hitless in three times at bat in the first game and got only one hit in the second.

MONARCHS WILL PLAY HERE TODAY

Local Negro Team To Meet Arkansas Giants In Doubleheader

The Monroe Monarchs, local negro professional baseball team, will play a doubleheader with the Arkansas Giants here this afternoon at Casino park. The first game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

A near capacity attendance is expected. Special seats will be reserved for white fans.

Having recently completed a successful tour of the northern states and Canada, and having defeated the Shreveport Tigers in both games of a doubleheader last Sunday at Shreveport, the Monarchs are primed to add the Giants to their list of victims.

The Giants, however, are also a strong team, having won 41 out of 51 games this season. The team also made a west coast tour that rivaled the Monarchs' recent tour for success in winning games.

FRISCH SIGNS UP

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals today signed a one-year contract to continue at the helm of the club, its officials announced.

George Earnshaw pitched eight innings and allowed only four hits. Emil Leonard was touched for two more blows and another run in the ninth. After driving Hugh Mulcahy out in the fifth with a five-run rally featured by Linus Frey's homer, the Dodgers sent almost a whole new team into action. Al Lopez was the only Dodger to play the whole game.

KELLY TO WRESTLE MANSOUR IN STADIUM FEATURE

Promoter Announces Reduced Prices For Weekly Mat Program

With the advent of cool weather and a strong revival of interest in sports activities, Promoter Charlie Bruscato is arranging an all-star wrestling program which coupled with admission prices cut almost in half is designed to fill the stands of Roosevelt stadium with a capacity attendance next Wednesday night.

Promoter Bruscato is completing arrangements to sign two giants of the wrestling world for the semi-final. He said last night that he would make no definite announcement concerning this bout until the arrangements are actually completed.

Bruscato did say, however, that the semi-final performers he is endeavoring to sign will be newcomers here, grapplers recognized the country over as headliners in the wrestling world.

Each of the main event performers have appeared here before, Kelly being perhaps the most popular grappler ever to perform in Monroe. Mansour's last appearance here was several weeks ago when he wrestled Chief Chewki, the wild Indian.

The Syrian has a slight edge over Kelly, according to his record. He has defeated Louis Bacigalupi, the giant Italian, Dr. Sarpolis and Ernie Dusek.

Mansour has also distinguished himself as a weight lifter.

Promoter Bruscato announced that the price of admission for the wrestling program inaugurating the new sports season at Roosevelt stadium will be cut from 75 cents to 40 cents. Each fan purchasing one of the cut price tickets will be given a courtsey ticket to accompany the special ticket for the occasion.

In order to avoid the crowd expected to gather at the ticket window shortly before the evening's program begins, fans may call at the stadium any day preceding the program and obtain their tickets in advance.

"I would like to make the special admission price for next Wednesday night the regular admission price for all programs at the stadium," Bruscato said. "Providing a sufficient number of fans attend next Wednesday night's program, I will offer the following Wednesday night's program at the same low price, and continue the reduced price as long as I can make a go of it."

For Wednesday night of next week, the promoter is working to sign Hank Metheney for a return bout with Kelly. Last Wednesday night when the two matmen appeared in the main event here Kelly was knocked against a corner post by a blow from Metheney's fist, and his head struck the post and was severely cut. Metheney refused to meet Kelly in a return bout, but the promoter says he will either meet Kelly in a return match or be disbarred from wrestling in Louisiana.

ARKANSAS GRIDSTERS DOWN KANSAS ELEVEN

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A pair of 45-yard dashes, both in the last period, gave the University of Arkansas a 12 to 0 football victory over Kansas State Teachers College of Pittsburgh today.

A terrific drive against the tiring Teacher line, coupled with an Arkansas Porker air attack led to the touchdowns, the first by Halfback Bobbie Martin and the second by Fullback Jack Robbins.

Kansas threatened to score several times but the Razorback line held.

Victory Marks Commodores As Future Power On Dixie Gridirons

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 28.—A dazzling 43-yard dash by Captain Willie Geny and a long pass from Rand Dixon to Dick Plasman gave Vanderbilt two touchdowns and a 14 to 9 victory over a stubborn Mississippi State eleven on Dudley field this afternoon.

The triumph sent Ray Morrison's boys off to a victorious start in the Southeastern conference race and marked Major Ralph Sasse's machine as a future power in Dixie football.

The Maroon team sent shivers down the backs of the estimated 7,000 spectators by their determined bid in the first quarter. It was in this period that Gelatka, brilliant Mississippi State end, blocked Dixon's punt behind the double stripes for a safety and two points.

After the Maroons had bottled everything the Gold and Black had to offer in an offensive way in the opening period, the Commodores forged ahead early in the second period. Geny came back from his right flank, took the ball from Dixon on the 43-yard line and began his elusive run around left end and over the goal line. He was afforded magnificent interference, racing over the last line standing up. Throgmorton's try for point was squarely between the uprights.

It was not until the third period that Morrison's colorful brigade could muster another scoring attack. Failing to make any headway through the rugged Delta line, Dixon backed up to midfield and rifled a pass down the field to Plasman.

Pickle, Mississippi State halfback, reached out and barely tipped the ball, deflecting it but not enough to keep the elongated Commodore end from snatching it and racing the remaining 28 yards over the goal line. Again Throgmorton converted the point after from placement.

With this 12-point margin the Commodores elected to play defensive football, repulsing the dangerous Maroon offense every time in the last half except once in the fourth period.

After Dixon had punted from his 15-yard line to midfield, the Maroons began an offensive with Pickle making 15 yards around right end and Hardison adding 12 on a smash through left tackle. Vanderbilt was penalized 15 yards for holding, placing the ball on the Commodore's 8-yard stripe. Hardison battered the line for two short gains and then scored through left guard. He also place-kicked the point from placement.

Fired by their successful scoring effort, the Maroons threatened again immediately after the kickoff to Vandy. Gelatka blocked Dixon's quick-kick and recovered on Vanderbilt's 23-yard line.

Pickle and Hardison advanced the ball four yards on two plays but Armstrong's fumble on the next play was recovered by Vandy. A punt sent the ball out of danger, the remainder of the game being spent near midfield.

TECH TIDINGS

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—Gratified with the improvement noted in the varsity football team of Louisiana Tech, Coach Eddie McLane annointed his gridiron machinery with a few drops of praise-scented oil at the conclusion of this week's noggin knocking. The only flaw in the ointment was the chief mentor's oft-repeated remarks about that blocking bugaboo which has put dark rings under his eyes ever since the first Bulldog bit the dust early this month. The coach's intentions are to give the fans the spectacle of fast-running backs to get the job done this season, and that's why he keeps harping "block or bust" as his team song.

Hour after hour, by day or night or both, from Monday perhaps until simetime Friday, the Techsters will keep pounding away—and then at 8 o'clock this coming Friday night they will line up for the first time to disport their gridiron wares before a crowd of anxious fans who have been waiting and wondering through summer and fall what Tech can do at football. The Techmen will whet their gridiron appetites on a dish of their namesakes from Cookeville, Tenn., namely, Tennessee Tech.

The opener will be featured by the attendance of hundreds of Boy Scouts of North Louisiana, accompanied by their leaders, who have been invited to occupy the east-side stands as guests of the Tech athletics department. The other variety of scouts will be sheltered with the scribes in the press box which tops the new concrete stadium. Equipped with individual shaded lights and electric heat, the weatherproof press coop is greeted by visitors with "Oh, boy" and other expressions of journalistic ambition.

The new stadium is a story itself, judging by the remarks of those who orally editorialize that the structure is "concrete evidence of a new era in athletics at Louisiana Tech." In short, Tech is "all set" and the fans will be that way, too, when the whistle blows Friday night.

Although but little is known locally about the possibilities of Tennessee Tech for the present, Thomas L. Passons, publicity directer for the institution, writes that "We are eager to give you a good game, and the Louisiana Tech boys will have to be on guard to win."

On the other hand, P. V. Overall, head mentor of the Tennessee Techmen, is beginning his thirteenth year at Cookeville Poly, and he is fearful lest the unlucky jinx will put his boys on the blink, according to press reports.

The Tennesseans launched their current campaign on their own field Friday night, defeating Milligan college, 26 to 7, and the Louisiana game will be their second of the season.

Last fall, Tennessee Tech defeated Middle Tennessee Teachers, Hiwasse, and Arkansas State college, and tied West Tennessee Teachers. They lost to West Kentucky Teachers, Murray Kentucky Teachers, Sewanee, Union university and Howard college. Perhaps their most impressive defeat came in their game with Sewanee, which they lost by the close score of 6 to 7.

This year, Tennessee Tech has virtually a new team. Only six of the 1934 lettermen returned to the Cookeville camp this fall, and only four of the six were on the first team last year. Their squad totals 27 men. The roster includes four men weighing 190 or above, who are: Evans, 195, fullback; Treis, 200, guard; Tarwater, 190, end, and Davis, 197, center.

In preparation for the Tennessee visitors, Coach McLane has been continuing his experiments with whole team combinations of sophomores and more advanced students, rather than entire aggregations of each classification alone. There have been a few changes in the practice personnel. For example, Archie Turner of Ferriday has been transferred from fullback to right half; Howard Kidd, Gibsland, from center to fullback; and Thomas Deas, Arcadia, from guard to tackle. Incidentally, the head tutor had a good word for Deas, whose work in his new role suits the fancy of the mentor.

Although the coach of the Louisiana Techmen may change his mind when the time comes, he has announced on this date that he will make substitutions by teams. After the indefinite length of "a while," the coach expects to send in a brand new team to relieve the starters.

BRITISH PLAYERS ALL BUT ROUTED IN OPENING DAY

United States Professionals Win Three Out Of Four Foursomes

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 28.—Racing away to an overwhelming start in the first day's play of the international Ryder cup golf matches, a team of American professionals today all but routed their British cousins by winning three out of four Scotch foursome matches.

The nature of the competition, two ball, alternate shots, wasn't the only thing Scotch about the opening session of the two-day biennial meeting between the golfers of the two nations. A Scotch mist, much like the Britons are used to at home, blanketed the 27-hole Ridgewood Country club layout but the mist and an accompanying drizzle turned out to be a boomerang for the invaders who found the soupy greens practically unnegotiable.

Although denied a complete rout by virtue of a one up 36-hole victory by the veteran Whitcome brothers, Charles and Ernest, over big Olin Dutra and Ky Laffoon, apparently nothing barring a complete reversal of form can now stop the Americans from recapturing the $15,000 gold cup taken by the Britons in England two years ago.

Eight singles matches, likewise at 36-holes, will close the show tomorrow. In order to clinch the cup, emblematic of world's professional team supremacy, Uncle Sam's representatives must win at least half of them. There was none, not even in the British camp, who would doubt the Yankees' ability to do this.

Veterans of all previous cup matches, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen harmoniously blended their talents to set the pace for their younger teammates. The Americans closed out Alf Perry and Jack Busson on the 30th with a brilliant display of sub-par golf.

The most lop-sided American victory was turned in by young Paul Runyan, American pro-champion and tall and willowy Horton Smith. They were only one over par for the 28 holes it took them to knock out Bill Cox and Ted Jarnan by the count of 9 and 8—one of the most one-sided victories in the eight years' history of the cup competition.

PAPPAS, HADDAD MAKE TALLIES OF LOCAL GRID TEAM

Minden's 11 yard stripe. A pass, Haddad to Joe Gimler, who was playing his first game at end, netted eight yards. Two thrusts at the line brought a first down and placed the ball on the Tide's one-yard line where Haddad stabbed through right tackle for the second touchdown. The kick for the extra point went wide.

It would be hard to say which line was the best for the invaders had a line that held unwaveringly and it was rarely that Neville gained much by that route. Neville's line, too, played a sturdy game, much better than anticipated in view of the fact that only three veterans returned to the line from last year.

However, the Bengal backs surpassed their rivals without difficulty and all of them played a creditable game. Pappas, Basco, Bell, Haddad and Jim Davis were constant thorns in the Tide's defense, while F. Miller and Harp were outstanding in the Minden backfield.

P. A. Poag, Jr., Darius Crews and Ed Tonore showed up to their usual standards, while the men who are beginning their first year as regulars, John Cole, Gimler, Nick Danna and Urbane Kelly, showed they were worthy successors to those before them. G. Talton, Manis, B. Miller and L. Lewis were best in the Minden line.

The Tigers' next engagement will be with their old rivals, the Oak Grove High school Tigers. The game will be played next Saturday night at Brown stadium.

INDIANS WIN DOUBLE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians took both ends of a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns today, 3 to 0 in the first game and 7 to 3 in the final, clinching third place.

Hal Trosky hit his 26th homer of the season in the third inning of the second game and Earl Averill smacked his 19th homer of the season in the first inning of the initial game.

Joe Vosmik, battling for the league batting championship, went hitless in three times at bat in the first game and got only one hit in the second.

MONARCHS WILL PLAY HERE TODAY

Local Negro Team To Meet Arkansas Giants In Doubleheader

The Monroe Monarchs, local negro professional baseball team, will play a doubleheader with the Arkansas Giants here this afternoon at Casino park. The first game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

A near capacity attendance is expected. Special seats will be reserved for white fans.

Having recently completed a successful tour of the northern states and Canada, and having defeated the Shreveport Tigers in both games of a doubleheader last Sunday at Shreveport, the Monarchs are primed to add the Giants to their list of victims.

The Giants, however, are also a strong team, having won 41 out of 51 games this season. The team also made a west coast tour that rivaled the Monarchs' recent tour for success in winning games.

FRISCH SIGNS UP

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals today signed a one-year contract to continue at the helm of the club, its officials announced.

feated the Phillies 12 to 2 today for their sixth straight victory.

George Earnshaw pitched eight innings and allowed only four hits. Emil Leonard was touched for two more blows and another run in the ninth. After driving Hugh Mulcahy out in the fifth with a five-run rally featured by Linus Frey's homer, the Dodgers sent almost a whole new team into action. Al Lopez was the only Dodger to play the whole game.

DEMPSEY SAYS LOUIS WILL BEAT BRADDOCK

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, declared today Joe Louis will knock out Jimmy Braddock, present titleholder in the first round when they meet and will hold the crown ten years.

"I don't know of a fighter today who could whip him," the former Manassa Mauler continued. "Braddock? Jim would last only one round against Joe, or until the negro put over his first good punch. Mind you, I'm not running Braddock down, but Joe hits entirely too hard for the champion."

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The cotton market ended the week today on the downtrend when hedge selling more than offset the light trade demand and active futures ended from 1 to 3 points lower.

Light professional and trade buying at the start of trading brought about minor advances, but the gain failed to hold as hedge pressure increased and the market slipped off to net losses for the day.

October closed at 10.42 bid, Dec. at 10.40, March at 10.51 and May at 10.59. The volume of dealings was comparatively active, but attempts to advance prices were met by the ever present hedge offerings and the result was an easier tone.

Exports today were 20,058 bales.

AVERAGE MIDDLING PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The average price of middling spot cotton at 10 southern markets today was 10.41 cents a pound; the government subsidy on cotton sold today will be 1.59 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A considerable volume of hedging in cotton was absorbed by covering and week-end buying today within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations. December after selling at 10.48 at the start, eased off to 10.42 and closed at 10.44 with the general market closing steady net 3 points higher on October and unchanged to 2 points lower on later deliveries.

Cotton futures closed steady, 3 higher to 2 lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 28.—The alcohols, motors and a few scattered specialties accounted for the principal buying in today's brief stock market session.

Traders exhibited more than their usual caution and dullness was the rule throughout. Many issues were unchanged. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speculative urge seemingly was dormant so far as the majority of leading equities was concerned.

Friendliness for the automotive group was said to have been based on hopes that the new cars, shortly to make their appearance, will attract a sales demand above the ordinary.

The coming to life of the liquor section reflected estimates of seasonal gains in consumption which are being experienced by some of the larger companies.

Commodities offered little assistance to stocks. Grains were inclined to slip and cotton backed and filled diffidently. Bonds were listless, although U. S. government securities were a bit improved. Various gold currencies edged higher in foreign exchange dealings.

Shares, up fractionally to a point or so, included Schenley, U. S. industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson Motors, Ludlum Steel, Westinghouse, Standard Gas, Bullard Co., Coca-Cola, Libbey-Owens, Owens-Illinois, Murray Corp., and Allied Chemical. Such issues as Santa Fe, N. Y. Steel, Bethlehem, General Electric and American Smelting moved only a shade in either direction. Pullman was rather heavy.

The slightly better tone to European news was a helpful influence in the equities division, but brokers remarked that the market apparently has been trying to break away from restraints created by foreign developments.

Some analysts pointed to the indifferent behavior of the rails as a factor in the market's recent backwardness. It was felt their refusal to respond to generally favorable car loadings figures might indicate that other considerations, aside from the upward trend of traffic, are assuming increasing importance.

Signs of further business expansion were cheering to recovery forces. The Associated Press index of weekly industrial activity advanced to 71 from 70.1 last week. The composite stood at 56.5 in the same 1934 week. Every component of the index registered better than seasonal improvement with the exception of freight shipments which, although at a new top since November, 1931, did not increase quite as much as expected.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Stirred by unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain prices here scored early advances today. Cables said trade nervousness prevailed abroad owing to tense political conditions relative to Italy and Ethiopia, and that rains in Argentine drouth districts were inadequate.

Opening 1-4 to 5-8 higher, December 98 5-8, the Chicago wheat market then rose further. Corn started 1-2 off to 1-4 up, December 58 to 58 1-4, and soon climbed all around.

Corn closed 1-4 to 1 3-8 lower than yesterday's finish, December 57 3-4 to 7-8, wheat, 1-8 to 1-2 down, December 98 to 98 1-8, oats 1-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 32,644,000 bushels, corn 6,913,000. Open interest in wheat was 117,085,000 bushels, and in corn 26,576,000.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

LOCAL DEALER TO SHOW 1936 BUICK

Lennon Motor Company Has New Models At North Third And Washington

Lennon Motor company announces the showing of the new Buick for 1936. Four new lines of automobiles, the result of two years of preparation involving complete redesign of the product and sweeping changes in manufacturing facilities, will be on display.

Styled and engineered to meet every requirement of the modern motorist, the new Buicks have exceptional speed, maneuverability and economy; unusually attractive style treatment, and rugged construction that provides characteristic dependability in a group of cars that will be noted for their flashing performance.

Buick for 1936 offers a standard production car in the $1,000 field having the qualifications of a specially built racing automobile. At the same time, the company offers three other lines ranging from the low medium through the medium price brackets.

Two straight eight valve-in-head engines of Buick design, developing 93 and 120 horsepower, are the power plants for the four lines of cars. Among other features are new streamlined styling with speed motif throughout, solid steel "Turret Top" Fisher bodies, slanting Vee-type windshields, anodized alloy pistons of light weight and the hardness of cast iron, sealed chassis, improved independent front wheel suspension and hydraulic brakes.

The four series of cars, ranging upward in wheelbase, weight and price class, are the Buick Special, the Buick Century, the Roadmaster and the Limited. Numeral designations of the four groups are the series 40, series 60, series 80 and series 90 respectively.

Interiors of the 1936 Buicks match their attractive exteriors. Here also the speed-line motif prevails in the design of door and ventilator handles, instrument panel, trim and all interior fittings. A new style of upholstering, emphasizing the same theme, has been accomplished using fabrics of exceptional quality.

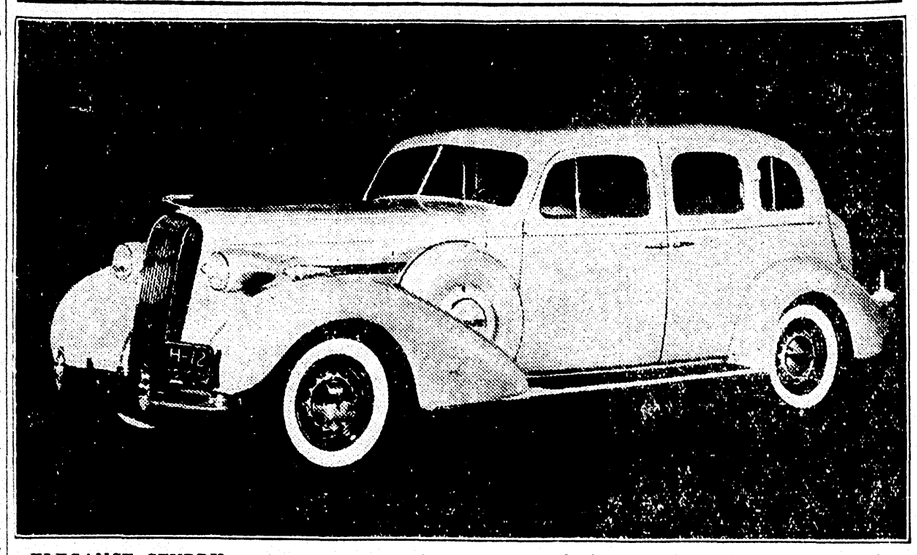

Built-in trunk design is a feature of all Buick sedan models for 1936.

The new Buick engines, while lighter, develop greater horsepower, are completely silent and outdo anything ever offered by this company. Outstanding features which contribute to their exceptional performance, stamina and economy are Anolite pistons, stiffer crankshafts, crankshaft torsional balancers, stream-lined combustion chambers, improved valve mechanism, oil temperature control, improved cooling, improved dual downdraft carburation, new automatic choke, automatic heat control, cold idle control, vacuumatic spark control and other aids to engine operation.

The Buick gliding ride, characteristic of this company's cars of the past two years, is improved through the retention of knee-action wheels of improved Buick design. Changes in many features were made to meet the needs of changed car weights and the new conditions brought about by Buick's unusual step-up in general performance.

One of the outstanding features of the new Buick interiors is an increase in headroom, leg room and elbow room in all series.

Style, Stability and Performance Feature Buick Roadmasters for 1936

ELEGANCE, STURDY construction and outstanding speed and performance ability characterize the new Buick 80 Roadmaster series, one of the leaders of the Buick Motor Company's four lines of cars announced for 1936. Photograph shows the Roadmaster four door, six-passenger sedan with built-in trunk. Fenderwell equipment is an innovation in the modern streamline design.

INDUSTRIAL BRIEFS

Building permits show that that industry is on the upturn. In West Monroe alone permits since January 1, 1935, total $16,674.

Have you ever stopped to notice the distinct changes on DeSiard street in the past few years. Most noticeable is the south side of the 200 block on DeSiard street. So many new fronts have been installed that it looks like a different city compared with two years ago.

BARBER SHOP IS WELL KNOWN HERE

Full Supply Of Xemax Is Carried To Kill Dandruff, And Stop Falling Hair

Many customers of the E. N. Johnson Barber shop are using Xemax and finding that it is really worthwhile. It is sold on a money back guarantee and everyone is satisfied with its results. It cures dandruff, takes care of any eruption of the skin, and stops falling hair.

All the operators have been with Mr. Johnson for more than a year and are well acquainted with the people of Monroe. They are: L. A. Harveston, H. A. Jasper, "Red" Hedgepeth, and E. N. Johnson. Each and everyone will be glad to serve the people of this community. The shop is well equipped to supply service to any need that the customer may demand.

Mr. Johnson has operated a barber shop in Monroe for the past eleven years. His first shop was located near the Missouri Pacific depot. He later moved to his present location at 108 6th street in the Kersh hotel building. Here his ship is conveniently located to serve all of his customers.

The latest in ladies hair bobbing is a specialty of the shop. The different styles have been studied so that the correct bob can be given to suit the wearer.

Mr. Jornson expressed his thanks for the past patronage he has received which is best expressed in the work.

A personal appeal was made to landlords by the mayor of Fayetteville, N. C., not to evict persons who were unable to pay rent because of economic conditions.

GRIFFIN DOES ALL KINDS OF WORK

Latest Equipment And Methods Are Used In Work by Photographer

Among the many industries commercial photography stands out in its field. A really good photographer must have the latest equipment and know the latest methods. Durwood Griffin, in charge of the commercial photography department at Griffin studio, has made a complete study of photography and is capable of handling anything that might arise.

Commercial work was taken under Mr. Cook of Kaufman-Fabry of Chicago. This included illustrative and straight commercial photography. Mr. Griffin does some portrait work, but his main work is in the commercial department.

No amateurs are taken into this school. A requirement for admission is that the pupil have some experience in the field. It is open a few months each year and the teachers are prominent in the field of photography. Most of them are connected with some of the larger studios of the country while others are employed by large manufacturers of photo equipment. Each is well experienced in his field.

Griffin studio (commercial department) is the official press photographer for the News-Star—World. All of the society and industrial page photos are made by them.

A specialty of the department is photographing scenes in smaller towns around Monroe. Mr. Griffin stated that they were able to go any place at any time.

Many pictures are taken for lawyers to be used in law suits. Photographs of government construction work are taken periodically during the building. Several farms and plantations have had photographs of their crops made during the harvest season. All negatives are kept on file for future use.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The cotton market ended the week today on the downtrend when hedge selling more than offset the light trade demand and active futures ended from 1 to 3 points lower.

Light professional and trade buying at the start of trading brought about minor advances, but the gain failed to hold as hedge pressure increased and the market slipped off to net losses for the day.

October closed at 10.42 bid, Dec. at 10.40, March at 10.51 and May at 10.59. The volume of dealings was comparatively active, but attempts to advance prices were met by the ever present hedge offerings and the result was an easier tone.

Exports today were 20,058 bales.

AVERAGE MIDDLING PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The average price of middling spot cotton at 10 southern markets today was 10.41 cents a pound; the government subsidy on cotton sold today will be 1.59 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—A considerable volume of hedging in cotton was absorbed by covering and week-end buying today within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations. December after selling at 10.48 at the start, eased off to 10.42 and closed at 10.44 with the general market closing steady net 3 points higher on October and unchanged to 2 points lower on later deliveries.

Cotton futures closed steady, 3 higher to 2 lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 28.—The alcohols, motors and a few scattered specialties accounted for the principal buying in today's brief stock market session.

Traders exhibited more than their usual caution and dullness was the rule throughout. Many issues were unchanged. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speculative urge seemingly was dormant so far as the majority of leading equities was concerned.

Friendliness for the automotive group was said to have been based on hopes that the new cars, shortly to make their appearance, will attract a sales demand above the ordinary.

The coming to life of the liquor section reflected estimates of seasonal gains in consumption which are being experienced by some of the larger companies.

Commodities offered little assistance to stocks. Grains were inclined to slip and cotton backed and filled diffidently. Bonds were listless, although U. S. government securities were a bit improved. Various gold currencies edged higher in foreign exchange dealings.

Shares, up fractionally to a point or so, included Schenley, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson Motors, Ludlum Steel, Westinghouse, Standard Gas, Bullard Co., Coca-Cola, Libbey-Owens, Owens-Illinois, Murray Corp., and Allied Chemical. Such issues as Santa Fe, N. Y. Steel, Bethlehem, General Electric and American Smelting moved only a shade in either direction. Pullman was rather heavy.

The slightly better tone to European news was a helpful influence in the equities division, but brokers remarked that the market apparently has been trying to break away from restraints created by foreign developments.

Some analysts pointed to the indifferent behavior of the rails as a factor in the market's recent backwardness. It was felt their refusal to respond to generally favorable car loadings figures might indicate that other considerations, aside from the upward trend of traffic, are assuming increasing importance.

Signs of further business expansion were cheering to recovery forces. The Associated Press index of weekly industrial activity advanced to 71 from 70.1 last week. The composite stood at 56.5 in the same 1934 week. Every component of the index registered better than seasonal improvement with the exception of freight shipments which, although at a new top since November, 1931, did not increase quite as much as expected.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Stocks, steady; scattered specialties higher. Bonds, mixed; U. S. governments improve. Curb, steady; alcohols advance. Foreign exchanges, quiet; gold currencies firm. Cotton, steady; spot houses buying near months. Sugar, coffee, closed.

CHICAGO.—Wheat, lower; Argentine drouth relief. Corn, weak; decidedly enlarged receipts. Cattle, nominally steady. Hogs, nominally steady.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Stirred by unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain prices here scored early advances today. Cables said trade nervousness prevailed abroad owing to tense political conditions relative to Italy and Ethiopia, and that rains in Argentine drouth districts were inadequate.

Opening 1-4 to 5-8 higher, December 98 5-8, the Chicago wheat market then rose further. Corn started 1-2 off to 1-4 up, December 58 to 58 1-4, and soon climbed all around.

Corn closed 1-4 to 1 3-8 lower than yesterday's finish, December 57 3-4 to 7-8, wheat, 1-8 to 1-2 down, December 98 to 98 1-8, oats 1-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 32,644,000 bushels, corn 6,913,000. Open interest in wheat was 117,085,000 bushels, and in corn 26,576,000.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

LOCAL DEALER TO SHOW 1936 BUICK

Lennon Motor Company Has New Models At North Third And Washington

Lennon Motor company announces the showing of the new Buick for 1936. Four new lines of automobiles, the result of two years of preparation involving complete redesign of the product and sweeping changes in manufacturing facilities, will be on display.

Styled and engineered to meet every requirement of the modern motorist, the new Buicks have exceptional speed, maneuverability and economy; unusually attractive style treatment, and rugged construction that provides characteristic dependability in a group of cars that will be noted for their flashing performance.

Buick for 1936 offers a standard production car in the $1,000 field having the qualifications of a specially built racing automobile. At the same time, the company offers three other lines ranging from the low medium through the medium price brackets.

Two straight eight valve-in-head engines of Buick design, developing 93 and 120 horsepower, are the power plants for the four lines of cars. Among other features are new streamlined styling with speed motif throughout, solid steel "Turret Top" Fisher bodies, slanting Vee-type windshields, anodized alloy pistons of light weight and the hardness of cast iron, sealed chassis, improved independent front wheel suspension and hydraulic brakes.

The four series of cars, ranging upward in wheelbase, weight and price class, are the Buick Special, the Buick Century, the Roadmaster and the Limited. Numeral designations of the four groups are the series 40, series 60, series 80 and series 90 respectively.

Interiors of the 1936 Buicks match their attractive exteriors. Here also the speed-line motif prevails in the design of door and ventilator handles, instrument panel, trim and all interior fittings. A new style of upholstering, emphasizing the same theme, has been accomplished using fabrics of exceptional quality.

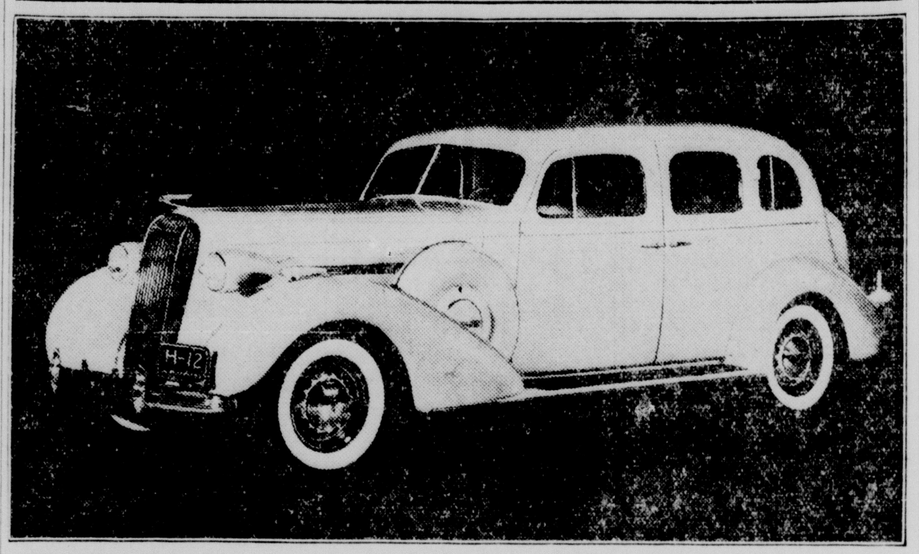

Built-in trunk design is a feature of all Buick sedan models for 1936.

The new Buick engines, while lighter, develop greater horsepower, are completely silent and outdo anything ever offered by this company. Outstanding features which contribute to their exceptional performance, stamina and economy are Anolite pistons, stiffer crankshafts, crankshaft torsional balancers, stream-lined combustion chambers, improved valve mechanism, oil temperature control, improved cooling, improved dual downdraft carburation, new automatic choke, automatic heat control, cold idle control, vacuumatic spark control and other aids to engine operation.

The Buick gliding ride, characteristic of this company's cars of the past two years, is improved through the retention of knee-action wheels of improved Buick design. Changes in many features were made to meet the needs of changed car weights and the new conditions brought about by Buick's unusual step-up in general performance.

Style, Stability and Performance Feature Buick Roadmasters for 1936

ELEGANCE, STURDY construction and outstanding speed and performance ability characterize the new Buick 80 Roadmaster series, one of the leaders of the Buick Motor Company's four lines of cars announced for 1936. Photograph shows the Roadmaster four door, six-passenger sedan with built-in trunk. Fenderwell equipment is an innovation in the modern streamline design.

INDUSTRIAL BRIEFS

Building permits show that that industry is on the upturn. In West Monroe alone permits since January 1, 1935, total $16,674.

Have you ever stopped to notice the distinct changes on DeSiard street in the past few years. Most noticeable is the south side of the 200 block on DeSiard street. So many new fronts have been installed that it looks like a different city compared with two years ago.

Imports to Sweden must bear a stamp reading, "This is imported." The idea was instituted in an effort to help the "buy Swedish" campaign.

BARBER SHOP IS WELL KNOWN HERE

Full Supply Of Xemax Is Carried To Kill Dandruff, And Stop Falling Hair

Many customers of the E. N. Johnson Barber shop are using Xemax and finding that it is really worthwhile. It is sold on a money back guarantee and everyone is satisfied with its results. It cures dandruff, takes care of any eruption of the skin, and stops falling hair.

All the operators have been with Mr. Johnson for more than a year and are well acquainted with the people of Monroe. They are: L. A. Harveston, H. A. Jasper, "Red" Hedgepeth, and E. N. Johnson. Each and everyone will be glad to serve the people of this community. The shop is well equipped to supply service to any need that the customer may demand.

Mr. Johnson has operated a barber shop in Monroe for the past eleven years. His first shop was located near the Missouri Pacific depot. He later moved to his present location at 108 6th street in the Kersh hotel building. Here his ship is conveniently located to serve all of his customers.

The latest in ladies hair bobbing is a specialty of the shop. The different styles have been studied so that the correct bob can be given to suit the wearer.

Mr. Jornson expressed his thanks for the past patronage he has received which is best expressed in the work.

A personal appeal was made to landlords by the mayor of Fayetteville, N. C., not to evict persons who were unable to pay rent because of economic conditions.

GRIFFIN DOES ALL KINDS OF WORK

Latest Equipment And Methods Are Used In Work by Photographer

Among the many industries commercial photography stands out in its field. A really good photographer must have the latest equipment and know the latest methods. Durwood Griffin, in charge of the commercial photography department at Griffin studio, has made a complete study of photography and is capable of handling anything that might arise.

Commercial work was taken under Mr. Cook of Kaufman-Fabry of Chicago. This included illustrative and straight commercial photography. Mr. Griffin does some portrait work, but his main work is in the commercial department.

No amateurs are taken into this school. A requirement for admission is that the pupil have some experience in the field. It is open a few months each year and the teachers are prominent in the field of photography. Most of them are connected with some of the larger studios of the country while others are employed by large manufacturers of photo equipment. Each is well experienced in his field.

Griffin studio (commercial department) is the official press photographer for the News-Star—World. All of the society and industrial page photos are made by them.

A specialty of the department is photographing scenes in smaller towns around Monroe. Mr. Griffin stated that they were able to go any place at any time.

Many pictures are taken for lawyers to be used in law suits. Photographs of government construction work are taken periodically during the building. Several farms and plantations have had photographs of their crops made during the harvest season. All negatives are kept on file for future use.

STATE OFFICIAL TO ADDRESS FAIR

Commissioner Of Agriculture Wilson Will Visit Jena Exhibition October 11

JENA, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—H. D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture and immigration, has notified officials of the North Central Louisiana fair, to be held at Olla October 8 to 12, that he will be present at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, October 11, and will address the people of LaSalle, Catahoula, Caldwell and Winn parishes. Friday has been set aside as "get-together" day and an invitation has been extended to both young and old to be at the fair on that date and mingle with their friends and acquaintances. The fair is to be free and the gates are to be open to everyone.

A prize of $5 is offered to the merchant, business man or individual who has the best decorated float or car in the parade, which is to be on the opening day. The young ladies of the several high schools in the four parishes will compete in the parades as maids of honor, and the most attractive young lady present will receive a $5 prize.

Miss Minnie Mae Verde, of Bogalusa, has been appointed home demonstration agent for LaSalle parish, and is now actively engaged in the work. She succeeds Miss Bess Fitzgerald, who recently became the bride of Dr. D. L. Trax of Trout.

Miss Verde is a graduate of Louisiana State university, class of 1934, and for a time was an assistant to Miss Margaret Firnberg at Opelousas. Until her acceptance of the position here she was supervisor of home economics in the Bogalusa city schools.

Rev. B. T. Goodwin of Rosebud, Texas, notified the congregation of the Baptist church of Jena that he would accept the call as pastor of the church. He will preach his first sermon as pastor on October 6. Rev. Goodwin recently conducted a revival at the local church and was well received. The church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. L. D. Posey several weeks ago.

A new Baptist church, to be known as the East Jena Baptist church, has been organized by the people of the East Jena section. L. D. Posey and Rev. A. B. Odom assisted in the organization ceremonies. The new church will be located on the Aimwell road. J. M. Coleman is clerk of the new organization, a pastor has not yet been chosen.

Miss Ruby Mae Curry of Richland parish has been appointed music supervisor of the LaSalle parish schools. The new supervisor is to visit each classroom teacher each week and assist in preparing and carrying out a musical program that will be beneficial to the students of the parish.

Judge Francis E. Jones has announced he received positive information from A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the state highway commission, that work of black topping Jena's two most important streets would begin in the next two weeks. The highway commission will black-top First street from the Louisiana and Arkansas depot to the city limits, and the street running from the T. J. Kendrick residence to the Jena High school. Judge Jones said that the same crew that is to start work on the Trout-Pollock highway will do the work in Jena. The work will be under the supervision of the maintenance crew of the Louisiana Highway commission.

The commission is also advertising for bids on the grading and surfacing of the White Hall road from White Hall to Nebo. It is thought the work of graveling this road will start as soon as the grading and surfacing have been completed. Town officials have not been advised on the application of black top to several other Jena streets, but an application for this work is now on file in Washington.

Approval of four projects for LaSalle parish has been announced by the Works Progress administration. They are construction of Grove-Blade road, involving clearing, grubbing and construction of culvert. Construction of Catahoula lake road. Clearing and grubbing and construction of Routon road and construction of culvert. Construction of Fellowship road.

C. I. Humphries, Jena automobile dealer, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to represent LaSalle parish in the lower house of the state legislature. Mr. Humphries has been a resident of Jena for ten years, is a member of the town council and served two terms as mayor of Jena. During his term as mayor the present waterworks system was installed.

The Rev. Gardiner C. Tucker on September 1, 1935, completed 50 years' service as rector of St. John's Episcopal church in Mobile, Ala.

STATE OFFICIAL TO ADDRESS FAIR

Commissioner Of Agriculture Wilson Will Visit Jena Exhibition October 11

JENA, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—H. D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture and immigration, has notified officials of the North Central Louisiana fair, to be held at Olla October 8 to 12, that he will be present at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, October 11, and will address the people of LaSalle, Catahoula, Caldwell and Winn parishes. Friday has been set aside as "get-together" day and an invitation has been extended to both young and old to be at the fair on that date and mingle with their friends and acquaintances. The fair is to be free and the gates are to be open to everyone.

A prize of $5 is offered to the merchant, business man or individual who has the best decorated float or car in the parade, which is to be on the opening day. The young ladies of the several high schools in the four parishes will compete in the parades as maids of honor, and the most attractive young lady present will receive a $5 prize.

Miss Minnie Mae Verde, of Bogalusa, has been appointed home demonstration agent for LaSalle parish, and is now actively engaged in the work. She succeeds Miss Bess Fitzgerald, who recently became the bride of Dr. D. L. Trax of Trout.

Miss Verde is a graduate of Louisiana State university, class of 1934, and for a time was an assistant to Miss Margaret Firnberg at Opelousas. Until her acceptance of the position here she was supervisor of home economics in the Bogalusa city schools.

Rev. B. T. Goodwin of Rosebud, Texas, notified the congregation of the Baptist church of Jena that he would accept the call as pastor of the church. He will preach his first sermon as pastor on October 6. Rev. Goodwin recently conducted a revival at the local church and was well received. The church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. L. D. Posey several weeks ago.

A new Baptist church, to be known as the East Jena Baptist church, has been organized by the people of the East Jena section. L. D. Posey and Rev. A. B. Odom assisted in the organization ceremonies. The new church will be located on the Aimwell road. J. M. Coleman is clerk of the new organization, a pastor has not yet been chosen.

Miss Ruby Mae Curry of Richland parish has been appointed music supervisor of the LaSalle parish schools. The new supervisor is to visit each classroom teacher each week and assist in preparing and carrying out a musical program that will be beneficial to the students of the parish.

Judge Francis E. Jones has announced he received positive information from A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the state highway commission, that work of black topping Jena's two most important streets would begin in the next two weeks. The highway commission will black-top First street from the Louisiana and Arkansas depot to the city limits, and the street running from the T. J. Kendrick residence to the Jena High school. Judge Jones said that the same crew that is to start work on the Trout-Pollock highway will do the work in Jena. The work will be under the supervision of the maintenance crew of the Louisiana Highway commission.

The commission is also advertising for bids on the grading and surfacing of the White Hall road from White Hall to Nebo. It is thought the work of graveling this road will start as soon as the grading and surfacing have been completed. Town officials have not been advised on the application of black top to several other Jena streets, but an application for this work is now on file in Washington.

Approval of four projects for LaSalle parish has been announced by the Works Progress administration. They are construction of Grove-Blade road, involving clearing, grubbing and construction of culvert. Construction of Catahoula lake road. Clearing and grubbing and construction of Routon road and construction of culvert. Construction of Fellowship road.

C. I. Humphries, Jena automobile dealer, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to represent LaSalle parish in the lower house of the state legislature. Mr. Humphries has been a resident of Jena for ten years, is a member of the town council and served two terms as mayor of Jena. During his term as mayor the present waterworks system was installed.

The Rev. Gardiner C. Tucker on September 1, 1935, completed 50 years' service as rector of St. John's Episcopal church in Mobile, Ala.

A turkey gobbler on the farm of J. M. Major of Hopkinsville, Ky., for the last two years has "mothered" and raised broods of young fowls.

TRANSIENTS ARE BEING REMOVED

Local Bureau Will Be Closed Early During October

Good progress was reported Saturday by Walter Craddock, district director, in the liquidation of the Bureau of Transients, Plum street, which is to be entirely closed within the next few days.

A week ago there were 118 unattached men and 72 families registered at the bureau here. Yesterday there were 90 unattached men and 50 families remaining. This reduction in numbers was made possible by the efforts of the staff headed by Mr. Craddock, who has sent many persons to their legal places of residence. Others have been placed in the charge of relatives, while still others have voluntarily returned to their homes. Ten have been transferred to the local FERA.

Twenty persons were enrolled at the bureau here who were classed as unemployable a week ago. Yesterday this number had been reduced to 12.

Four trucks loaded with supplies and men were sent to Alexandria Saturday, where a transient camp for this area will be set up. Thirty men will be taken there today and still more on Monday. By Tuesday all unattached men from the Monroe bureau will have been transferred to the Alexandria camp, Mr. Craddock stated.

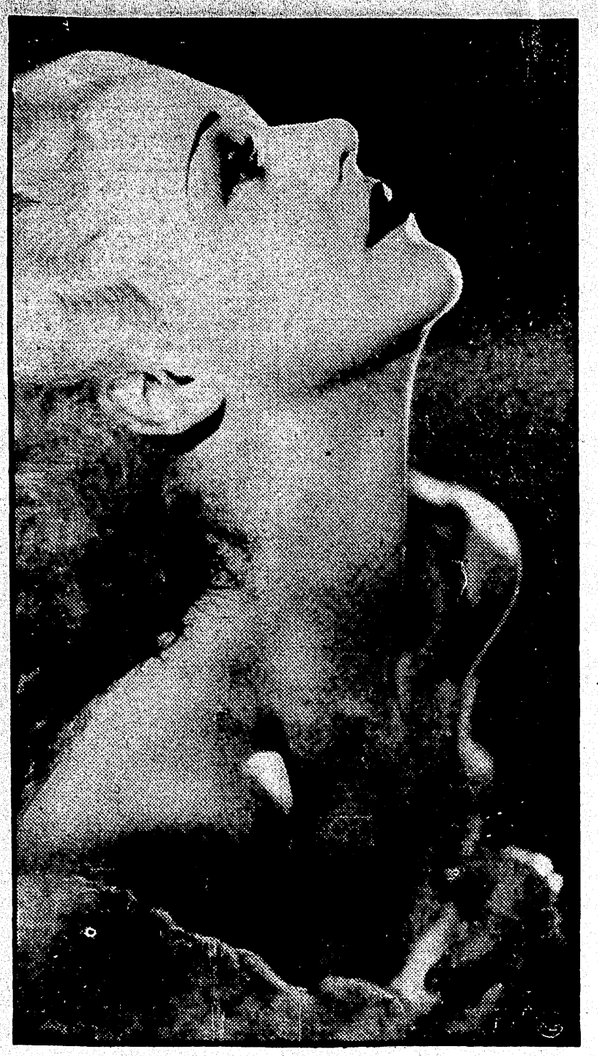

MISS WOSSMAN TO TALK ON LOUISIANA FLOWERS

The Monroe Garden club will hold its October meeting at the American Legion home at 2 p.m. on Friday. Wild flowers, native trees and shrubs will be discussed.

Miss Julia Wossman, principal of the Barkdull Faulk school, will discuss the subject under consideration.

All members are urged to attend and to bring exhibits of wild flowers.

FAME SOARS—AND LOVE FADES

Her star mounting higher and higher in the cinema sky is the enchanting vision which Ginger Rogers beholds. But her marital happiness is crashing to earth. Fame as a dancer and singer has come to the bewitching Texas beauty, but her marriage to Lew Ayres, less than a year ago, is near an end, Hollywood hears, with Ginger returning to her mother's home.

LEGION POST TO HOLD MEMORIAL EXERCISES

FARMERVILLE, La., Sept. 28.—(Special) — Memorial exercises for members of the Owens-Tubbs Post No. 149, American Legion, who have died during the past year, will be held by the post at the Farmerville high school at 8 o'clock next Thursday night. Members who have died during the year are W. B. Dawkins and C. U. Simmons.

An impressive program is planned and Larry J. Fox, of Ruston, past department commander of Louisiana, and E. L. Gladney, present fifth district commander, will be the principal speakers.

LOT IS SELECTED FOR POST OFFICE

Winnsboro To Get New $70,000 Federal Building In Near Future

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—A letter to Postmaster N. D. Womble of Winnsboro from Edward R. Whitman, assistant chief of the legal section of the treasury department of Washington, D. C., advises that a lot on the south side of Prairie street in the center of Winnsboro, has been accepted by the government for a postoffice site. The consideration was $7,000. The lot has a frontage of 132 feet and is 185 feet deep.

It is reported that $70,000 has been appropriated for the new federal building a tenth of the amount to be paid for the lot and the remainder for the building. Construction will probably be started as soon as possible.

Raymond Parker, prominent young attorney of Winnsboro, has been elected district deputy governor of Lions clubs for this district. Parker has been very active in Lions club work and other civic endeavors. He is judge advocate of the Louisiana department of the V. F. W. and is also an active member of the American Legion. Friends in the local Lions club are already planning to campaign for Parker for district governor at the next annual meeting of the Lions club of the district.

OUACHITA PARISH COTTON GINNINGS SHOW DECREASE

There were 4,012 bales of cotton ginned in Ouachita parish from the 1935 crop prior to September 16, as compared with 4,134 bales ginned prior to the same date last year, according to a report Saturday by E. R. Norris, special agent of the bureau of the census of the Department of Commerce.

PARISH FAIR NOW READY TO OPEN

Information Is Given As To Exhibition Of Various Products

Finishing touches were put on Saturday on the grounds of the Ouachita Valley fair on Victory street in West Monroe. Four large tents have been erected to house the exhibits and all the products of the Ouachita Valley fair that will be presented for exhibition, George H. Dierlamm, manager, reported.

The management announces the following suggestions to assist the public in making the exhibits:

1.—Study premium lists and bring only things that are mentioned.

2.—Do not bring any exhibits before 7 a. m. Tuesday morning, Oct. 1, and register these with the entry clerk, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, who will be assisted by a staff of workers.

3.—After making entries, the superintendent in charge of each department will see that the exhibits are properly placed.

4.—All entries must be made on Tuesday before 3 p. m.

6.—Come to the fair office for all other information desired.

Manager Dierlamm stated that the fair association staff desires to do everything possible to make the stay of all who visit the fair this week pleasant and prosperous.

The art department of the fair, of which Mrs. Raymond Spence is superintendent, announces that all entries in this department must be made between the hours of 4 p. m. and 6 p. m. on Monday, Sept. 30. They must be framed, must be amateur work, without the aid of a teacher and must not be copies of any piece of art work. Oct. 1 is entry day from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m.

In the woman's department, canning division, all exhibits must be in clear glass jars with glass tops, either wire clamps or screw rim. This explanation is made as there has been some misunderstanding regarding the types of jars. As it has been difficult to secure the standard six-ounce jelly glasses, the fair association will accept the flat six-ounce glass or the tall eight-ounce glass for jelly.

The women's department will be in charge of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Sidney Stewart, assisted by the following home demonstration club members: Textile, Mrs. Ivy Smith. Mrs. C. B. Hammett; canning, Mrs. J. E. Bryan, Mrs. Albert Strozier, Mrs. Fred Watson, and Mrs. Reese Camp; cooking, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Miss Grace Slaton and Miss Wilma Britton.

WINTERING GROUND FOR DUCKS BEING RESTORED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—One of America's hereditary wintering grounds for ducks is being restored by the federal government in Arkansas.

The biological survey said few areas in the country harbor as many ducks in winter as the site of the White river migratory waterfowl refuge in Monroe, Arkansas, Phillips and Desha counties, Arkansas.

Recently created by executive order, the refuge is from three to nine miles wide and stretches from a short distance north of Willow Lake, 62 miles southward along the White river almost to its juncture with the Mississippi.

Many of the waterfowl that breed in south central Canada and north central United States seek this area to winter, the survey said. The refuge will provide an inviolate retreat in an area formerly threatened by market hunters and other illegal killers.

Civilian conservation corps workers are developing the White river refuge. St. Charles has been chosen tentatively as an administration site.

CULT MEMBERS READY TO LAY DOWN LIVES TO DEFEND BELIEFS

SHORT CREEK, Ariz., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Members of the Sanhedrin cult today were pronounced "ready to go to jail or lay down their lives in defense of their religious belief," as three of them faced preliminary hearing on charges of polygamy.

Bishop John Y. Barlow, head of the high council of the cult, thus described the attitude of the defendants, Carling Spencer, Price Johnson and Sylvia Allred, after a meeting of the council last night.

"We will develop this country regardless of the hearing's outcome," Barlow continued.

"I am glad of the chance to go to jail if it will do anything to convert the world to the right doctrines," said Spencer.

The trio, specifically charged with "open and notorious cohabitation," participated with other members of their sect in an old-fashioned dance, with fiddlers playing "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Turkey in the Straw," and similar old tunes while the crowd danced the quadrille, waltz and two-step.

COLLEGE SHOWING ENROLLMENT GAIN

A total of 410 regular students are registered at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university and 87 special students are also enrolled, Dean C. C. Colvert reported Saturday. This shows a 15 per cent gain over figures for the first semester of 1934, when 362 regular students were registered and 80 special students were enrolled.

Ten or 12 more students are expected to enroll, Dean Colvert said.

WINNERS NAMED IN CANNING CONTEST

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Sept. 28.—(Special)—Mrs. D. T. Wilson, with 93 points, Mrs. S. L. House with 91, and Mrs. A. S. Cammack with 83 were the most successful canners in the food preservation contest held by the East Carroll home demonstration women. Miss Estelle Fournet, food preservation specialist of L. S. U., was the judge for the exhibit, and the awards were made by Miss Mary L. Collings, district home demonstration agent.

Other winners were clubs having the largest number of entries as follows:

Monticello, first; Baxter, second, and Elmwood third.

Club having the best garden and food preservation report, Baxter Bayou, Bellagio and Elmwood.

Club having the largest number of members present: Baxter Bayou.

A canning budget of fruits, corn, bean, beans, two kinds of peas and meat to meet the food needs of one person during the non-growing season was attractively displayed. Drying as another method of food preservation was attractively displayed.

FORD AIRPLANE IS HERE TODAY

Free Air Show To Be Held At Bernstein Park This Afternoon

Due to unsatisfactory weather conditions, the large tri-motor Ford airplane, which was to have been at Bernstein park Friday, Saturday and today, did not arrive until yesterday morning.

The passengers will be carried today both in daylight and after dark, starting at 12 o'clock noon, and those desiring to ride can secure free courtesy tickets from Milner-Fuller, Inc., which will permit two passengers to ride for the price of one.

There will be a delayed parachute jump this afternoon, made by the "Smiling Eagle," well known parachute jumper, who will make his 1,142 jump this afternoon.

"Pop" Wise will have his stunt plane at the park and will give a stunt exhibition. He will also carry passengers in the stunt plane during the afternoon.

There is no admission charge to the field and the public is invited.

The mayor of Lexington, Ky., recently received a letter containing a $50 bill. The money, an accompanying note said, was long past due the city. No name was given.

PLEASANT HILL COUPLE WED IN WEST MONROE

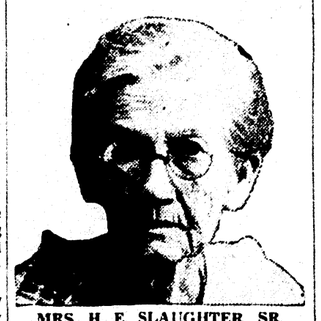

Miss Ora Araft and Peevy Sutch were married at the residence of Rev. George H. Dierlamm, 504 North Sixth street, West Monroe, Saturday at 5 p.m. They were attended by I. N. Johnson, Newell Johnson and Mrs. Russell Sims. Twenty-five persons were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutch are residents of Pleasant Hill, where they will make their home.

Pep And Energy Return, Now Enjoys Her Work Every Day

Monroe Lady, 66, Given New Health By Gly-Cas After All Else Tried Had Failed In Her Case; Stomach And Kidneys In Fine Condition, Nerves Quieted, Strength Restored

It is actually astonishing what this new Gly-Cas will do in the most stubborn cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles. Many Monroe people now realize how fortunate they are in having this new remedy introduced here in this city. Read what Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, Sr., 66 years of age, 413 Grammont St., Monroe, respected lady of this vicinity, said recently in talking with the Gly-Cas Man who is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., where he is receiving much praise and comment on the accomplishments of this new vegetable medical discovery:

"A thirty year case of constipation had allowed my system to become clogged with poisons," said Mrs. Slaughter. "I had about given up hopes of ever finding anything to help me as seemingly everything had failed in my case. My kidneys were affected, back ached continually and a good night's sleep was impossible as I would have to get up at all hours of the night. Then too my stomach seemed to simply refuse to digest foods properly. Practically any food I ate would cause such severe attacks of indigestion, gas formed in abundance, pressing against my heart and causing such smothering spells I was actually frightened. Often my family became alarmed, thinking I would be unable to stand such attacks. I was terribly nervous, and could hardly stand any noise at all, often would jump out of bed at the slightest sound. I felt completely worn-out with no strength at all even to do my housework, was really run-down and despondent. I had lost all faith in medicines in general and had decided I was doomed to finish life in suffering when I began to hear praise on every side for this new Gly-Cas and after some investigation thought it worthy of a trial on my case—it proved to be the one REAL medicine of them all."

"Gly-Cas gave me results immediately," continued Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, Sr. "That dreadful constipation was remedied in a most natural way within a few days, my stomach soon began to digest foods properly until now I eat the most substantial foods without any distress afterwards. My kidneys are even regulated, backaches a thing of the past and it seems my entire system has been thoroughly cleansed of all its poisons so that I can enjoy good health again. Even my nerves are quieted, sleep fine the whole night through and my former pep and energy has been thoroughly restored so that I enjoy doing my work every day. It is a real pleasure to tell others about a medicine you know will give them such remarkable health—think what it means to me—to feel the best I have in 30 years."

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., where he is introducing and explaining the action of this new remedy.

LOT IS SELECTED FOR POST OFFICE

Winnsboro To Get New $70,000 Federal Building In Near Future

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 28.—(Special)—A letter to Postmaster N. D. Womble of Winnsboro from Edward R. Whitman, assistant chief of the legal section of the treasury department of Washington, D. C., advises that a lot on the south side of Prairie street in the center of Winnsboro, has been accepted by the government for a postoffice site. The consideration was $7,000. The lot has a frontage of 132 feet and is 185 feet deep.

It is reported that $70,000 has been appropriated for the new federal building a tenth of the amount to be paid for the lot and the remainder for the building. Construction will probably be started as soon as possible.

Raymond Parker, prominent young attorney of Winnsboro, has been elected district deputy governor of Lions clubs for this district. Parker has been very active in Lions club work and other civic endeavors. He is judge advocate of the Louisiana department of the V. F. W. and is also an active member of the American Legion. Friends in the local Lions club are already planning to campaign for Parker for district governor at the next annual meeting of the Lions club of the district.

OUACHITA PARISH COTTON GINNINGS SHOW DECREASE

There were 4,012 bales of cotton ginned in Ouachita parish from the 1935 crop prior to September 16, as compared with 4,134 bales ginned prior to the same date last year, according to a report Saturday by E. R. Norris, special agent of the bureau of the census of the Department of Commerce.

PARISH FAIR NOW READY TO OPEN

Information Is Given As To Exhibition Of Various Products

Finishing touches were put on Saturday on the grounds of the Ouachita Valley fair on Victory street in West Monroe. Four large tents have been erected to house the exhibits and all the products of the Ouachita Valley fair that will be presented for exhibition, George H. Dierlamm, manager, reported.

The management announces the following suggestions to assist the public in making the exhibits:

1.—Study premium lists and bring only things that are mentioned.

2.—Do not bring any exhibits before 7 a. m. Tuesday morning, Oct. 1, and register these with the entry clerk, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, who will be assisted by a staff of workers.

3.—After making entries, the superintendent in charge of each department will see that the exhibits are properly placed.

4.—All entries must be made on Tuesday before 3 p. m.

6.—Come to the fair office for all other information desired.

Manager Dierlamm stated that the fair association staff desires to do everything possible to make the stay of all who visit the fair this week pleasant and prosperous.

The art department of the fair, of which Mrs. Raymond Spence is superintendent, announces that all entries in this department must be made between the hours of 4 p. m. and 6 p. m. on Monday, Sept. 30. They must be framed, must be amateur work, without the aid of a teacher and must not be copies of any piece of art work. Oct. 1 is entry day from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m.

In the woman's department, canning division, all exhibits must be in clear glass jars with glass tops, either wire clamps or screw rim. This explanation is made as there has been some misunderstanding regarding the types of jars. As it has been difficult to secure the standard six-ounce jelly glasses, the fair association will accept the flat six-ounce glass or the tall eight-ounce glass for jelly.

The women's department will be in charge of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Sidney Stewart, assisted by the following home demonstration club members: Textile, Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mrs. C. B. Hammett; canning, Mrs. J. E. Bryan, Mrs. Albert Strozier, Mrs. Fred Watson, and Mrs. Reese Camp; cooking, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Miss Grace Slaton and Miss Wilma Britton.

WINTERING GROUND FOR DUCKS BEING RESTORED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—One of America's hereditary wintering grounds for ducks is being restored by the federal government in Arkansas.

The biological survey said few areas in the country harbor as many ducks in winter as the site of the White river migratory waterfowl refuge in Monroe, Arkansas, Phillips and Desha counties, Arkansas.

Recently created by executive order, the refuge is from three to nine miles wide and stretches from a short distance north of Willow Lake, 62 miles southward along the White river almost to its juncture with the Mississippi.

Many of the waterfowl that breed in south central Canada and north central United States seek this area to winter, the survey said. The refuge will provide an inviolate retreat in an area formerly threatened by market hunters and other illegal killers.

Civilian conservation corps workers are developing the White river refuge. St. Charles has been chosen tentatively as an administration site.

CULT MEMBERS READY TO LAY DOWN LIVES TO DEFEND BELIEFS

SHORT CREEK, Ariz., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Members of the Sanhedrin cult today were pronounced "ready to go to jail or lay down their lives in defense of their religious belief," as three of them faced preliminary hearing on charges of polygamy.

Bishop John Y. Barlow, head of the high council of the cult, thus described the attitude of the defendants, Carling Spencer, Price Johnson and Sylvia Allred, after a meeting of the council last night.

"We will develop this country regardless of the hearing's outcome," Barlow continued.

"I am glad of the chance to go to jail if it will do anything to convert the world to the right doctrines," said Spencer.

The trio, specifically charged with "open and notorious cohabitation," participated with other members of their sect in an old-fashioned dance, with fiddlers playing "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Turkey in the Straw," and similar old tunes while the crowd danced the quadrille, waltz and two-step.

COLLEGE SHOWING ENROLLMENT GAIN

A total of 410 regular students are registered at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university and 87 special students are also enrolled, Dean C. C. Colvert reported Saturday. This shows a 15 per cent gain over figures for the first semester of 1934, when 362 regular students were registered and 80 special students were enrolled.

Ten or 12 more students are expected to enroll, Dean Colvert said.

WINNERS NAMED IN CANNING CONTEST

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Sept. 28.—(Special)—Mrs. D. T. Wilson, with 93 points, Mrs. S. L. House with 91, and Mrs. A. S. Cammack with 83 were the most successful canners in the food preservation contest held by the East Carroll home demonstration women. Miss Estelle Fournet, food preservation specialist of L. S. U., was the judge for the exhibit, and the awards were made by Miss Mary L. Collings, district home demonstration agent.

Other winners were clubs having the largest number of entries as follows:

Monticello, first; Baxter, second, and Elmwood third.

Club having the best garden and food preservation report, Baxter Bayou, Bellagio and Elmwood.

Club having the largest number of members present: Baxter Bayou.

A canning budget of fruits, corn, bean, beans, two kinds of peas and meat to meet the food needs of one person during the non-growing season was attractively displayed. Drying as another method of food preservation was attractively displayed.

FORD AIRPLANE IS HERE TODAY

Free Air Show To Be Held At Bernstein Park This Afternoon

Due to unsatisfactory weather conditions, the large tri-motor Ford airplane, which was to have been at Bernstein park Friday, Saturday and today, did not arrive until yesterday morning.

The passengers will be carried today both in daylight and after dark, starting at 12 o'clock noon, and those desiring to ride can secure free courtesy tickets from Milner-Fuller, Inc., which will permit two passengers to ride for the price of one.

There will be a delayed parachute jump this afternoon, made by the "Smiling Eagle," well known parachute jumper, who will make his 1,142 jump this afternoon.

"Pop" Wise will have his stunt plane at the park and will give a stunt exhibition. He will also carry passengers in the stunt plane during the afternoon.

There is no admission charge to the field and the public is invited.

The mayor of Lexington, Ky., recently received a letter containing a $50 bill. The money, an accompanying note said, was long past due the city. No name was given.

Monroe Lady, 66, Given New Health By Gly-Cas After All Else Tried Had Failed In Her Case; Stomach And Kidneys In Fine Condition, Nerves Quieted, Strength Restored

It is actually astonishing what this new Gly-Cas will do in the most stubborn cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles. Many Monroe people now realize how fortunate they are in having this new remedy introduced here in this city. Read what Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, Sr., 66 years of age, 413 Grammont St., Monroe, respected lady of this vicinity, said recently in talking with the Gly-Cas Man who is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., where he is receiving much praise and comment on the accomplishments of this new vegetable medical discovery:

"A thirty year case of constipation had allowed my system to become clogged with poisons," said Mrs. Slaughter. "I had about given up hopes of ever finding anything to help me as seemingly everything had failed in my case. My kidneys were affected, back ached continually and a good night's sleep was impossible as I would have to get up at all hours of the night. Then too my stomach seemed to simply refuse to digest foods properly. Practically any food I ate would cause such severe attacks of indigestion, gas formed in abundance, pressing against my heart and causing such smothering spells I was actually frightened. Often my family became alarmed, thinking I would be unable to stand such attacks. I was terribly nervous, and could hardly stand any noise at all, often would jump out of bed at the slightest sound. I felt completely worn-out with no strength at all even to do my housework, was really run-down and despondent. I had lost all faith in medicines in general and had decided I was doomed to finish life in suffering when I began to hear praise on every side for this new Gly-Cas and after some investigation thought it worthy of a trial on my case—it proved to be the one REAL medicine of them all."

"Gly-Cas gave me results immediately," continued Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, Sr. "That dreadful constipation was remedied in a most natural way within a few days, my stomach soon began to digest foods properly until now I eat the most substantial foods without any distress afterwards. My kidneys are even regulated, backaches a thing of the past and it seems my entire system has been thoroughly cleansed of all its poisons so that I can enjoy good health again. Even my nerves are quieted, sleep fine the whole night through and my former pep and energy has been thoroughly restored so that I enjoy doing my work every day. It is a real pleasure to tell others about a medicine you know will give them such remarkable health—think what it means to me—to feel the best I have in 30 years."

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., where he is introducing and explaining the action of this new remedy.

Summer Definitely Over; Days Growing Shorter And Cooler

Junior Charity League Is Planning Activities

Few Local Residents Cling To Rustic Lodges; Beautiful Flowers Are Grown In Gardens Of Monroe Homes

By Eve Bradford

The days grow shorter and cooler. We realize suddenly that the quiet, the peace, the idleness and the sweet, beguiling days of summer are definitely over. When the early twilight deepens and the air grows snappy, our living room, deserted during the summer, once again looks inviting and cozy, with its radiant firelight and bright lights. Our interests, now that October is knocking at our door, swing back toward more civilized thoughts and pursuits.

Like generals who plan each step of an army's advance, members of the Junior Charity league, with summer tans and serious looks upon their brows and wearing the season's most modish frocks, are getting their heads together, deep in plans for winter activities.

The summer may be over for some, but not for Betty and Bernard Biedenharn, who will continue the peaceful, rural life until it begins to pall, and that seems quite unlikely. These two lovers of the great out-of-doors have been up with the lark every morning and astride their mounts, galloping into the sunrise. They have been rusticating at their summer lodge, you know, with only an occasional flying visit to town where their beautiful home has been slumbering behind closed blinds for months. The joy of horseback riding has really enslaved them, and no wonder, when they both possess such handsome pieces of horse flesh.

The Gordon Wrights and the Gordon Surguines have also been rusticating this summer; and even though school has called them back to town, they continue to commute. Every week-end they keep their rendezvous with the great open spaces and are continually inviting their friends to share their meals, served al fresco.

In the vicinity of St. John street the other day we heard a beautiful voice that we instantly recognized as that of the former Elizabeth Johnston. She married a good lookin, young doctor several years ago and went to Florida to live. It was good to hear her sing again and to learn that domestic life has not taken up so much of her time that her talent was pushed into the background. She took Bishop Johnston, her father, back home to Florida with her in hopes that the golden sunshine will assist in restoring his health.

Such a chattering the other day over the tea cups at Wanda Tremaine's, where Elisabeth Platt, in scarlet gown, was in the spotlight. Her wedding day is drawing near, so she will have to make up her mind, pronto, whether it will be a garden setting, a church setting or just a quiet little ceremony at home. We hope it will be al fresco, as Elisabeth is the perfect out-of-door type.

Have you seen that bizarre Mexican costume Pargie Hudson wears? She found the dashing senoritas wearing them in Mexico City and straitway tucked away those slacks, gaily embroidered blouse and wide-brimmed sombrero in her wardrobe trunk. Pargie and her sister Happy, are both stunning looking girls. Saw Happy dashing from the dance on the Cherokee terrace Friday night with a good looking stranger in tow, who was hurrying to catch the night plane for some place or other. Happy's beaux are always flying through the stratosphere to see her, but she goes blissfully on her way unfettered by promises to anyone.

Sally Hodges talked to us the other day on the subject of growing dahlias. They are just like babies and have to be fed carefully and just at the right time. Then during the winter the soil must be prepared with nitrate of soda, in readiness for next year's blooms. It seems like a lot of trouble but it is certainly worth it when you can walk into your yard and find those mammoth blossoms of every rainbow color nodding along the garden wall. Sally strives for perfection in everything she does.

By the way, have you seen that vast army of Mexican daisies bobbing their golden heads in the Hodges front yard? It is a veritable feast for the soul. Bear in mind also, if you are city driving today, to look for the rose of Montana festooning the gallery of Cherry Bernstein's home on Riverside drive. The heavenly blue morning glories massed in Mae Wooten's yard on South Grand street is something to dream about. See them by all means.

Mrs. David Carr has returned from New Orleans, where she underwent an operation, and is now improving nicely at her home.

Flower Suggestions

Garden club members are urging the planting of flowers to harmonize with the decorative scheme of the home. For instance, roses, petunias, phlox, hollyhocks and larkspur are at home in a colonial or Georgian house. In a California colonial or Spanish type, the flowers and plants native to the southwest are particularly appropriate.

A prominent member of the Monroe Garden club remarked recently that "the choice of flowers for a given room is an adventure and, as in all adventures, you can have thrilling experiences. In this connection I think of a creamy white room where a huge, low bowl of flame colored gladioli is placed on the grand piano. They tone perfectly with the cream-colored walls and the dark wood of the furniture. There should be no other competitors, however. Just one bowl of flowers is sufficient.

Valuable suggestions in flower arrangements are also submitted at this time. In general, there are three rules by which you can judge the success of your flower arrangement; but you must remember that we are speaking of the way you and we arrange flowers, probably those grown in our own gardens, with an occasional supplementary bouquet from the florist.

First of all, the flower arrangement must fit into the room for which it was intended. The formal bouquet which you arranged so effectively for your hall is not likely to produce the air of cheerful comfort that you so much desire in your living room.

Second, you must consider the choice of the container for the particular flowers with which you are working.

Third, you must remember that the combination of both colors and textures is to be worked out with great care.

When you turn to flower arrangement, you establish the personality of your room. This very fact gives an idea of the vast importance of your choice and treatment of the blossoms in your home. Yet, there are definite rules that you can follow. Almost scientific in their exactness, these rules are a product of centuries of study.

Those who know flowers and consequently love them realize that each blossom is an individual, the product of its own peculiar environment. As such, it demands a certain special treatment when it is brought indoors. The uninitiated look upon flowers merely as color notes in a room, treating them impersonally. But they simply don't know their flowers!

In the quaint old days flower lovers were satisfied with three receptacles for bloom in the home. One was large, the second was medium-sized, and the third was small. Such an array was supposed to answer all demands and but few questioned the rule.

This was the era, as perhaps you remember, when the average woman frugally bought a tan hat, tan shoes, and tan gloves—because they "went with everything" in her wardrobe!

Holds First Meeting

With the opening of St. Matthew's Parochial school, the P.-T. A. held its first meeting of the year under the leadership of recently installed officers, Mrs. Paul Kellar, president; Mrs. Stanley Hodges, first vice-president; Mrs. Dick Daughtry, second vice-president, and Mrs. E. J. BeDoit, secretary-treasurer.

The opening prayer was led by Sister M. Stanislaus, and an address of welcome was said by Mrs. B. W. Morrison.

Plans were discussed for a Hallowe'en party to be held at the school building October 31. Mrs. Charles Guerriero was appointed chairman, to be assisted by Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. B. W. Morrison and Mrs. Louis Breard. A "cake walk" will be held in connection with the evening's program.

All members were requested to bring rummage to the school building for the sale to be held on October 5.

Miss Catherine McStravick gave a report on the cafeteria. Mrs. John Guerriero, chairman of cafeteria committee, requested the mothers to see that their children patronize the cafeteria in order that it may be put on a paying basis and better serve the needs of the children.

Committee to serve during the coming year were appointed as follows: Publicity, Mrs. J. W Spohrer, Mrs. John Williamson; program, Mrs. Dick Daughtry, Mrs. B. W. Morrison; hospitality, Mrs. M. E. Bell, Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Mrs. Allen Ritter, Mrs. Hugh Lennon, Miss Grace Aaron; membership, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, Mrs. W. J. Rimes; finance, Mrs. Charles Reid, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. Charles Wilds, Mrs. M. P. Hebert, Mrs. Louis Breard, Mrs. Dan Armand Breard; summer round-up, Mrs. T. L. Morris; publications and study group, Mrs. John Pracher; magazine, Mrs. S. Gremillion, Mrs. V. C. Spatafora; cafeteria, Mrs. John Guerriero, Miss Catherine McStravick, Mrs. Joseph W. Hartman, Mrs. John Williamson, Mrs. Dick Daughtry.

Room mothers were named as follows: First grade, Mrs. Charles Reid, Mrs. D. C. Williams; second, Mrs. M. P. Kutz, Mrs. A. J. Massart; third, Mrs. Charles Guerriero; fourth, Mrs. L. Breard, Mrs. J. Pracher; fifth, Mrs. A. Ritter, Mrs. C. C. Burkett; sixth, Mrs. M. P. Hebert, Mrs. B. W. Morrison; seventh, Mrs. John Guerriero, Miss Grace Aaron; freshmen, Mrs. S. Gremillion, Mrs. Paul Kellar; sophomore, Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. J. Devereux; junior, Mrs. C. Cage, Mrs. S. V. Danna; senior, Mrs. L. Guerriero, Mrs. T. L. Morris.

Two new members were admitted, Mrs. M. P. Kutz and Mrs. D. C. Williams.

A poem, "School Begins," was read by Mrs. Louis Breard.

Rev. M. J. Walsh spoke a few words on the value of cooperation in every organization and urged those present to cooperate willingly with their officers and fellow members during the coming year, and to voice their opinions at the meetings.

Closing prayer was offered by Father Walsh.

Winter Coat Fashions March To Military Air

Here is a military air to this winter coat of brick red wool straight from Creed's 1936 Paris collection. Its wide shoulders, brown leather belt and collar and bold revers of brown Alaska sealskin reflect the influence of the world's war talk. Notice the full skirt which is being favored by some designers this year. Rose Valois designed the dashing hat of brown felt.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Paris decrees wide shoulders, big sleeves and buttons in the new winter coats which will soon be seen on Park avenue and Michigan boulevard. Black leads the color card.

There is much news in the 1936 wraps now being shown in big dress-making palaces. First, shoulders are given a wider line (rounded not squared), sometimes achieved by padding, again by epaulettes, but most often simply by cut.

Second, sleeves are generally large, in many cases made entirely of flat fur or trimmed with such furs as foxes winding around the arm.

Third, the "coat clutch" has been banished. The new 1936 model buttons, belts or ties freeing hands from the necessity of holding the coat in place. As many as four buttons at side front are used on some models, while others are finished with big leather belts, sometimes of a contrasting color.

Fourth, the military influence of the world's war talk has left its stamp on many coats. Double-breasted cuts, bold revers sometimes furred, and frog and braid fastenings, which are seen by the score, all hint at the trimness of officers' uniforms and overcoats.

Fifth, collars are either large or small. There is no half-way about it. Many of the dressier coats are lavishly furred with big collars of silver fox, black astrakhan, shaved lamb or broadtail swathing the throat and framing the face. The elaborate irregularly shaped collar with fur swirling around one shoulder and down one side is much used, while hoods (both fur and fabric) appear on many wraps.

Besides this, there are scores of coats with very small standing collars of astrakhan matched by big fur sleeves and frog fastenings running down the front of the bodice.

Sixth, the silhouette of the dressier coats fits the waistline with several big houses adding decided fullness to the coat's skirt below. Others cling to a more slender skirted line, while a few even favor a straight cut.

Black is the color of more than half the more formal coats. Green (bottle, Veronese and pine) trimmed with silver fox or astrakhan, brown, dregs of wine and gray are also smart.

Sports coats are generally made of the modern two-toned or multi-colored tweeds and furred with beaver or nutria. Patch pockets are back in favor, appearing even on some of the dressier coats.

Mrs. Merrill Bush and daughter, Merlyn, are spending the week-end in New Orleans and Baton Rouge. They were joined by Mrs. Frank Stubbs at Baton Rouge last night, where they attended the Rice-L. S. U. game.

P.-T. A. Meeting Held

A large and enthusiastic group of members attended the first meeting of Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher association for the school year Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. G. Durrett, first vice-president, was unanimously elected president, when Mrs. James Phelps submitted her resignation.

Other officers elected at this time were Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, first vice-president and Mrs. Elmer Richards, second vice-president. Reports were received from Mrs. Paul Newman, secretary, and Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, treasurer.

The following committees were named by the president: Membership, Mrs. James Phelps, Mrs. Roy Hale; program, Mrs. W. Marvyn Johnson, Mrs. B. Handy, Mrs. William Harper; publicity, Mrs. L. B. Chambers; hospitality, Mrs. Curtis Smith, Mrs. Ralph Thompson; finance, Mrs. Elmer Richards, Mrs. John Madden, Mrs. C. Dickard; social service, Mrs. S. Friedlander; study group, Mrs. M. M. Cragon.

Other committees will be named later.

It was voted to change the time of meeting from 3:15 to 2 p.m., with the exception of three meetings, the first, Founders' day and the last. These will be at 3:15, in order that the teachers may attend.

A distinct feature of each meeting will be a five-minute talk by the principal, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, in which parents will be informed of the progress of children. At this meeting, Miss Rodgers announced, a registered nurse will be on duty every school day in the week. Also that the J. C. Penney company renewed its offer of five dollars every six weeks to the child making the highest average in the 6-A class. Miss Rodgers said the assembly programs this year would stress the social sciences, with citizenship projects to be carried out by the student body. Health and safety education, also, will be emphasized in realistic manner.

Mrs. Durrett gave the message of Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, president of National Congress of Parents and Teachers, urging parents to visit the schools, thus carrying out the slogan, "The Modern Parent Knows the School." She also read a message from Mrs. Albert Smith, president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, asking special interest in the study groups. In an inspirational manner, Mrs. Durrett expressed confidence in the support and cooperation of the members for an outstanding year's work.

Announcement was made of the first meeting of the Georgia Tucker study group Thursday, October 3, at 2 p.m. All interested are invited by the leader, Mrs. M. M. Cragon, to attend.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the Twin City Parent-Teacher council, was introduced as the speaker of the day. Her subject was "Benefits of the Panel-Forum Method of Discussion." With characteristic humor and fluency, Mrs. Cudd defined this movement, saying in part:

"The purpose of the discussion method, no matter what form, is to educate everybody. It trains the members of the group in group thinking. It makes each member realize that he, too, may have something to contribute. It creates a more effective relationship in the group and educates all, instead of raising one or two to the position of dictator. Thus the educational level of the entire assembly is raised by this process, which involves all, and helps each one to become a more balanced member. Walter Pitken says: "In a well-balanced life flourish the finest fruits of American individualism."

Two Books Reviewed

"Lamb in His Bosom," prize winning novel by Caroline Miller, was delightfully reviewed by Mrs. D. M. Moore at the meeting last week of the Welcome branch, Twentieth Century Book club. This story of pioneer women and their struggles and hardships in the hills of Georgia held the undivided interest of club members. Of interest also was Mrs. W. C. Scott's review of Majorie Rawling's novel, "South Moon." Twenty-five club members were present.

Mrs. Herbert Breard will entertain the Literary guild at her home on the seventh of October. This will be the first meeting of the new year and a full attendance is desired.

SHOPPING FLASHES
Picked Up Around Town

By Irene

HAPPY fall morning to you, my dear! . . . It is going to be a real task to try to tell you what a grand time I had yesterday shopping. First, I simply did not know which way to turn after I really got into Monroe's interesting shopping center . . . Oh! there were so many wonderful places to shop and so many things to see.

• • •

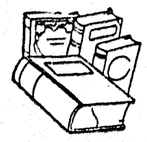

I ALWAYS shop for the best bargains in town, taking in to consideration "quality" of course so Jitney Jungle was on my list for groceries. Believe me, when I say that this grocery store is up-to-the-minute in "fall grocery fashion." Why the very foods we need at this season of the year are now on display in all their freshness at any of the Jitney Jungle stores. I saved considerable on grocery purchased for the week and then too, the personnel at these stores are so courteous.

• • •

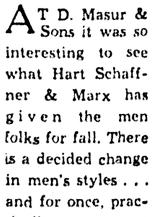

OH! Gee, did I hurry down town . . . I had heard so much about those lovely fall fashions that are so new and fresh at The Grand Leader. The moment I looked in their windows, I knew I wasn't wrong . . . The saleslady fitted me in one of those lovely "Alpaca" frocks . . . It was adorable . . . fashioned in Soutache braid (like my grandmother used to wear) but say . . . braids and alpaca are just about the smartest things to wear now . . . I found the right hat . . . coat . . . suit and other fall accessories at The Grand Leader . . . I won't mention the prices . . . You wouldn't believe they are so astonishingly low . . . See for yourself . . . Go to The Grand Leader for your fall outfit.

• • •

WELL, if you know me . . . you can be sure that I visited Ferd Levi Stationery company. I could never pass this fascinating store up . . . especially since their gift department is full of those lovely things that were shown at the Chicago Gift show last wee. There were gifts for bridge, brides, grooms, mother, father, birthday and such adorable gifts for your home. I was so delighted with the novelties in mirrors. Waste paper baskets fashioned of mirrors, cigarette cases of mirrors, powder jars, etc. There were adorable chromium liquor sets, blown silver glass novelties, book ends, and best of all . . . there were "pickled flowers" . . . I know you are wondering in amazement what I mean! . . . Well, there are all kinds of perfumes with the natural flower plucked from the bush and placed inside the bottle that holds the fragrant perfumes. Makes a lovely gift.

• • •

AT D. Masur & Sons it was so interesting to see what Hart Schaffner & Marx has given the men folks for fall. There is a decided change in men's styles . . . and for once, practically every man has put his whole hearted endorsement on its effect . . . for instance, the lapel that rolls to the bottom button . . . Some say the Duke of Kent started it . . . others swear it first turned up on the floor of the exchange . . . whichever way it was . . . it's a corking idea . . . and the smartest thing that comes to men's suits in a dog's age. See the new Hart Schaffner & Marx suits and Campus Togs suits as well as the new Mallory and Stetson hats. You'll like the accessories for fall at D. Masur's & Sons.

A glance into Ray's Jewelry company's window swept me into this jewelry and gift store positively "flabergasted" . . . Really, friends, you have no idea what lovely new things this store has unless you have visited them this past week! Gifts for brides in Rogers 1847 silver . . . all sorts of handy silver, home gifts . . . vanities . . . combination cigarette and vanity cases . . . engagement and diamond rings . . . Elgin and Bulova watches (the largest selection in the city) . . . children's hand-painted wooden toys with silver cups . . . spoons . . . plates . . . parringers, etc. You'll simply love looking around in this store . . . so include it on your shopping tour this week

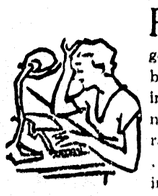

YOU realize more than ever when you reach J. C. Penney's store that the most joyous season of all has brought fashions that have caught the spirit of new and better things . . . A riot of gay colors . . . a wealth of fabric beauty and a windblown, happy air greets the new fall of 1935 with Penney fashions that will be a joy to wear. At Penney's you'll find every floor packed with the newest for fall and every salesperson wearing that new spirit of the season . . . for a little money you can buy "plenty" of quality at Penney's.

AREN'T you glad to hear that Faulk Bros. has on their shelves the well known and prescribed "Battle Creek Health Foods"? . . . First of all, your doctor prescribes it . . . for healthful living . . . Not a medicine but a food that we can eat exclusively and thrive on. . . . For breakfast . . . for lunch and for dinner. If you suffer with diabetes or such ailments . . . just the foods that are prescribed in Battle Creek are now in Faulk Bros. Grocery Store for you. Try drinking that delicious drink before retiring called Dormi. . . . It's very nourishing and produces sound restful sleep. . . . Breakfast cereals . . . cookies, candies . . . laxative biscuit . . . powdered nut milk . . . Syrup made from grains . . . beverages . . . vegetable meat . . . and canned foods put up especially to correct ailments and put us back on the road to perfect health. Investigate tomorrow this Battle Creek Health Food that has been brought to your door by Faulk Bros.

REALLY — I must be going . . . the boss is coming in and he must not catch me raving so much. . . . This is going to be one of the busiest seasons of the year . . . See you down town this week.

Sincerely,
Irene.

Summer Definitely Over; Days Growing Shorter And Cooler

Junior Charity League Is Planning Activities

By Eve Bradford

The days grow shorter and cooler. We realize suddenly that the quiet, the peace, the idleness and the sweet, beguiling days of summer are definitely over. When the early twilight deepens and the air grows snappy, our living room, deserted during the summer, once again looks inviting and cozy, with its radiant firelight and bright lights. Our interests, now that October is knocking at our door, swing back toward more civilized thoughts and pursuits.

Like generals who plan each step of an army's advance, members of the Junior Charity league, with summer tans and serious looks upon their brows and wearing the season's most modish frocks, are getting their heads together, deep in plans for winter activities.

The summer may be over for some, but not for Betty and Bernard Biedenharn, who will continue the peaceful, rural life until it begins to pall, and that seems quite unlikely. These two lovers of the great out-of-doors have been up with the lark every morning and astride their mounts, galloping into the sunrise. They have been rusticating at their summer lodge, you know, with only an occasional flying visit to town where their beautiful home has been slumbering behind closed blinds for months. The joy of horseback riding has really enslaved them, and no wonder, when they both possess such handsome pieces of horse flesh.

The Gordon Wrights and the Gordon Surguines have also been rusticating this summer; and even though school has called them back to town, they continue to commute. Every week-end they keep their rendezvous with the great open spaces and are continually inviting their friends to share their meals, served al fresco.

In the vicinity of St. John street the other day we heard a beautiful voice that we instantly recognized as that of the former Elizabeth Johnston. She married a good lookin' young doctor several years ago and went to Florida to live. It was good to hear her sing again and to learn that domestic life has not taken up so much of her time that her talent was pushed into the background. She took Bishop Johnston, her father, back home to Florida with her in hopes that the golden sunshine will assist in restoring his health.

Such a chattering the other day over the tea cups at Wanda Tremaine's, where Elisabeth Platt, in scarlet gown, was in the spotlight. Her wedding day is drawing near, so she will have to make up her mind, pronto, whether it will be a garden setting, a church setting or just a quiet little ceremony at home. We hope it will be al fresco, as Elisabeth is the perfect out-of-door type.

Have you seen that bizarre Mexican costume Pargie Hudson wears? She found the dashing senoritas wearing them in Mexico City and straitway tucked away those slacks, gaily embroidered blouse and wide-brimmed sombrero in her wardrobe trunk. Pargie and her sister Happy, are both stunning looking girls. Saw Happy dashing from the dance on the Cherokee terrace Friday night with a good looking stranger in tow, who was hurrying to catch the night plane for some place or other. Happy's beaux are always flying through the stratosphere to see her, but she goes blissfully on her way unfettered by promises to anyone.

Sally Hodges talked to us the other day on the subject of growing dahlias. They are just like babies and have to be fed carefully and just at the right time. Then during the winter the soil must be prepared with nitrate of soda, in readiness for next year's blooms. It seems like a lot of trouble but it is certainly worth it when you can walk into your yard and find those mammoth blossoms of every rainbow color nodding along the garden wall. Sally strives for perfection in everything she does.

By the way, have you seen that vast army of Mexican daisies bobbing their golden heads in the Hodges front yard? It is a veritable feast for the soul. Bear in mind also, if you are city driving today, to look for the rose of Montana festooning the gallery of Cherry Bernstein's home on Riverside drive. The heavenly blue morning glories massed in Mae Wooten's yard on South Grand street is something to dream about. See them by all means.

Flower Suggestions

Garden club members are urging the planting of flowers to harmonize with the decorative scheme of the home. For instance, roses, petunias, phlox, hollyhocks and larkspur are at home in a colonial or Georgian house. In a California colonial or Spanish type, the flowers and plants native to the southwest are particularly appropriate.

A prominent member of the Monroe Garden club remarked recently that "the choice of flowers for a given room is an adventure and, as in all adventures, you can have thrilling experiences. In this connection I think of a creamy white room where a huge, low bowl of flame colored gladioli is placed on the grand piano. They tone perfectly with the cream-colored walls and the dark wood of the furniture. There should be no other competitors, however. Just one bowl of flowers is sufficient.

Valuable suggestions in flower arrangements are also submitted at this time. In general, there are three rules by which you can judge the success of your flower arrangement; but you must remember that we are speaking of the way you and we arrange flowers, probably those grown in our own gardens, with an occasional supplementary bouquet from the florist.

First of all, the flower arrangement must fit into the room for which it was intended. The formal bouquet which you arranged so effectively for your hall is not likely to produce the air of cheerful comfort that you so much desire in your living room.

Second, you must consider the choice of the container for the particular flowers with which you are working.

Third, you must remember that the combination of both colors and textures is to be worked out with great care.

When you turn to flower arrangement, you establish the personality of your room. This very fact gives an idea of the vast importance of your choice and treatment of the blossoms in your home. Yet, there are definite rules that you can follow. Almost scientific in their exactness, these rules are a product of centuries of study.

Those who know flowers and consequently love them realize that each blossom is an individual, the product of its own peculiar environment. As such, it demands a certain special treatment when it is brought indoors. The uninitiated look upon flowers merely as color notes in a room, treating them impersonally. But they simply don't know their flowers!

In the quaint old days flower lovers were satisfied with three receptacles for bloom in the home. One was large, the second was medium-sized, and the third was small. Such an array was supposed to answer all demands and but few questioned the rule.

This was the era, as perhaps you remember, when the average woman frugally bought a tan hat, tan shoes, and tan gloves—because they "went with everything" in her wardrobe!

Holds First Meeting

With the opening of St. Matthew's Parochial school, the P.-T. A. held its first meeting of the year under the leadership of recently installed officers, Mrs. Paul Kellar, president; Mrs. Stanley Hodges, first vice-president; Mrs. Dick Daughtry, second vice-president, and Mrs. E. J. BeDoit, secretary-treasurer.

The opening prayer was led by Sister M. Stanislaus, and an address of welcome was said by Mrs. B. W. Morrison.

Plans were discussed for a Hallowe'en party to be held at the school building October 31. Mrs. Charles Guerriero was appointed chairman, to be assisted by Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. B. W. Morrison and Mrs. Louis Breard. A "cake walk" will be held in connection with the evening's program.

All members were requested to bring rummage to the school building for the sale to be held on October 5.

Miss Catherine McStravick gave a report on the cafeteria. Mrs. John Guerriero, chairman of cafeteria committee, requested the mothers to see that their children patronize the cafeteria in order that it may be put on a paying basis and better serve the needs of the children.

Committee to serve during the coming year were appointed as follows: Publicity, Mrs. J. W Spohrer, Mrs. John Williamson; program, Mrs. Dick Daughtry, Mrs. B. W. Morrison; hospitality, Mrs. M. E. Bell, Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Mrs. Allen Ritter, Mrs. Hugh Lennon, Miss Grace Aaron; membership, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, Mrs. W. J. Rimes; finance, Mrs. Charles Reid, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. Charles Wilds, Mrs. M. P. Hebert, Mrs. Louis Breard, Mrs. Dan Armand Breard; summer round-up, Mrs. T. L. Morris; publications and study group, Mrs. John Pracher; magazine, Mrs. S. Gremillion, Mrs. V. C. Spatafora; cafeteria, Mrs. John Guerriero, Miss Catherine McStravick, Mrs. Joseph W. Hartman, Mrs. John Williamson, Mrs. Dick Daughtry.

Room mothers were named as follows: First grade, Mrs. Charles Reid, Mrs. D. C. Williams; second, Mrs. M. P. Kutz, Mrs. A. J. Massart; third, Mrs. Charles Guerriero; fourth, Mrs. L. Breard, Mrs. J. Pracher; fifth, Mrs. A. Ritter, Mrs. C. C. Burkett; sixth, Mrs. M. P. Hebert, Mrs. B. W. Morrison; seventh, Mrs. John Guerriero, Miss Grace Aaron; freshmen, Mrs. S. Gremillion, Mrs. Paul Kellar; sophomore, Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. J. Devereux; junior, Mrs. C. Cage, Mrs. S. V. Danna; senior, Mrs. L. Guerriero, Mrs. T. L. Morris.

Two new members were admitted, Mrs. M. P. Kutz and Mrs. D. C. Williams.

A poem, "School Begins," was read by Mrs. Louis Breard.

Rev. M. J. Walsh spoke a few words on the value of cooperation in every organization and urged those present to cooperate willingly with their officers and fellow members during the coming year, and to voice their opinions at the meetings.

Closing prayer was offered by Father Walsh.

Winter Coat Fashions March To Military Air

Here is a military air to this winter coat of brick red wool straight from Creed's 1936 Paris collection. Its wide shoulders, brown leather belt and collar and bold revers of brown Alaska sealskin reflect the influence of the world's war talk. Notice the full skirt which is being favored by some designers this year. Rose Valois designed the dashing hat of brown felt.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Paris decrees wide shoulders, big sleeves and buttons in the new winter coats which will soon be seen on Park avenue and Michigan boulevard. Black leads the color card.

There is much news in the 1936 wraps now being shown in big dress-making palaces. First, shoulders are given a wider line (rounded not squared), sometimes achieved by padding, again by epaulettes, but most often simply by cut.

Second, sleeves are generally large, in many cases made entirely of flat fur or trimmed with such furs as foxes winding around the arm.

Third, the "coat clutch" has been banished. The new 1936 model buttons, belts or ties freeing hands from the necessity of holding the coat in place. As many as four buttons at side front are used on some models, while others are finished with big leather belts, sometimes of a contrasting color.

Fourth, the military influence of the world's war talk has left its stamp on many coats. Double-breasted cuts, bold revers sometimes furred, and frog and braid fastenings, which are seen by the score, all hint at the trimness of officers' uniforms and overcoats.

Fifth, collars are either large or small. There is no half-way about it. Many of the dressier coats are lavishly furred with big collars of silver fox, black astrakhan, shaved lamb or broadtail swathing the throat and framing the face. The elaborate irregularly shaped collar with fur swirling around one shoulder and down one side is much used, while hoods (both fur and fabric) appear on many wraps.

Besides this, there are scores of coats with very small standing collars of astrakhan matched by big fur sleeves and frog fastenings running down the front of the bodice.

Sixth, the silhouette of the dressier coats fits the waistline with several big houses adding decided fullness to the coat's skirt below. Others cling to a more slender skirted line, while a few even favor a straight cut.

Black is the color of more than half the more formal coats. Green (bottle, Veronese and pine) trimmed with silver fox or astrakhan, brown, dregs of wine and gray are also smart.

Sports coats are generally made of the modern two-toned or multi-colored tweeds and furred with beaver or nutria. Patch pockets are back in favor, appearing even on some of the dressier coats.

Mrs. Merrill Bush and daughter, Merlyn, are spending the week-end in New Orleans and Baton Rouge. They were joined by Mrs. Frank Stubbs at Baton Rouge last night, where they attended the Rice-L. S. U. game.

P.-T. A. Meeting Held

A large and enthusiastic group of members attended the first meeting of Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher association for the school year Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. G. Durrett, first vice-president, was unanimously elected president, when Mrs. James Phelps submitted her resignation.

Other officers elected at this time were Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, first vice-president and Mrs. Elmer Richards, second vice-president. Reports were received from Mrs. Paul Newman, secretary, and Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, treasurer.

The following committees were named by the president: Membership, Mrs. James Phelps, Mrs. Roy Hale; program, Mrs. W. Marvyn Johnson, Mrs. B. Handy, Mrs. William Harper; publicity, Mrs. L. B. Chambers; hospitality, Mrs. Curtis Smith, Mrs. Ralph Thompson; finance, Mrs. Elmer Richards, Mrs. John Madden, Mrs. C. Dickard; social service, Mrs. S. Friedlander; study group, Mrs. M. M. Cragon.

Other committees will be named later.

It was voted to change the time of meeting from 3:15 to 2 p.m., with the exception of three meetings, the first, Founders' day and the last. These will be at 3:15, in order that the teachers may attend.

A distinct feature of each meeting will be a five-minute talk by the principal, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, in which parents will be informed of the progress of children. At this meeting, Miss Rodgers announced, a registered nurse will be on duty every school day in the week. Also that the J. C. Penney company renewed its offer of five dollars every six weeks to the child making the highest average in the 6-A class. Miss Rodgers said the assembly programs this year would stress the social sciences, with citizenship projects to be carried out by the student body. Health and safety education, also, will be emphasized in realistic manner.

Mrs. Durrett gave the message of Mrs. B. F. Lagworthy, president of National Congress of Parents and Teachers, urging parents to visit the schools, thus carrying out the slogan, "The Modern Parent Knows the School." She also read a message from Mrs. Albert Smith, president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, asking special interest in the study groups. In an inspirational manner, Mrs. Durrett expressed confidence in the support and cooperation of the members for an outstanding year's work.

Announcement was made of the first meeting of the Georgia Tucker study group Thursday, October 3, at 2 p.m. All interested are invited by the leader, Mrs. M. M. Cragon, to attend.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the Twin City Parent-Teacher council, was introduced as the speaker of the day. Her subject was "Benefits of the Panel-Forum Method of Discussion." With characteristic humor and fluency, Mrs. Cudd defined this movement, saying in part:

"The purpose of the discussion method, no matter what form, is to educate everybody. It trains the members of the group in group thinking. It makes each member realize that he, too, may have something to contribute. It creates a more effective relationship in the group and educates all, instead of raising one or two to the position of dictator. Thus the educational level of the entire assembly is raised by this process, which involves all, and helps each one to become a more balanced member. Walter Pitken says: "In a well-balanced life flourish the finest fruits of American individualism."

Two Books Reviewed

"Lamb in His Bosom," prize winning novel by Caroline Miller, was delightfully reviewed by Mrs. D. M. Moore at the meeting last week of the Welcome branch, Twentieth Century Book club. This story of pioneer women and their struggles and hardships in the hills of Georgia held the undivided interest of club members. Of interest also was Mrs. W. C. Scott's review of Majorie Rawling's novel, "South Moon." Twenty-five club members were present.

Mrs. Herbert Breard will entertain the Literary guild at her home on the seventh of October. This will be the first meeting of the new year and a full attendance is desired.

Sunday Has Come To Be Day Of Recreation And Diversion

Starched Behavior Is No Longer Demanded

Sabbath Is Long And Tiresome No More; Cars Stream Along Country Highways While Boats Ply Up And Down River

Another autumnal Sunday with the whole world stretching out alluring arms from every highway and every country lane. Even the placid river, slumbering in the late September sunshine, seems to bid us come and enjoy a ride on its broad bosom.

Sunday has somehow ceased to be the day it used to be. Gone forever the Sunday of meditation, of starched collars and starched behavior, when dinner was long and heavy and solemn, and there was no radio to while away the stuffy after-dinner hours. Monday always came with a sense of great release and the Monday moan and limp of the sunburned and the jaded were not the universal phenomena, as now.

The bicycle of the nineties is accused of starting the change in Sunday that we note today. Bicyclists ventured forth, but usually in clubs, as if for mutual protection, for they were regarded and denounced as Sabbath-breakers. Tennis hid away from common sight. The Sunday golfer was a rare bird and took the risk of being haled before a magistrate. The crack of the baseball bat was never heard on the placid air. Most indoor public entertainment had to be described as either "sacred" or "educational" to escape the police.

There are no more tiresome Sundays in the bright lexicon of life today. Streams of cars pour along country roads. People stand in line in front of picture theaters. Garages, filling stations, hot dog stands, all do a rushing business. Boats glide up and down the river carrying happy families to quiet spots. Cars are laden with fishing tackle and with trailers that tell a story of a happy care-free week-end far from the noise of the city.

Family groups no longer sit around on a Sunday afternoon balancing a saucer of ice cream, or sit in the park during the band concert. The day of rest and relaxation, when talk of shop and business was never mentioned and nothing more exciting than reading "Pilgrim's Progress" ever happened, has been changed during the last generation.

Sunday has come to be a very happy day, looked forward to with eager anticipation by every member of the family. There are many beautiful drives around Monroe, especially enjoyable at this season of the year.

Let us suggest that you take the loop ride today that takes you along beautiful Clear lake. Take the Rayville paved highway and turn to the right on the graveled road about three miles this side of Rayville. Leaving Clear lake you will again come to a paved highway, the Winnsboro road, near Alto.

The twenty-five mile drive to Bastrop is exceptionally beautiful at this particular time. The yellow daisies and golden rod have turned the meadows into a sea of gold in every direction. The spruce trees are now flaunting their winter dress of crimson, with the hedges of vivid sumac adding a glorious splash of color.

Bride-To-Be Feted

The most intimate friends of Miss Elizabeth Platt, lovely bride-to-be, gathered in the candle-lit, flower-banked reception suite of the W. J. Tremaine home at the tea hour on Friday, when Mrs. Tremaine and daughter, Miss Wanda Tremaine, offered charming hospitality.

Miss Platt's vivid personality was enhanced by a cerise crepe model with black velvet, off-the-face hat and black accessories. Miss Tremaine was wearing a sapphire blue crepe model and Mrs. Tremaine was attired in bottle green afternoon model of crepe. Miss Ann Platt, who assisted in the courtesies, wore a dark brown ensemble with accessories of the same shade.

The tea table in the dining room, flooded with candlelight and overlaid with handsome Renaissance lace, was centered with pink Columbia roses glowing in a flaring silver bowl. Tea was poured from a handsome silver service by Mrs. Charles Womack, who wore a coral crepe afternoon model. Luscious tid-bits were served while the guests lingered to discuss the wedding plans of Miss Platt, who was the central figure in this group of devoted friends, numbering Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Hudson, Elizabeth Cosper, Nancy Helm, Jean Dryburgh, Sue Graves, Marie Collens, Sarabeth Farmer, Elizabeth Kennedy, Ellen Kent Millsaps, Adelia Sandel, Leigh Rissell, Mrs. Prentice Clark, Mrs. Charles Womack, Mrs. Newton Knowles, Mrs. George Trousdale, Mrs. Victor Davis, Mrs. Tilden Austin, Mrs. Walter Kellogg, Mrs. Theodore Allen, Mrs. Samuel Jones and Mrs. J. W. Platt.

Forum Is Scheduled

Autumn having made its official bow last week, the feminine world is ready to turn its mind to home and school and club programs that run the gamut from light opera, music and literature to discussion of the international situation.

Mrs. Addison Thompson, our alert, enthusiastic state chairman of press and publicity for Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, reminds the club women of this district of the brimming calendar planned for the coming winter. She also brings a reminder of the important meeting of club women to start in New York on the fifteenth of October and continue for three days. It will be the fifth annual forum sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune.

"America Faces a Changing World" is the subject of the forum. Mrs. William Brown Melony of the Herald Tribune will preside over the sessions.

The first session under the heading, "Trade and Peace," will be featured by such speakers as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will open the forum with "The American Woman's Place in the World Today." The Honorable Cordell Hull, secretary of state, will speak on "Trade and Peace." Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large will deliver the keynote. Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England, will broadcast from London, Brussels, and Paris, as will the Honorable Paul Van Zeeland, prime minister of Belgium. He will be followed by the Honorable Paul Reynaud, former finance minister of France. "Can the United States Remain Neutral?" will be the topic of Dr. Philip C. Jessup, Columbia university. Thomas J. Watson of the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce will conclude the first session with a discussion of "World Trade and Recovery."

Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president of the general federation of Women's clubs will extend greetings from her organization. Miss Charl Williams will bring greetings from the National League of Business and Professional Women. Delegates will be welcomed by Mrs. Ogden Reid of the New York Herald Tribune.

The second session, with the title, "Assets of the Depression," will be featured by a keynote speech by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt entitled "Better Housing." Dr. Lillian Gilbreath, consulting engineer, will speak on "The Science of Better Living." "Depression's Debunking of Finance" will be the topic by the Honorable Fiorello La Guardia, mayor of New York City. Igor Sikorsky, aero engineer and vice-president of Sikorsky Aviation corporation, will discuss "Wings Over America." Dr. John Ward Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, will discuss "Adult Education." "Youth's Opportunities Today and Social Security Safeguards" will be the subject of Miss Josephine Roche, assistant secretary of the treasury. The session will be concluded with the discussion of the Hon. John G. Winant, "Social Security."

The third session, beginning Oct. 16, is programmed as follows: "Safeguards for the Future" Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors corporation, the Honorable Ogden Mills, former secretary of the treasury. Dr. Menas Gregory, founder and former director of the psychiatric department, Bellevue hospital, whose subject is "Juvenile Delinquency"; Dr. Neil Carothers, Lehigh university, "Sane Economics"; Paul Siple, Boy Scout with Byrd expedition, "Exploration and Adventure"; Lady Rhondda, editor of "Tide and Time," will speak on "International Understanding." George E. Q. Johnson, former Judge United States district court, "Cutting the Crime Cost"; Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Chicago university, "The Safeguard of Religion."

The fourth session topic, "The Rise of Culture in the United States." Dr. John Erskine, author, president of Juilliard foundation, will deliver the keynote address; Irita Van Doren, literary editor of the New York Herald Tribune, "Trends in Literature"; Edward Johnson, director of the Metropolitan opera in America, "The Place of Opera in American Life"; Reuben Mamoulian, producer, "The World's Latest True Art"; Helen Hayes, leading actress, "The Stage"; Royal Cotissoz, art editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, lecture on art.

TROUSER SKIRT

This new Dorville sports suit is made of goats'-hair jersey, has a trouser skirt, a new frilly neckline and ingenious shoulder and sleeve treatment. The buckle and buttons are miniature replicas of an Ethiopian warrior's shield.

Will Cooperate

Cooperation with the American Red Cross in the establishment of home safety in each parish of the state, the appointment of a committee to work with the national youth administration in the promotion of their work throughout the states, and the legislative program were subjects receiving special attention at the fall board meeting of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers recently held at Chicago, according to the announcement of Mrs. Albert L. Smith, president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, who represented her state at the meeting.

The national Red Cross launched their drive for a reduction of accidents in the home because of the ever-increasing number of accidents of this character. The need for safety outside of the home has already received attention. The national congress unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing this cooperation and calls on every parent-teacher unit in the state to give assistance to the Red Cross in its campaign to reduce accidents within the home.

The state units are also urged by the national congress to cooperate with the educational program of the particular locality. The program of the national youth administration is largely to aid in financing students through school.

Definite announcements were made concerning the radio broadcast schedule of the national congress which is as follows: The broadcast which began September 25 will be continued on each Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., central standard time, over the blue network. The programs will be in forum form rather than lectures which have featured the programs in the past. The broadcast will continue until June, 1936, according to present plans.

Dr. Edgar Dale of Columbus, Ohio, was appointed national motion picture chairman on the resignation of Mrs. Robbins Gilman. Mrs. Fred Raymond was named National Founders' day chairman, succeeding Mrs. David O. Nears, deceased.

The national congress convention will be presented to the state board when they meet at Alexandria, October 5.

Sunday Has Come To Be Day Of Recreation And Diversion

Starched Behavior Is No Longer Demanded

Sabbath Is Long And Tiresome No More; Cars Stream Along Country Highways While Boats Ply Up And Down River

Another autumnal Sunday with the whole world stretching out alluring arms from every highway and every country lane. Even the placid river, slumbering in the late September sunshine, seems to bid us come and enjoy a ride on its broad bosom.

Sunday has somehow ceased to be the day it used to be. Gone forever the Sunday of meditation, of starched collars and starched behavior, when dinner was long and heavy and solemn, and there was no radio to while away the stuffy after-dinner hours. Monday always came with a sense of great release and the Monday moan and limp of the sunburned and the jaded were not the universal phenomena, as now.

The bicycle of the nineties is accused of starting the change in Sunday that we note today. Bicyclists ventured forth, but usually in clubs, as if for mutual protection, for they were regarded and denounced as Sabbath-breakers. Tennis hid away from common sight. The Sunday golfer was a rare bird and took the risk of being haled before a magistrate. The crack of the baseball bat was never heard on the placid air. Most indoor public entertainment had to be described as either "sacred" or "educational" to escape the police.

There are no more tiresome Sundays in the bright lexicon of life today. Streams of cars pour along country roads. People stand in line in front of picture theaters. Garages, filling stations, hot dog stands, all do a rushing business. Boats glide up and down the river carrying happy families to quiet spots. Cars are laden with fishing tackle and with trailers that tell a story of a happy care-free week-end far from the noise of the city.

Family groups no longer sit around on a Sunday afternoon balancing a saucer of ice cream, or sit in the park during the band concert. The day of rest and relaxation, when talk of shop and business was never mentioned and nothing more exciting than reading "Pilgrim's Progress" ever happened, has been changed during the last generation.

Sunday has come to be a very happy day, looked forward to with eager anticipation by every member of the family. There are many beautiful drives around Monroe, especially enjoyable at this season of the year.

Let us suggest that you take the loop ride today that takes you along beautiful Clear lake. Take the Rayville paved highway and turn to the right on the graveled road about three miles this side of Rayville. Leaving Clear lake you will again come to a paved highway, the Winnsboro road, near Alto.

The twenty-five mile drive to Bastrop is exceptionally beautiful at this particular time. The yellow daisies and golden rod have turned the meadows into a sea of gold in every direction. The spruce trees are now flaunting their winter dress of crimson, with the hedges of vivid sumac adding a glorious splash of color.

Feminine World Rushes To Shop As Cool Weather Arrives

Bewildering Array Of Styles Available

Dresses For Every Occasion May Be Found In Stores Of Monroe; Designers Influenced By Numerous Trends

It is great fun just being alive these days, when everyone is home from their vacation, homes are taking on that hospitable air of winter comfort and the stores are seething with eager matrons on the lookout for new fall clothes. The sudden drop in temperature on Friday sent the feminine world into those little booths where dress after dress is slipped deftly over the head by accommodating sales ladies.

And such a bewildering array of smart ensembles we came across in the Monroe shops when we went on a tour of inspection yesterday. We found ourselves enmeshed in a morass of conflicting "trends"—the renaissaince, the military, the Grecian and the Ethiopian. Designers, evidently, have been influenced by events all over the map and all periods of history.

We found a dress for every occasion. As you know, a dress for any occasion never fails to intrigue the interest of a woman, be it a christening robe or the shroud that is under discussion. The dress a girl wears when she is proposed to, the favorite model of her trousseau, the dress that brings out the color of her eyes or the dress that accentuates her slim lines becomes a part of her life's history, as it were.

A season or so ago the Sunday night frock was the center of interest and when repeal came the cocktail dress took its place. This year the bridge dress is the dress of the hour.

It may be a dress of floor length, it may clear the floor by nine inches, the bodice may be cut high in front and slightly low in the back. It may be a sleeveless dress with a charming bolero of velvet, or the best bidder at the table may choose one of the many smart little crepe dresses with the interesting neck-line, large sleeves and calf-length skirt may be the winner.

The suit this year is soft and often consists of a dress topped by a short box coat. Doff the coat and you are ready for any daytime date. The blouse of today has a special value, for it puts the interest of the dress where it has sartorial value as seen across the table. The pleated blouse, the blouse with the bishop sleeve, and the metallic striped silks all are of special interest to the woman who selects a dress with an occasion in mind.

Another influence which shoppers are viewing with great interest this year is the Tanagra silhoutte, which is inspired by the draperies of the Tanagra figurine. Patou uses draperies for the small figure. Waistlines are slightly higher in these draped gowns, and the classic Greek treatment of drapery still is regarded by the leading designers as best to be found even after these thousands of years.

An enjoyable social hour was a feature of the meeting of the Philathea class of the First Baptist church Thursday evening. During the brief business session officers were installed for the coming year, with Reverend L. T. Hastings presiding. The candlelighting ceremony was most impressive, with Mrs. L. T. Hastings, teacher, acting as leader. An interesting program and the serving of a refreshment course concluded the meeting.

Friends of Mrs. Jessie Harvey will regret to learn that she is a patient at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, where she underwent an appendectomy Friday morning. Her condition is reported favorably.

MAKE THIS NEWEST FALL FROCK!

Shirtmaker frock—that most popular of all fashions—brought up to the minute for you, in this new Anne Adams pattern-design! Square buttons and big pockets make it delightfully swagger. Yet soft shirrings and sleeve fullness give it the approved feminine air. It features one of the fall 1935 sheer woolens that has tiny white nubs all over a blue background—giving the fabric the very new frosted look. It's ever so easy to make . . . and it's so very wearable, you'll count on it to see you through the season gloriously. Make it right now—while the shops are brimful of stunning fabrics! Besides the fabric described, it would be lovely in wool crepe, plaid or checked worsted or novelty wool jersey. Pattern X2400 is available in sizes 12 to 20 and 30 to 40.

Send 15c today for pattern X2400 to Monroe Morning World Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Samuel Orchard, to the regret of many friends, will enter Mayo Brothers clinic at Rochester, Minn., for medical treatment. She left the city on Thursday and before returning home is anticipating a visit with friends in St. Paul.

Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, president of the luncheon-bridge club of Lakeside Country club, announces the first meeting of the winter season for Wednesday at 12 o'clock. Rubber bridge will be introduced following the luncheon hour and every one attending is requested to make up their own table. It is requested, also, that players furnish their own cards. Luncheon reservations must be made either with Mrs. Biedenharn or Mrs. W. Quiggles, chairman. Bridge prizes will be awarded at each meeting.

Capes Sweep To The Fore In Winter Fashion Salons

Capes appear in both the day and evening winter mode. This one of heavy black silk patterned with shimmering red scrolls is designed like a royal mantle and falls to the floor in full folds. The front is cut like a waistcoat, buttoned to the waistline and belted in black antelope. Model by Lelong.

Boys Entertained

Mr. William Grasse was responsible for a day of unalloyed pleasure for a group of young boys who were entertained on board the "Weto," with Captain and Mrs. G. B. Cooley hosts.

Landing was made at Pine Top, where refreshments were served and a happy hour spent in song and playing of games.

Mr. Grasse, ever on the alert to better conditions in the lives of boys of humble parentage, recently organized a club that now boasts a membership of fifty-one. Through the efforts of Mr. Grasse, the Rotary club sponsored a week of camp life for these boys at Ki-Ro-Li, and as a result a never-to-be-forgotten week was enjoyed. Wholesome food, swimming, hiking, instruction in bird lore and hours of leisure sent these boys back to their homes happier, healthier and endowed with a greater zest for living.

Club meetings are held twice a month and looked forward to with eager anticipation. These meetings are regarded as a break in the monotonous life of boys whose pleasures are few. There is music, refreshments and hours of play for every boy who attends the meetings. Something is continually being arranged by the counseller, Mr. Grasse, for their pleasure, with the boat ride on the "Weto" one of the happiest events of all.

The medieval industry of enameling was revived at Limoges, France, at the end of the nineteenth century.

Your Baker Speaks.....

'Our first thought is your health'

Like your doctor . . . we have dedicated our services to the health of the nation. Every precaution has been used from the baking to the wrapping and delivering of your bread.

Carbohydrates, Proteins and Nourishment Values Are Found Plentifully in Breads . . .

Nourishment and ease of digestion are the health-value of food. Bread slow baked by your baker ranks high in both. Wheat flour, milk, yeast, sugar, shortening, salt, all of nationally known and nationally accepted brands, are its ingredients. Bread is more nourishing, weight for weight, than most foods.

Slow baking in evenly heated ovens makes easily digested food. Every cell of flour or shortening gets its share of heat, and gives up its share of nourishment and flavor. So-called "quick breads," while easy to prepare, are hard to digest, and quick baking injures instead of helping the health of your family. Your baker bakes all products thoroughly, and his bread is easy to digest. Nourishment and ease of digestion are always found in your baker's bread.

Dresses For Every Occasion May Be Found In Stores Of Monroe; Designers Influenced By Numerous Trends

It is great fun just being alive these days, when everyone is home from their vacation, homes are taking on that hospitable air of winter comfort and the stores are seething with eager matrons on the lookout for new fall clothes. The sudden drop in temperature on Friday sent the feminine world into those little booths where dress after dress is slipped deftly over the head by accommodating sales ladies.

And such a bewildering array of smart ensembles we came across in the Monroe shops when we went on a tour of inspection yesterday. We found ourselves enmeshed in a morass of conflicting "trends"—the renaissance, the military, the Grecian and the Ethiopian. Designers, evidently, have been influenced by events all over the map and all periods of history.

We found a dress for every occasion. As you know, a dress for any occasion never fails to intrigue the interest of a woman, be it a christening robe or the shroud that is under discussion. Social Activities Of Northeast Louisianians Are Varied

Individuals And Groups Are Lively In Section

Numerous Visits Are Paid By Relatives; Both Religious And Other Organizations Are Busily Engaged

Tallulah

Betty Lou Davis, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis, entertained a group of her friends with a delightful birthday party at her home recently. Attractive paper hats were given as favors and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The little hostess received numerous gifts.

Outstanding among social events was the recent mother-daughter banquet given by the two troops of girl scouts in honor of their mothers. The community room of the Methodist church, the scene of the banquet, was attractively decorated for the occasion in a variety of fall flowers. The girl scout colors, olive green and gold, was beautifully carried out in the table appointments, strips of crepe paper centering the long tables with masses of marigolds and ferns placed at intervals. The place cards, delightful silhouette folders, also contained the program.

Miss Sue Fairly served as toastmistress and welcomed the honor guests. This was followed by a toast to all the mothers by the girls. Most interesting pantomimes, introduced by the herald, Miss Marguerite McDonald, in appropriate costume, with music by Miss Virginia Thompson, portrayed famous mothers of history and the Bible. Mrs. R. T. Campbell, past president of the American Legion auxiliary, sponsors of the girl scouts, made a talk. There was an attendance of 65, including mothers, scouts and the scout leaders, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Miss Dorothy Fairly of troop one, and Mrs. E. B. Frierson and Miss Georgette Ziegler of troop two.

A joint meeting of the five circles of the Baptist Missionary society took place at the church on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Albert Sevier presiding over the business session, which was featured by the reports from the various officers. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. J. L. Thompson of Olla left Wednesday for her home after a visit with Rev. and Mrs. C. K. Smith.

An enthusiastic meeting of the workers who will participate in the Red Cross roll call campaign, which will begin October 8, was held here Wednesday. Mr. C. H. Todd, chapter chairman, made a talk and plans were made for a thorough canvas of Madison parish. The Parent-Teacher association met Thursday afternoon, September 26, in the Grammar school auditorium for the initial meeting for this school year. The meeting was called to order by the present, Mrs. Paul Stinson, and was opened with the singing of "America the Beautiful."

After a short business session, Mrs. Albert Smith, state president of Parent-Teacher organization, gave a most interesting and inspiring address. She used as her subject, "A Growing Program," comparing the growth of the P.-T. A. in height, breadth and weight with that of a child.

She advised the local organization to have a school of instruction, and urged every officer to study the manual for a clearer understanding of her work.

A contest was then held to see which room had the most mothers present at the meeting. It resulted in Miss Christine Sutton's room winning the prize.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by every one present. Mrs. C. M. Swanson of Winnfield accompanied Mrs. Smith to Jonesboro.

The W. M. S. of the Hodge Methodist church met with Mrs. H. B. Hysell Monday afternoon, September 23, for its monthly program. Mrs. Roe Wickham presided. Discussions, participated in by several members, were held on "Health Work in Korea." One new member, Mrs. Morell Emmons, was enrolled, and two visitors were recorded as present. Mrs. Hysell served refreshments to those present.

The Hodge P.-T. A. held its first meeting of this school year Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium, with Mr. Morell Emmons, the principal, presiding. Due to the resignation of Mrs. Chet Steadman, the president elected last spring, a nominating committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. David Beli, Mrs. Frank Stewart and Miss Lorenza Hayes, to make a selection for president. The election will be held at the next meeting. Some twenty members were present at this first meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Michaud left a few days ago on a motor trip to points in Maine, their home state. On the way back, they will visit Boston, New York City and Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Libbey and Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLean left recently on a visit to Hot Springs, Ark.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church of Jonesboro held its regular meeting at the church with Mrs. J. A. Thurman presiding. Mrs. W. W. McDonald conducted the devotional and Mrs. Thurman spoke briefly on missionary and medical work in Korea. Mrs. A. A. Meredith discussed briefly the health situation in Korea. A short playlet on hospital and public health work was given by Mesdames Thurman, Morgan, Garrett, Wilingham and Thomas. Mrs. J. J. Brichm then gave a devotional based on the beatitudes. This was followed by a prayer for the doctors and nurses and the sick by Mrs. T. L. Walker. The different phases of social service carried on by the W. M. S. was presented by Mrs. T. D. Callaway. The meeting was dismissed with prayer, after which the program committee met to plan the work for October.

Tallulah

Betty Lou Davis, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis, entertained a group of her friends with a delightful birthday party at her home recently. Attractive paper hats were given as favors and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The little hostess received numerous gifts.

Outstanding among social events was the recent mother-daughter banquet given by the two troops of girl scouts in honor of their mothers. The community room of the Methodist church, the scene of the banquet, was attractively decorated for the occasion in a variety of fall flowers. The girl scout colors, olive green and gold, was beautifully carried out in the table appointments, strips of crepe paper centering the long tables with masses of marigolds and ferns placed at intervals. The place cards, delightful silhouette folders, also contained the program.

Miss Sue Fairly served as toastmistress and welcomed the honor guests. This was followed by a toast to all the mothers by the girls. Most interesting pantomimes, introduced by the herald, Miss Marguerite McDonald, in appropriate costume, with music by Miss Virginia Thompson, portrayed famous mothers of history and the Bible. Mrs. R. T. Campbell, past president of the American Legion auxiliary, sponsors of the girl scouts, made a talk. There was an attendance of 65, including mothers, scouts and the scout leaders, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Miss Dorothy Fairly of troop one, and Mrs. E. B. Frierson and Miss Georgette Ziegler of troop two.

A joint meeting of the five circles of the Baptist Missionary society took place at the church on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Albert Sevier presiding over the business session, which was featured by the reports from the various officers. There was a good attendance.

An enthusiastic meeting of the workers who will participate in the Red Cross roll call campaign, which will begin October 8, was held here Wednesday. Mr. C. H. Todd, chapter chairman, made a talk and plans were made for a thorough canvas of Madison parish. Among those in attendance were the chairmen of the various civic and religious organizations who will assist in the drive, which is being sponsored by the local post of the American Legion.

Miss Marianne Ward, a bride-elect of October, was beautifully complimented at a bridge shower given by Mrs. Henry Sevier and Mrs. R. T. Campbell at the latter's home on Wednesday afternoon. Tables for bridge were arranged in the reception rooms, the games resulting in Mrs. Alex Blanche capturing the high score prize, a luncheon set, and Mrs. Mason Spencer, consolation, two decks of cards. Following the games the guests were invited into the dining room, where gifts of lingerie were presented to the honoree. The hostesses served delicious ice cream and cake to the guests, who were Mrs. N. T. Holt, Miss Elizabeth Holt, Mrs. W. J. Ward, Mrs. Reis Feith, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mrs. A. J. Sevier, Mrs. R. L. Baily, Mrs. W. L. Rountree, Mrs. B. P. Folk, Mrs. Will Adams, Mrs. E. B. Stribling, Miss Georgette Ziegler, Miss Dorothy Fairly, Mrs. B. R. Coad, Mrs. W. C. Starrett, Mrs. Alex Blanche, Mrs. J. S. Agee, Mrs. Mason Spencer, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Miss Elizabeth Bettis.

The initial meeting of the Music club for the new club year took place at the home of Mrs. S. B. Bettis on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. W. C. Starrett as co-hostess. The new president, Mrs. R. L. Baily, presided and Mrs. L. Westmoreland was leader of the program on "Folk Music of America." Mrs. Westmoreland gave an introductory talk on "Folk Music of Anglo Saxon Origin," which was followed by a vocal solo, "Auld Lang Syne," by Mrs. Baily. At the request of the federation of music clubs for assembly singing at each meeting, the selection "Comin' Through the Rye" was chosen. Current events of the musical world was an interesting feature as was a folk dance by Jean Moberley, Louise Thompson, Geneva Rountree and Reita Feith.

At the conclusion of the program, a social hour was enjoyed, when the hostesses served delightful refreshments to the members, Mesdames R. L. Baily, H. T. Starrett, Reis Feith, E. O. Edgerton, Myles Hopkins, D. P. Moore, L. Westmoreland, W. L. Rountree, G. L. Garrison, A. L. Sevier and a guest, Mrs. Lamar Lowe.

The board of stewards of the Methodist church held its regular monthly meeting at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hale on Thursday evening. Preceding the business session, a delicious supper was served.

A joint meeting of the two circles of the Methodist Missionary society was held in the community room of the church on Monday, with a program on South America, under the direction of Mrs. C. K. Smith, as the feature. Mrs. Charles Colthorp, Mrs. D. Fortner, Mrs. M. L. Piper participated in the program which consisted of the history, geography, political development and present day relations with other nations, as a preliminary to the mission study book, "That Other America," to be used in both circles. A number of curios from South America added to the interest. Refreshments of chili and coffee were served.

Miss Neva Carothers, after a visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Mitchiner, left Friday for Vera Cruz, Mexico, where Monday she will marry Mr. A. P. Willis of Villa Hermosa, after which they will go to Tabasco, Mexico, to reside.

Mrs. F. H. Schneider entertained her bridge club at her lovely home on the lake front.

Mrs. Frank Voelker was substitute for Mrs. N. K. Delony and Mrs. W. R. Powell played for the hostess.

Mrs. F. X. Ransdell was winner of the high score prize and Mrs. W. K. Evans of the prize for low score. Other guest players were Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, Jr., Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. J. M. Hamley, Mrs. E. P. Regenold and Mrs. J. N. Turner.

Miss Laura Johnson of Coushatta is spending the winter here with her brother-in-law and sister, Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Nelson, and is attending the Lake Providence High school as a senior.

Mrs. W. F. Trieschman and Mrs. J. S. Pittman were first and second prize winners, respectively, when Mrs. J. H. Guenard entertained Wednesday at bridge.

Mrs. Guenard entertained at the family home in First street and her guests were Mrs. Rupert Evans, Mrs. W. Y. Bell, Mrs. Anna R. Cox, Mrs. R. S. Guenard, Mrs. H. L. Harkey, Mrs. J. N. Hill, Jr., Mrs. Roland Smith, Mrs. J. S. Pittman, Mrs. C. A. Rose, Mrs. E. D. Schneider, Mrs. W. E. Scott and Mrs. W. F. Trieschman, who played for Mrs. E. S. Voelker.

St. Joseph

Mrs. Christopher Haddon and Mrs. Curry MacPherson were co-hostesses to the Cosmopolitan club. Mrs. Haddon also served as leader. A very interesting program was enjoyed.

Mrs. Philip Watson entertained the Afternoon Bridge club at her home. The card tables were placed in the living room, which was bright with fall flowers. After a number of games had been played, a salad course was served. The prize for high score was won by Mrs. Christopher Haddon. The other guests included Mrs. Curry MacPherson, Mrs. Eugene Stevens, Mrs. Clarence Johnston, Mrs. Oscar Levy, Mrs. Jack Crigler, Mrs. E. H. Biggs and Miss Ethel Keibler.

Rev. Skardon D'Aubert of Tallulah, rector of Christ Episcopal church here, will hold 11 o'clock services, followed by celebration of holy communion Sunday morning, October 6, at Christ church. There will be one evening service during October.

A number of persons from St. Joseph and out of town enjoyed a week-end party on Tensas river recently. The guests included Mrs. William Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rush, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Earnest, Mr. and Mrs. Curry MacPherson, Miss Leah Knott, Miss Anne Noble, Miss Marian Post, James Percy, John Cole, Dr. John Norris, Benjamin Young, Frank MacPherson and Mr. and Mrs. William Cooper of Baton Rouge.

Messrs. Curry MacPherson, Gasperino Bruno, W. A. Netterville and Christopher James left St. Joseph recently for a trip to Detroit, Mich. From Detroit they will visit Windsor, Canada. The object of the trip is to attend the world series games at Detroit.

The Presbyterian auxiliary met with Mrs. Christopher Haddon. The members present were Mrs. Curry MacPherson, Mrs. Ida Jones, Mrs. Fred Skinner, Mrs. Philip Watson, Mrs. Bessie Yarborough, Mrs. Viola Allen, Mrs. Matthews, Miss Ethel Keibler and Miss Ollie McGill. After the conclusion of business, Bible study was taken up.

The Methodist auxiliary met with Mrs. V. C. Rives. This was the last meeting of the quarter. The members present included Mrs. W. Wynans Drake, Mrs. Durham, Mrs. Steve Smith, Mrs. Peter Heirl, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Katie Osborne, Mrs. Henry Uhlson, Mrs. German Baker, Mrs. B. F. Hornsby, Mrs. G. A. Jackson and the hostess, Mrs. V. C. Rives. Business was discussed and reports from various collections made. Mrs. W. Wynans Drake gave a talk on "Church Going." Mrs. Dives was assisted in serving a delicious salad course by Mrs. Peter Nevil and Mrs. Katie Osborne. There will be an election of officers for the coming year at the next meeting, which will be with Mrs. E. A. Jackson.

Farmerville

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Turnage, Jr., have returned from Bienville, where they visited Mrs. Turnage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Roye Boone.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ward have returned to Overton, Texas, after spending a few days in Farmerville in their home here.

Miss Hattie Lowery of Bernice was the house guest of Mrs. E. L. Mitchell the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Wilkinson and children of Baton Rouge are here visiting Mr. Wilkinson's sister, Mrs. Brodie Green, and brother, Mr. G. Wilkinson.

Mrs. Jim L. Absent of Longview, Texas, is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Odom.

Miss Anna B. Kelley has returned from Hodge, where she spent a week with her sister, Mrs. G. F. Walker.

Jonesboro

The Parent-Teacher association met Thursday afternoon, September 26, in the Grammar school auditorium for the initial meeting for this school year. The meeting was called to order by the present, Mrs. Paul Stinson, and was opened with the singing of "America the Beautiful."

After a short business session, Mrs. Albert Smith, state president of Parent-Teacher organization, gave a most interesting and inspiring address. She used as her subject, "A Growing Program," comparing the growth of the P.-T. A. in height, breadth and weight with that of a child.

She advised the local organization to have a school of instruction, and urged every officer to study the manual for a clearer understanding of her work.

A contest was then held to see which room had the most mothers present at the meeting. It resulted in Miss Christine Sutton's room winning the prize.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by every one present. Mrs. C. M. Swanson of Winnfield accompanied Mrs. Smith to Jonesboro.

The W. M. S. of the Hodge Methodist church met with Mrs. H. B. Hysell Monday afternoon, September 23, for its monthly program. Mrs. Roe Wickham presided. Discussions, participated in by several members, were held on "Health Work in Korea." One new member, Mrs. Morell Emmons, was enrolled, and two visitors were recorded as present. Mrs. Hysell served refreshments to those present.

The Hodge P.-T. A. held its first meeting of this school year Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium, with Mr. Morell Emmons, the principal, presiding. Due to the resignation of Mrs. Chet Steadman, the president elected last spring, a nominating committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. David Bell, Mrs. Frank Stewart and Miss Lorenza Hayes, to make a selection for president. The election will be held at the next meeting. Some twenty members were present at this first meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Michaud left a few days ago on a motor trip to points in Maine, their home state. On the way back, they will visit Boston, New York City and Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Libbey and Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLean left recently on a visit to Hot Springs, Ark.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church of Jonesboro held its regular meeting at the church with Mrs. J. A. Thurman presiding. Mrs. W. W. McDonald conducted the devotional and Mrs. Thurman spoke briefly on missionary and medical work in Korea. Mrs. A. A. Meredith discussed briefly the health situation in Korea. A short playlet on hospital and public health work was given by Mesdames Thurman, Morgan, Garrett, Wilingham and Thomas. Mrs. J. J. Briehm then gave a devotional based on the beatitudes. This was followed by a prayer for the doctors and nurses and the sick by Mrs. T. L. Walker. The different phases of social service carried on by the W. M. S. was presented by Mrs. T. D. Callaway. The meeting was dismissed with prayer, after which the program committee met to plan the work for October.

PAINT INDUSTRY JOINS IN DRIVE

Clean-Up Campaign Reduces Fire Hazard, Declare Underwriters

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Value of the "clean-up and paint-up" campaign sponsored by the paint varnish, and lacquer industry in fire prevention is emphasized by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

"The fire insurance industry," says the official publication of the board, "is particularly interested in the value of paint from a fire-protection standpoint. Unprotected wood has a tendency to weather and dry out until it becomes like tinder. Paint, however keeps wood in good condition, so that a wooden building, painted, is less likely to take fire than one that is unpainted. Another important point is that, in order to paint, it is first necessary to clean up, thus eliminating the hazard of accumulated refuse."

Community Economy

"Prevention of fires," according to the national clean-up and paint-up campaign bureau, "is community economy. The many logical things which the fire-prevention committee can do include the securing of regular, systematic inspections for fire hazards by firemen in their districts, special inspections by firemen of the basements of all dwellings, and a reduction of the conflagration hazard by securing the condemnation and removal of dilapidated buildings, using the unemployed for labor.

"Grass, brush, and dump fires may be reduced by securing special patrols in dry weather and supervising the burning over of vacant lots or mowing those same lots before the grass and weeds are dry or go to seed.

"The National Fire Protection association, with which the national clean-up and paint-up campaign bureau is an energetic cooperator, has well pointed out that every run by the fire department which could have been prevented by a little forethought and care, in the final analysis, costs money to the taxpayer.

Shops Built In Basements Give Pleasure

A dry, well-lighted corner of the basemen may be converted into a workshop. This will not only be a pleasant addition for those who enjoy making things but will prove to be useful as well. Here, during the winter, repairs of various kinds may be made—summer furniture, screens, bookcases, etc.

While it is not necessary that it be separated from the remainder of the basement, it may be advisable to do so. Shavings and sawdust will then be confined to this space.

Plan shelves, cases and all types of storage space which will be needed. Place the work bench near the window and install a drop light over it for night work.

Build a special cabinet for tools. It is important that they be kept dry. Any moisture will cause them to rust, and many costly ones will be ruined.

A more attractive work space will be created if some light, warm color is used.

To protect areas which will be located where they will soil easily, such as the spaces around door handles, etc., paint them a dark contrasting color.

Lay out the location of all the mechanical equipment—power saws or drills, etc. Many of these will require a particularly sturdy table.

PLANT SHELVES

Potted plants make a winter living room more attractive. Before winter comes add shelves near the window. These may be painted to harmonize with the color of the woodwork.

The use of a row of identical square white pots makes an attractive window ledge in an otherwise highly colored room. If more color than that supplied by the plants is needed, very gay pots in different colors may be arranged.

From "Shabby House" to "Goodwill Cottage"

Above is shown, in graphic detail, how an outmoded dwelling may be transformed into a modern, livable home. The project represents a cooperative movement on the part of business and civic leaders of Newark, Ohio, and was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that city. The photo (upper left) shows the original structure, which stood for almost 100 years in an outmoded section of the city. It was placed on rollers and moved to the courthouse square where it was stripped of unsightly features and prepared for modernizing (upper right). The picture (lower left) shows volunteer workers busy on the modernization project. The new house is beginning to take form. The fourth photo shows the completed Cape Cod Cottage, strictly American in style and embodying all modern conveniences. All materials, labor, and furnishings were voluntarily supplied by citizens of Newark. An indication of the interest shown in the "Goodwill Cottage", as it was named, is indicated by attendance figures for the first 12 days following completion. During that time 10,000 people from 165 cities and 22 States inspected the charming little cottage.

AD SERIES BOOSTS REPAIRS BUILDING

BOISE, Idaho—Lumber and building materials dealers here have underwritten a 10-page advertising campaign encouraging modernization to appear weekly in a local newspaper. The advertisements will also point out the possibilities for new building under the federal housing administration's mutual mortgage insurance plan.

SHREVEPORT, La.—Following a recent meeting held at the local offices of the federal housing administration, the Veterans of Foreign Wars stated that they are planning to build a club house through the modernization credit plan. Such a project is possible if costs do not exceed $2,000.

Housing Question Box

Q. What can I do to protect my wallpaper from dirt and the marks of children's hands?

A.—If you refer to old wallpaper already in place, if it is not hopelessly soiled, it can be saved with one of the recognized wallpaper cleaners. After cleaning coat the wallpaper with kanaba wax, which not only protects the surface from grease and dirt but results in a washable surface of considerable endurance. Of course, if you contemplate repapering, the new washable, colorfast wallpapers, available in children's as well as adult designs, will solve your problem. Manufacturers advise that there is no extra charge for the washability feature. Wallpaper may be bought and hung with funds obtained under the modernization credit plan.

Q.—The concrete floor in my basement is wearing badly in spots and causes a white dust to be tracked through the house. What can I do to correct this?

A.—There are numerous concrete-hardening compounds on the market which are easily applied and which can be secured from all or most any paint store. One or two coats should overcome this trouble. There are also many good concrete paints which would protect the surface of the concrete and stop the wear.

Q.—What procedure would you suggest for installing running water and modern plumbing in a summer cottage?

A.—Naturally the method and equipment will vary, depending upon whether running water is available or if a well will have to be dug and the water pumped: on whether there is a sewer line with which your line may be connected or if a septic tank must be provided. The system required will also vary in accordance with the number and type of fixtures which you select. The best plan is to consult an architect or a reliable and experienced plumbing contractor. They will be in a position to advise you concerning the best and most inexpensive type of installation. The entire work, labor as well as materials, may be financed by banks advancing funds under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

A.—It usually is not considered necessary to run the footings of a dry stone wall below the frost line. This is due to the fact that in a dry stone wall the stone is laid up without mortar and the separate pieces of stone can move slightly, adjusting the selves to the frost action.

The face of such a wall should be sloped back at least one-half a foot for every foot of height and an occasional large stone allowed to extend back into the bank to keep the wall from bing pushed out of line during the winter.

Q.—I wish to play tennis at night. How can I light my tennis court?

A.—Many methods of lighting have been tried, but the one that has proved most satisfactory is the placing of powerful flood lights at the four corners of the court and on either side of the net. The standards must be high enough so that the angle of light will not annoy the players.

Q.—What kind of paint shall I use for a concrete wall?

A.—All cement and concrete contain free lime, which will be destructive to oil paint. The paint will harden but in time will stain, soften, peel and fall off. It is always wise to let the surface age at least six months before painting. The lime may be removed, however, using zinc sulphate crystals in ratio of two pounds to one gallon of water. When using oil paints the priming coat should be thinned with one-quarter as much spar varnish.

Cold water paints can also be used. These dry with a dull surface. Oil paint or enamel will give a gloss finish.

There are special paints made for cement which require no preparation of the wall surface.

A.—Assemble the sheets on the roof and use the type of seam which will give the desired appearance, will be suitable to the incline of the roof, and will be so placed as to expand properly in relation to the size of the entire roof area. Consult a good roofer as to these details.

Except on roofs having a pitch of three inches to the foot or less, the use of soldering or welding is minimized and confined largely to ridge and hips, where the fitting of members cannot be done with a standard type of seam. The purpose is to allow adequate room for expansion and contraction under changes of temperature. This is one of the most important considerations in the design of successful metal roofings.

Inasmuch as electrolysis may develop between two unlike metals, nails, cleats and other accessories should be of the same material as the main roof units.

Q.—Can I procure washable wallpaper for use in my bathroom?

A.—Washable papers are available and the process does not change the appearance of the paper.

Wallpapers made in this way are washable because the adhesive which binds the colors together to the paper is not dissolved or softened by water or other common cleansing agents. No coating of any sort is necessary over the printed design.

Washing or cleaning is quickly accomplished without harm to texture or color.

Prudential Branch Manager Holds Optimistic View On Conditions

Mr. Ervin Jackson, manager of the Birmingham branch, mortgage loan department of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, whose office supervises city real estate loans and properties over five southern states, holds an optimistic viewpoint with respect to real estate values.

Mr. Jackson states that during the first six months of this year the sale of real estate under the supervision of his office increased 60 per cent as compared with sales for the corresponding period of 1934. He also cited a number of instances in which properties which had been held at considerably lower prices were recently sold at substantially increased figures.

A very interesting feature in the sale of real estate today, as explained by Mr. Jackson, is the trend to modernization. Just as the railroads have installed air conditioned coaches and streamlined trains and just as other businesses have modernized to meet changing conditions, so has Mr. Jackson's company discarded obsolete practices in the selling of its properties. Before a property is offered for sale, it is completely reconditioned. Coupled with this, as Mr. Jackson further explained, is the modernized payment plan which offers a series of moderate payments over a long term, thus relieving purchasers of the worry of refinancing.

As further reason for the increase in real estate values, Mr. Jackson cited an analysis made by Arnott, Baker & Company, Inc., of two hundred representative real estate bond issues. This analysis was published in a recent issue of "Building" and "Building Management" and showed that during the month of May, the average increase in value of these two hundred issues was 4.2 per cent. This increase contributed to a total advance of 17.2 per cent since January 1935 and indicated very clearly that the earning capacity of the property secured by these bond issues had materially increased.

Mr. Jackson states that his company had maintained faith in real estate throughout the period of economic distress and is today actively in the market for desirable loans on farm and city properties.

SIMPLE FORMULA SHOWS HOW TO MAKE WHITEWASH

Perhaps the most extensive use of lime around the home is for making whitewash. Whitewash is an inexpensive, yet durable and protective covering that cleanses, disinfects, preserves, and adds greatly to the general attractiveness of outhouses, fences, barns and trees. It is easily prepared, economical, and when properly applied gives very satisfactory results.

In a ten-quart bucket, three-fourths filled with water, dissolve two pounds of common salt. When the salt is dissolved add slowly ten pounds of Polar Bear domestic hydrate, with constant stirring. Allow the mixture to stand several days before using. When ready to use add water to the mixture until proper brush consistency is obtained and apply with ordinary whitewash brush, or spray pump. When using a pump whitewash should be strained through a cheesecloth to prevent clogging of the nozzle.

This batch should cover, on brick walls about 700 square feet; on wooden surface about 900 square feet; and on plaster partitions about 1,100 square feet.

Alum added to whitewash prevents it rubbing off. An ounce to the gallon is sufficient.

Molasses renders the lime more soluble and causes it to penetrate the wood, or plaster surface. A pint of molasses to 5 gallons of whitewash is sufficient.

A pound of cheap bar soap, dissolved in one gallon of boiling water and added to 5 gallons of thick whitewash will give it a gloss like oil paint.

WAY OF MEASURING PLASTER SURFACES

Plastering on plain surfaces, as on walls and ceilings, is always measured by the square yard, where it be 1, 2 or 3-coat work.

In regard to deducting for openings, customs vary in different parts of the country and with different contractors, and some allow one-half the area of openings for ordinary doors and windows, while others make no allowance for openings of less than seven square yards.

Soffits of stairs, closets, strips less than 12 inches wide, and other more difficult sections are generally figured at a higher rate.

The home builder should know which method is being used in checking cost estimates.

COLOR SCHEME

Light gray-blue walls make an interesting background for copper and white modern furnishings.

For the curtains, a thin net with a light rust or yellow cast will add warmth to the cool blue grays.

Accents in paintings, flower pots, the interior of book cases, etc., may range through the tones of blue greens and rusts or yellows may be added.

Housing Question Box

Q. What can I do to protect my wallpaper from dirt and the marks of children's hands?

A.—If you refer to old wallpaper already in place, if it is not hopelessly soiled, it can be saved with one of the recognized wallpaper cleaners. After cleaning coat the wallpaper with kanaba wax, which not only protects the surface from grease and dirt but results in a washable surface of considerable endurance. Of course, if you contemplate repapering, the new washable, colorfast wallpapers, available in children's as well as adult designs, will solve your problem. Manufacturers advise that there is no extra charge for the washability feature. Wallpaper may be bought and hung with funds obtained under the modernization credit plan.

Q.—The concrete floor in my basement is wearing badly in spots and causes a white dust to be tracked through the house. What can I do to correct this?

A.—There are numerous concrete-hardening compounds on the market which are easily applied and which can be secured from all or most any paint store. One or two coats should overcome this trouble. There are also many good concrete paints which would protect the surface of the concrete and stop the wear.

Q.—What procedure would you suggest for installing running water and modern plumbing in a summer cottage?

A.—Naturally the method and equipment will vary, depending upon whether running water is available or if a well will have to be dug and the water pumped: on whether there is a sewer line with which your line may be connected or if a septic tank must be provided. The system required will also vary in accordance with the number and type of fixtures which you select. The best plan is to consult an architect or a reliable and experienced plumbing contractor. They will be in a position to advise you concerning the best and most inexpensive type of installation. The entire work, labor as well as materials, may be financed by banks advancing funds under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

A.—It usually is not considered necessary to run the footings of a dry stone wall below the frost line. This is due to the fact that in a dry stone wall the stone is laid up without mortor and the separate pieces of stone can move slightly, adjusting the selves to the frost action.

The face of such a wall should be sloped back at least one-half a foot for every foot of height and an occasional large stone allowed to extend back into the bank to keep the wall from bing pushed out of line during the winter.

Q.—I wish to play tennis at night. How can I light my tennis court?

A.—Many methods of lighting have been tried, but the one that has proved most satisfactory is the placing of powerful flood lights at the four corners of the court and on either side of the net. The standards must be high enough so that the angle of light will not annoy the players.

Q.—What kind of paint shall I use for a concrete wall?

A.—All cement and concrete contain free lime, which will be destructive to oil paint. The paint will harden but in time will stain, soften, peel and fall off. It is always wise to let the surface age at least six months before painting. The lime may be removed, however, using zinc sulphate crystals in ratio of two pounds to one gallon of water. When using oil paints the priming coat should be thinned with one-quarter as much spar varnish.

Cold water paints can also be used. These dry with a dull surface. Oil paint or enamel will give a gloss finish.

There are special paints made for cement which require no preparation of the wall surface.

A.—Assemble the sheets on the roof and use the type of seam which will give the desired appearance, will be suitable to the incline of the roof, and will be so placed as to expand properly in relation to the size of the entire roof area. Consult a good roofer as to these details.

Except on roofs having a pitch of three inches to the foot or less, the use of soldering or welding is minimized and confined largely to ridge and hips, where the fitting of members cannot be done with a standard type of seam. The purpose is to allow adequate room for expansion and contraction under changes of temperature. This is one of the most important considerations in the design of successful metal roofings.

Inasmuch as electrolysis may develop between two unlike metals, nails, cleats and other accessories should be of the same material as the main roof units.

Q.—Can I procure washable wallpaper for use in my bathroom?

A.—Washable papers are available and the process does not change the appearance of the paper.

Wallpapers made in this way are washable because the adhesive which binds the colors together to the paper is not dissolved or softened by water or other common cleansing agents. No coating of any sort is necessary over the printed design.

Washing or cleaning is quickly accomplished without harm to texture or color.

SIMPLE FORMULA SHOWS HOW TO MAKE WHITEWASH

Perhaps the most extensive use of lime around the home is for making whitewash. Whitewash is an inexpensive, yet durable and protective covering that cleanses, disinfects, preserves, and adds greatly to the general attractiveness of outhouses, fences, barns and trees. It is easily prepared, economical, and when properly applied gives very satisfactory results.

In a ten-quart bucket, three-fourths filled with water, dissolve two pounds of common salt. When the salt is dissolved add slowly ten pounds of Polar Bear domestic hydrate, with constant stirring. Allow the mixture to stand several days before using. When ready to use add water to the mixture until proper brush consistency is obtained and apply with ordinary whitewash brush, or spray pump. When using a pump whitewash should be strained through a cheesecloth to prevent clogging of the nozzle.

This batch should cover, on brick walls about 700 square feet; on wooden surface about 900 square feet; and on plaster partitions about 1,100 square feet.

Alum added to whitewash prevents it rubbing off. An ounce to the gallon is sufficient.

Molasses renders the lime more soluble and causes it to penetrate the wood, or plaster surface. A pint of molasses to 5 gallons of whitewash is sufficient.

A pound of cheap bar soap, dissolved in one gallon of boiling water and added to 5 gallons of thick whitewash will give it a gloss like oil paint.

WAY OF MEASURING PLASTER SURFACES

Plastering on plain surfaces, as on walls and ceilings, is always measured by the square yard, where it be 1, 2 or 3-coat work.

In regard to deducting for openings, customs vary in different parts of the country and with different contractors, and some allow one-half the area of openings for ordinary doors and windows, while others make no allowance for openings of less than seven square yards.

Soffits of stairs, closets, strips less than 12 inches wide, and other more difficult sections are generally figured at a higher rate.

The home builder should know which method is being used in checking cost estimates.

COLOR SCHEME

Light gray-blue walls make an interesting background for copper and white modern furnishings.

For the curtains, a thin net with a light rust or yellow cast will add warmth to the cool blue grays.

Accents in paintings, flower pots, the interior of book cases, etc., may range through the tones of blue greens and rusts or yellows may be added.

HOUSING GROUPS SUPPORT PLANS TO STOP FIRES

National Prevention Campaign To Be Observed October 6-12 Next

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A flood of inquiries and orders for literature has come into the headquarters of the federal housing administration here within a week following announcement by Administrator Stewart McDonald that it would actively participate in the observation of National Fire Prevention Week, October 6-12.

Orders for a four-page leaflet outlining the relation of the federal housing administration's program to fire prevention have already, within seven days' time, jumped to 1,980,000 from such divergent sources as public officials, fire chiefs, safety organizations, utility companies, schools, park commissioners, state fairs, financial institutions, sheriffs, commissioners of public works, fire-insurance companies, industrial associations, manufacturers and chambers of commerce.

Educate Public

The housing administration is heartily cooperating in the celebration of Fire Prevention Week in order to educate the public in the relation of repair and improvements and better building standards to the reduction of fire hazards. The leaflet explains the operation of both the modernization credit plan the mutual mortgage insurance plan.

Further indication of interest in the program is shown in the reaction of the nation's press. Within a week after the housing administration offered a portfolio mat service to newspapers to tie-in with Fire Prevention Week sections, 128 newspapers wrote in to Washington requesting this service. These orders were received even prior to receipt of proof sheets by the newspaprs.

Combining efforts to educate the general public in the advantages offered to home owners by the national housing act with a general support to the fire-prevention program, the nation-wide organization of the federal housing administration is engaged in helping to organize celebrations of National Fire Prevention Week.

A report from Associate Director Muller of Maryland is typical of activity being generated in every state in the Union. Mr. Muller has obtained the full cooperation of the Baltimore fire department, and the chief of the fire department there has agreed to make radio talks during fire prevention week on the elimination of fire hazards. Firemen in Baltimore will also assist in the distribution of literature pertaining to fire-hazard reduction. Field representatives throughout the whole state of Maryland have been instructed to obtain similar cooperation wherever possible.

Schools Aid

From Kansas City, Mo., comes the report that literature explaining the relation of the federal housing administration's program to fire-hazard reduction will be distributed in public schools, so that pupils may carry the message into their homes.

Cooperation has been given the housing administration by many industrial agencies, radio stations, chambers of commerce and fire-prevention organizations.

The National Fire Waste Council, the National Fire Protection Association, the International Association of Electrical Inspectors, the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, the Anthracite Institute, the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, and many manufacturers have written to the housing administration commending its activity in the cause of fire-hazard reduction.

New Wardrobe Effective In Modern Home

When adding a new wardrobe carefully plan it to accommodate all clothing and accessories without crowding.

Clothes need plenty of air. Long, shallow closets properly ventilated are more efficient and convenient than deep closets. Twenty inches is a minimum depth.

To keep clothing from being crowded, place small wooden spacers on the pole between each hanger.

For articles which must be laid flat use shallow drawers. A deep drawer is not convenient, for the articles must lie on top of one another, crushing and mussing those below.

Shoes set up from the floor on a shelf will not get as dusty as if they were placed on the floor. The closet floor is also much easier to clean.

A long, shallow hatshelf, preferably enclosed, and provided with hat bands, will keep hats properly.

NEW FURNACES

Among the new furnaces, gas furnaces both for residential and commercial use have been offered. There are 10 sizes in the former type ranging from 320 to 1,760 square feet of steam radiation.

This type of furnace may be applied to steam, vapor, or hot-water systems, and by using a standard air conditioner, may be applied to warm air systems.

During the next month new furnaces should be installed and homes completely prepared for winter use. If gas is to be used in the new house, the new types of gas furnaces should be investigated.

Last Word in Kitchens

Above is illustrated a modern kitchen with which the housewife may compare her own equipment. Included in this interior is virtually every detail that modern kitchen planning has developed to date. Compactness is the keynote with the range, utility shelves, sink, and other appurtenances occupying a minimum of space. A modern feature is the built-in tray rack noted to the right of the range. Built-in cupboards, flour cabinet, dish shelves also suggest the efficiency of this kitchen's plan. A colorful floor that is easily cleaned and a few pieces of modern metal furniture add another modern touch. Kitchen improvements are possible under terms of the Federal Housing Administration's modernization credit plan.

Home Construction Notes

After all excavating has been completed, concrete footings are poured. Previous to this, if any pipes are to pass under the footings, they should be placed.

Unless the earth is very firm and a sharp, straight line is formed, it is best to use forms. The base should be level and uniform. If any soft spots are encountered the width of the footings should be increased or reinforcing rods used, or both. Over all areas where pipes pass under the footing, similar construction should be used.

A good quality of concrete should be used. Footings of any unit-type masonry are not satisfactory unless the earth is very solid. The quality of the concrete will depend on

(1) the water cement ratio;
(2) the hardness and cleanness of the aggregate;
(3) the thoroughness of the mixture; and
(4) the care used in placing it.

For footings a 1:3:5 mix is usually satisfactory and as little water used as is necessary to make a workable mix.

Reinforcing bars should be of steel, carefully figured to carry the required loads, and spaced uniformly. They must be supported so that they will not sag and get too close to the outside of the concrete. They must not be placed so close together that the concrete cannot completely surround each unit.

Footings under walls should never be less than 8 inches deep and at least 8 inches wider than the walls they support. Under columns, they should be carefully figured for the concentrated loads they are to bear and in no case should be less than 12 inches deep and 24 by 24 inches in the other dimensions. For chimneys, 12 inches deep and at least 12 inches greater in all horizontal dimensions should be used. For columns or posts a pedestal should extend at least 1 inch above the finished cellar floor to protect the bottom of the column from moisture with its consequent rotting.

Under the walls, a raised keel should be placed and a waterproofing material passed over the footing before the wall is poured and a generous cap provided.

LUMBER SALES ARE UP IN INDIANA CAPITAL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—A wholesale lumber company here reports that its sales volume to retail lumber yards throughout the state for the first six months of 1935 equaled 75 per cent of last year's total volume.

"We have the best of the sale season still ahead of us," said a communication to a local federal housing office. "We attribute this increase solely to the federal housing administration mainly through repair and remodeling work as sponsored by your organization. We trust that this information will give you encouragement to keep up the good work that you have started."

BAY WINDOW IN LIVING ROOM

A bay window added on the sunniest side of the living room will increase the glass area and greatly aid in brightening a dark room.

A window seat with cushions in light colors will make this room more enjoyable.

Relationship Between House, Planting Given

There is a definite relationship between the design and materials of a house and the type of planting utilized for the base planting. This fact is often overlooked, and a house which might be pleasing in proper surroundings may appear to be awkward and ill-fitted to its site.

Of course, the house should be planned in the beginning to fit a particular site and appear to set comfortably on its land. It should be related to the natural contours of the property. Assuming that it has been properly located, the most important aspect of the landscaping problem lies in the choice of appropriate planting about the base of the house. The height, texture, and density of this planting must be designed as an integral part of the complete picture of the structure. If the shrubbery is too thick and forms a continuous mass around the foundation, the building itself will lose its relationship to the ground. Sufficient open space should be left in order that the house can be seen to rest on the earth and not on a "shrub pillow."

The formality or informality of the house will determine the type of planting. A rambling, informal cottage should not be surrounded with stiff, formal shrubs. Informal groups of light-textured plants, low enough not to dwarf the mass of the house and varied in pattern, can be arranged to enhance the attractive simplicity of this type of house.

After the appropriate shrubbery has been planted, it must be properly controlled. Often if it is not pruned or thinned out yearly, it loses all the advantages of the original scheme.

The color and texture of the exterior finish and the amount and delicacy of the ornament of a house must be related to the planting. The shrubbery at the foundation should never compete with the importance of the house itself, but should maintain a properly studied relationship.

Many otherwise well-designed houses cannot be fully appreciated because they are not appropriately landscaped.

OUTLET COVERS

Children occasionally receive burns by pushing hair pins and other articles into electrical convenience outlets.

Outlets with spring-flop or screw-type covers are available and are a valuable protection.

An 'Office' Designed For Housewives

A convenient and attractive work center may be added to the kitchen, and the housewife will find it easier to organize her household if all the recipes, bills, statements, account books, etc., are properly filed there.

A desk can be built in at some point where it will receive adequate light and air. A small filing cabinet can either be purchased separately and attached to the desk or drawers and pigeonholes made of the same material as the desk.

A bookshelf for cook books or other books which the housewife may be reading while she is watching something cook can be placed in the lower part of the desk or hung against the wall above it. A pencil sharpener can be attached to a convenient shelf, and the 'phone and 'phone books suitably located. A clock on the desk or an attractive kitchen wall clock can harmonize with the colors chosen for the desk.

A bench or chair should be designed to match the desk.

Cool colors are preferable for both walls and cabinets in the kitchen, but the furniture may be painted in bright contrasting tones. Warm yellows are often used for kitchen accessories.

THERMOSTAT

A thermostat or automatic heat regulator can be applied to any type of heating system and will give even temperatures throughout the house during the heating hours.

If it is set for 70 degrees, it will operate when the temperature of the air at the thermostat reaches that point. When the temperature drops to 68 degrees, the thermostat will operate and the temperature will thus be held between 68 and 70 degrees.

A clock attached to the thermostat can be so arranged as to turn on the drafts early in the morning. The clock can also turn down the thermostat for the night.

STORAGE CLOSET

A fire-proof, well-ventilated, cleaning-equipment storage closet should be added in the kitchen and in the second floor of the house.

Oil mops, waxed polishing cloths, etc., are fire hazards and should be properly stored.

THREE-WAY SWITCHES SAVES MANY MOMENTS

Switches at the house and the garage can be installed to control garage lights from either point.

These switches are particularly appropriate if the garage is at some distance from the house. Then it is also a good idea to install low lights along the walk to the garage which can be turned on at the same time as the main light.

Many otherwise well-designed houses cannot be fully appreciated because they are not appropriately landscaped.

OUTLET COVERS

Children occasionally receive burns by pushing hair pins and other articles into electrical convenience outlets.

Oulets with spring-flop or screw-type covers are available and are a valuable protection.

An 'Office' Designed For Housewives

A convenient and attractive work center may be added to the kitchen, and the housewife will find it easier to organize her household if all the recipes, bills, statements, account books, etc., are properly filed there.

A desk can be built in at some point where it will receive adequate light and air. A small filing cabinet can either be purchased separately and attached to the desk or drawers and pigeonholes made of the same material as the desk.

A bookshelf for cook books or other books which the housewife may be reading while she is watching something cook can be placed in the lower part of the desk or hung against the wall above it. A pencil sharpener can be attached to a convenient shelf, and the 'phone and 'phone books suitably located. A clock on the desk or an attractive kitchen wall clock can harmonize with the colors chosen for the desk.

A bench or chair should be designed to match the desk.

Cool colors are preferable for both walls and cabinets in the kitchen, but the furniture may be painted in bright contrasting tones. Warm yellows are often used for kitchen accessories.

THERMOSTAT

A thermostat or automatic heat regulator can be applied to any type of heating system and will give even temperatures throughout the house during the heating hours.

If it is set for 70 degrees, it will operate when the temperature of the air at the thermostat reaches that point. When the temperature drops to 68 degrees, the thermostat will operate and the temperature will thus be held between 68 and 70 degrees.

A clock attached to the thermostat can be so arranged as to turn on the drafts early in the morning. The clock can also turn down the thermostat for the night.

STORAGE CLOSET

A fire-proof, well-ventilated, cleaning-equipment storage closet should be added in the kitchen and in the second floor of the house.

Oil mops, waxed polishing cloths, etc., are fire hazards and should be properly stored.

THREE-WAY SWITCHES SAVES MANY MOMENTS

Switches at the house and the garage can be installed to control garage lights from either point.

These switches are particularly appropriate if the garage is at some distance from the house. Then it is also a good idea to install low lights along the walk to the garage which can be turned on at the same time as the main light.

Claudette Colbert Scores Again In 'She Married Her Boss'

New Film Rivals Big Successes

Excellent Cast Supports Glamorous Star At Paramount Theater

EVERYONE has been waiting to see the inimitable Claudette Colbert do another picture of the same type as "It Happened One Night," which not only won for her the official tag of "the best actress of 1934" but also brought high honors to the director, the scenarist, the co-star and the producer.

Since making that immortal film, Miss Colbert has not been with Columbia, the company that produced it. But recently she returned to that studio to star in another light comedy, "She Married Her Boss," which yesterday began a three-day engagement at the Paramount theater.

True, Miss Colbert has appeared in dramatic successes in the interim, "Imitation of Life" and "Private Worlds," but she enjoys comedy a great deal and so enables her audiences to enjoy it with her. Gregory LaCava, who directed Miss Colbert in "Private Worlds," her last big success, worked with her again on "She Married Her Boss."

The theme of her new picture easily lends itself to buoyancy and charm. Miss Colbert is seen as a painfully efficient private secretary to a young man with bad digestion and a memory of a recent marital experience that turned sour. Melvyn Douglas is the bitter boss. But while Miss Colbert sympathizes with his dyspepsia she is rather impatient with his views on marriage, for she finds herself in love with him.

The home of the boss, who is the active owner of a large metropolitan department store, is in a sad state of affairs. A neurotic sister and a spoiled, precocious nine-year-old daughter do everything in their power to make his life miserable. The household itself is thoroughly demoralized.

Then again, he suspects that his secretary, whom he just can't do without, has been receiving generous overtures from other firms. So he decides it would be a good idea to marry her.

But the secretary has no intention of being majordomo both at home and at the office, and gives up business for domesticity, must to the boss' chagrin. In time, of course, the secretary divines his real reason for marrying her, and then the fur begins to fly.

Also in the film are Jean Dixon, Raymond Walburn, Katherine Alexander and Edith Fellows, new child actress.

The Blue Coat hospital of Liverpool was established in 1708 for orphans and fatherless children born within the borough.

Logwood, a dyestuff for fabrics made from fibers of vegetable origin, has been cultivated in Jamaica since 1715.

Spencer Tracy, Claire Trevor (above), Henry B. Walthall and Alan Dinehart, head a cast of thousands in the super-production "Dante's Inferno," the attraction at the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Here is a modern drama of conflicting human emotions, and pictured above shows a modern sinner's terrified view of a flaming purgatory and its millions of tortured sinners.

Claudette Colbert cuts capers as the charming bride on a kissless honeymoon in the comedy romance "She Married Her Boss," the attraction at the Paramount theater today and Monday. It is being joyfully hailed from coast to coast as the surprise comedy successor to "It Happened One Night." Melvyn Douglas, Michael Bartlett, the singing sensation of "Love Me Forever," Raymond Walburn, Jean Dixon, Katherine Alexander and Clara Kimball Young are in the supporting cast.

Virginia Weidler, who made such a hit in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Laddie," again brings her ingratiating smile to the screen as Laurie Lou in Gene Stratton-Porter's greatest story, "Freckles," the attraction coming to the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday. Tom Brown and Carol Stone take the romantic lead in the picture.

There are mighty few men, women and children who haven't read Owen Wister's great story, "The Virginian," and who hasn't thrilled to that famous "When you say that—smile"? As a talking picture it ranks as a truly great outdoor western, a superb picture packed with action and suspense, with as fine a cast as you'd want to see in any picture. Gary Cooper and Mary Brian are pictured above, with Walter Huston, Richard Arlen, Chester Conklin and Eugene Pallette handling other important roles.

The big show has welcomed the two men shown in this unusual picture. Atop the extremely large palm of the sky-scraper man is the smallest man on earth. The giant, Jack Earle, the world's tallest man, is a native Texan. Jack is especially fond of his tiny midget friend, Major Mite.

Both are members of the great congress of strange people in the side show of the huge amusement organization this season, which will exhibit in Monroe on Wednesday, October 9.

The motto of one of the characters in "Vagabond Lady" is "dignity always" but there is very little dignity in the uproarious situations of the new Hal Roach M-G-M feature length comedy to be seen on the screen of the Capitol theater Wednesday with Robert Young and Evelyn Venable in the leading roles. The story revolves about the madcap love affair of a young millionaire with a janitor's daughter and the picture is rated as being very, very funny.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Hubbard Keavy

HOLLYWOOD—Before he had attained any considerable success in the movies, Thomas Meighan told a friend that when a man had saved enough money, he ought to retire and live.

But even though Meighan, whose recent serious illness in New York alarmed his friends, did quit several years ago he found that inactivity was boring and that loafing wasn't nearly so much fun as he had anticipated.

On one of his periodic visits to Hollywood—he came out of "retirement" nearly every year to make a picture—Meighan told about the difficulties of keeping occupied while doing nothing.

Role In 'Miracle Man'

"Golf is about my only interest, but if you play golf every day you get stale," he complained. "So I can't play golf every day. Few men of my age (he is somewhat past 50 now) are retired, so I really haven't many playmates unless I pick up with much older men, whose conversation is the stock market. I can afford to travel, but even that gets tiresome. That's why I come back to Hollywood every once in awhile to work."

Meighan made his screen debut, after a long career on the stage, 20 or more years ago, but it wasn't until 1919 that he became a star. He bought the rights to a story called "The Miracle Man" and tried to convince every studio in town that it was great screen material. None agreed with Meighan. Finally, after many months, Meighan sold the late George Loane Tucker on the story. Tucker asked Meighan what his commission would be.

"The role of Tim Burke," he replied. "I knew that part would be the making of me," Meighan recalled later, "and it was. My faith in the story was more than justified." In that same picture were two other comparatively unknown players—Betty Compson and Lon Chaney. Meighan, Compson and Chaney all became stars soon after.

Married Frances Ring

Innumerable successes followed "The Miracle Man," including "Male and Female," "The Bachelor Daddy," "Manslaughter," "Old Home Week," "Tin Gods," "We're All Gamblers" and "The Man Who Found Himself." Meighan left his golf in 1929 long enough to make "The Racket." A year later, he was starred in "The Argyle Case," and the following year he was in "Young Sinners" and "Skyline." Last year, he again came to Hollywood to co-star with young Jackie Cooper in "Peck's Bad Boy."

While he was an active star, appearing in several pictures yearly, Meighan's salary was many thousands a week. He owns extensive estates in Great Neck, Long Island, and in East Port Richie, Fla. Mrs. Meighan is the former Frances Ring, who was Tom's leading lady in "Broadway Jones," a play which ran a year in New York and a year in London.

HOLLYWOOD—Most of this town's 900-odd writers have taken to their chuck holes to beat their heads against the walls for ideas for the next cycle. Motion pictures run in cycles, or shoals, especially during the post-thinking season.

The last cycle, or "G-man shoal," has been declared unconstitutional by Hollywood and trite by the fed-up public. Local smart money likes the Ethiopian crisis as something new to hang the old boy-gets-girl on.

Stepin Fetchit Roles

There is a very strong possibility, thinks Scenarist Joel Sayre, that theme songs like "Mussolini . . . old meany . . . got sassy . . . Haile Selassie . . ." will pop up anytime. He also has an idea that Stepin Fetchit (if he recovers from his fit of temperament and returns from his enforced vacation) will be playing roles now filled by Gable and Cooper. And that, heaven help us, there will be jokes like these from the comics: "Ethiopia eyes or get glasses." "Well, Abyssinia!" . . . Side-splitters based on Walwal, the village where hostilities first broke out. . . . "Muscle-inni" . . . and so forth and so on into the eighth reel.

Seriously, at least, there is yet no indication in submitted stories or ideas that the Italian-Ethiopian situation will be the subject of motion picture fare this fall. Wars do not inspire great pictures at the moment. The best war films were made years after the great conflict ended.

And so were the G-men off the front pages when Hollywood got around to dramatizing them and most of the gangsters were on the run when Robinson and Cagney began acting like underworld characters are supposed to act.

Four Stars Featured In 'Virginian'

Cooper, Huston, Arlen And Brian Head Big Cast At Capitol

FOUR of filmdom's most prominent actors are starred and featured in one of the greatest outdoor-spectacle classics—"The Virginian," coming to the Capitol theater, today. They are Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian.

Each has had phenomenal success in the years since the picture was produced, but their performances in "The Virginian," the first all-talking outdoor romance, made these stars the favorites they are.

Walter Huston Featured

Gary Cooper, who recently appeared in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," plays the role of "The Virginian." Walter Huston, veteran of the stage and screen, is seen as "Trampas," the ring-leader of the cattle rustlers in the play. Richard Arlen is "Steve" and Miss Brian is cast as "Molly Wood," the school teacher with whom The Virginian falls in love.

"The Virginian," a novel by Owen Wister, was first published in the 80's, and was acclaimed at that time as the great American novel. Many leaders in American literary circles maintain that it is still the greatest American novel ever written. It was rewritten for the stage by Wister and Kirk LaShelle and, as a play, it earned widespread renown, bringing immortal fame to a number of actors who played its title role in packed houses all over the country.

First Released in '29

In 1929, Paramount Pictures brought "The Virginian" to the public in a new and more engaging medium—a medium that gave this romantic theme a fuller scope and a much more realistic treatment. The picture has been revived and its repeated successes in theaters all over the country have proven that it is still the great American classic.

National Furniture Week Focuses Eyes On Better Homes

PERIOD STYLES DOMINANT NOTE IN FASHION SHOW

Reproductions Of Old Masters Are Outstanding Exhibition Designs

Influences of the historical periods as related to home furnishings—in furniture, floor coverings, draperies, lamps and accessories—are the outstanding features of the style trends.

Style in the home furnishings has become as important to the American family as the clothes they wear. The home is a guage by which one's friends and acquaintances measure the character and personality of those who live in it.

Instructive Displays

Not alone style in the furnishings of the home but the correct method of arranging the furniture in the various rooms, use of accessories to add cheerfulness and life and the manner in which a decorative color schemes may be worked out in rugs, draperies and upholstery fabrics will be demonstrated.

Model room displays in which visitors to the style show may visualize how the furnishings would look in their own homes have been arranged in the various stores. Dealers and their employes have spent several weeks in making arrangements for this second style event and everything will be in readiness for the public's inspection.

'All Questions Answered'

The new merchandise was recently shipped to Monroe and the store salesmen have studied the new styles since their arrival. Dealers here realize the importance of an "open house" to those upon whom the furnishing problem is placed and the store personnel will be on hand to answer any and all questions.

Practically every woman has some individual problem in the furnishing of her home and the style show offers an opportunity to have it solved. Such advice will be given free and without obligation on the parties inquiring.

Of course the 18th century English furniture—reproductions of the designs of the "golden age"—will always be in demand and will always be well represented at the furniture shows. Reproductions and adaptations of the Sheraton, Hepplewhite, Chippendale and Adam designs were shown at the recent markets and will be widely displayed in the furniture shops and department stores throughout the country during the four-day style show.

Initial Style Showing

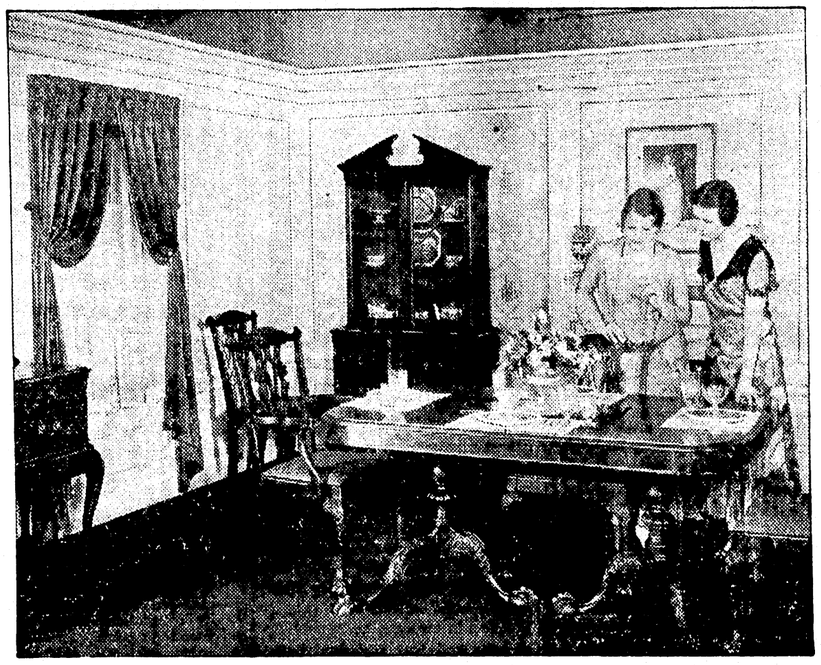

The home furnishings which will be displayed to the public for the first time during the fashion exposition was selected by the dealers at the summer markets held at the various manufacturing centers in the country.

Among the woods, oak promises to be one of the leaders the coming season. Walnut and mahogany are still popular and hold a prominent position among the variety of woods used in furniture. Maple has been obliged to share its popularity with pine, cherry, chestnut and birch. A number of rare woods are being employed in veneer and inlay.

For Small Homes

Perhaps in response to the tendency for smaller homes and apartments some pieces are being made smaller. This tendency is noticed particularly in living room and dining room furniture. The love seat takes the place of the sofa in the small living room and dining room suites are made proportionately for the smaller homes.

18TH CENTURY FURNITURE ADDS CHARM

It was back in the 18th century that Chippendale, one of the most famed of the great English furniture craftsmen, first designed dining room suites like the one above . . . but adaptations and reproductions of the Chippendale originals still hold a high position in the decorative schemes of today. Formal—without being stiff, decorative—without being gaudy . . . the Chippendale suite provides an adequate answer to the problem of what to do with the dining room.

HISTORIC TREND IN SPODE WARE

Products, Carried Down Through Centuries, Maintain Interest

Many people who are not connoisseurs of the fine old Spode products are necessarily interested in knowing why an old factory's product, such as Spode, has carried down through the centuries and still maintains a high position in the minds of the dealers in fine ware and the consumer who appreciates and can afford the better things of life.

Of first importance is the quality of the ware—both earthenware and china—which is finer today than ever before in the history of the factory. This is brought about by the fact that the factory has always been in the hands of a family who appreciate fine things, and will have only fine things and, as a consequence, will manufacture only the finest.

To accomplish this requires intense care in the selection of materials. Only the highest quality is purchased and no analyst's assay is sufficient.

Trials must be made, through the ovens, to prove the standard of the new material. When this is found to be satisfactory, from five to ten years' supply is purchased and allowed to weather and mature. As a result, when the old batches of clay which are on the banks weathering are used up, they start on the new, which has had years to mature. Therefore, this method eliminates, to a very large extent, the possibility of encountering difficulties as sometimes arise when using new material.

By careful observation, you will see in the various models—both in earthenware and china—that they are perfectly done and are true to the style from which they are taken, no matter how many difficulties this procedure may offer.

In the making of Chelsea shapes and old English Silver shapes, where irregular edges enter into the model, to eliminate any possibility of roughness on these fancy edges every notch or scallop is gone over with a fettle, which is a small hand-tool made of brass.

Another reason for the hard-wearing qualities of Spode earthenware is its heavy, hard glaze which any good potter knows is a difficult accomplishment on an earthen body without resulting in crazing. Spode has long been famed for this rich glaze.

People of fine taste who get the spirit of Spode recognize its artistic style. They look to Spode for these quaint old world styles. These come under the category, today, of the 18th century, and tie up with the fine artistic period of the Georges of England. During this period the finest of silver models were purchased by the London silversmiths and the finest furniture the world has known was made by such men as Chippendale, Shreaton and Hepplewhite.

This same period also produced Brothers Adam, famed for their fine interior work in the mansions of London, Dublin and throughout the British Isles.

It was from this great period that the early Spode artists produced their work, and it is the designs of these great men which have left such a priceless heritage to the present owners of the Spode works.

TAKE PEEP AT YOUR HOUSE AS IT LOOKS TO VISITOR

How did your house look when you first stepped into it after your vacation? Did the draperies seem faded, the furniture shabby? Did big, bare spaces loom before you?

After you have been away a few weeks you look at your house with fresh eyes—the eyes with which every outsider regards your possessions. Before you again become accustomed to the deficiencies, note them down. And, if possible, it is recommended to do something about them, now, before the rise of furniture prices.

PILOT LIGHT SAVES CASH

A switch at the head of your basement stairs with a tell-tale pilot light attached will remind you if you've forgotten to turn off the cellar lights. It deprives the most careless members of the family of their last excuse for not turning off the lights.

ARRANGEMENT KEY TO ROOM'S LOOKS

Furniture Placement Can 'Make' Charm In Any Household Today

To many women the arrangement of their furniture and accessories looms as their most persistent and baffling decorating problem. Perhaps they have learned to handle color masterfully, they have developed unfailing sensitiveness to beauty of line and a feeling for harmony of texture and line; they possibly have come to consider without conscious thought, comfort and fitness to function when they are buying new furniture. But as soon as they bring the new piece home or move into a different house there is the arrangement question staring them in the face again.

The first step in solving the problem is to consider what groupings of furniture are required in the living room, for example, by the particular family. There always should be a conversation group two or more chairs, a lamp, a small table or two) usually a reading group (chair, small table, lamp, near book shelves), and a writing group (desk or larger table, chair, lamp). Other groupings might take into consideration the desires of members of the family to play the piano or listen to the radio, to sew or to study. The groups should themselves be related to a larger center of interest, much as a fireplace or a bay window.

Room Balance Important

Within the separate group and also in the room as a whole, good decoration demands the application of the principles of balance. Balance may be either bi-symetrical or occult; in less technical terms, formal or informal. Formal balance is achieved when one or more objects, absolutely identical, are placed on the two sides of a center. The human body with two legs, two arms, two ears, two eyes exemplifies this type of balance. Informal balance is attained by arranging unlike objects with reference to center, so that the effect upon the eye is balanced weight. It involves the application of a mechanical formula similar to that which applies on a see-saw. When two persons of unequal weight are opposite each other on a teeter-totter, the lighter of the two must sit farther from the center, nearer the end of the plank than the heavier. The rule applied to home decoration means that an object will weigh more as a part of the grouping, if it is placed farther from the center.

The average living room should avoid many arrangements in formal balance, since by their evident mathematical precision they give the room too tense and formal a feeling. A sense of informal balance, however, should be apparent in all other groupings.

Bright Colors Enlarge

Bright colors, large patterns, and rough textures make an object seem larger to the eye than it really is when it is placed in conjunction with similar objects possessing less conspicuous surfaces. Their weight to the eye, not their actual weight, is the thing to consider when arranging objects in a room.

Vertical lines in a room suggest strength and support; horizontal ones quiet and restfulness. Furniture should be arranged in a room to emphasize in just the right degree these qualities. Diagonal lines suggest movement—action—a state of unrest. This is the reason it is regarded bad taste to place furniture and rugs at diagonals. Such an arrangement by disturbing the feeling of repose in a room, mars its beauty.

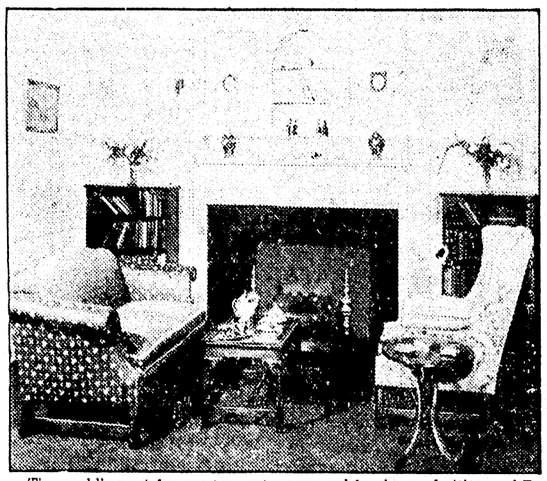

LIVING ROOM DESIGNED PRIMARILY FOR FAMILY

The living room is primarily a room for the entire family and should be furnished as such. Every member of the family is entitled to his or her own chair. If there are six members in your household your living room is incomplete without six comfortable chairs, with six small tables beside them and enough lamps to give adequate reading light. Living room furniture should be the sort that is easily moved. Chairs should have coasters on them to permit of easy sliding around.

ENLARGES CLEVERLY

A clever woman enlarged her tiny entrance hall recently and she did not need a government loan to do it. She simply had the paper hanger apply a paper with rather fine white and brown stripes on a yellow ground, with the stripes going horizontally instead of vertically. A white dado rising about four feet from the floor stopped the eye well short of dizziness, and added to the more spacious effect, furniture experts assert.

ALL SET FOR A TEA PARTY

The world's most famous tea party, arranged by the good citizens of Boston, was distinctly anti-English . . . but time heals many differences, and many American tea parties are now held in rooms furnished in the English manner. The living-room above, for example, features furniture patterned after the Georgian period of the 18th century, but made by Grand Rapids' craftsmen.

SIMPLE BEDROOM CAN BE MADE MOST ATTRACTIVE

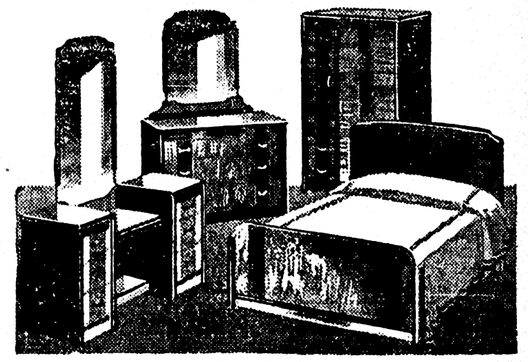

A bedroom styled to the taste of young moderns and budgeted to their income has twin beds which merely are box springs and mattresses set on legs and placed against a panel of decorative modern wallpaper is faded rose-color, beige and chartreasu. The rest of the room is papered in plain beige. The dull rose color is reflected in the rug; the bedspreads are beige corded with chartreuse. A small chair is upholstered in a plaid predominantly chartreuse.

The dressing table is formed from a narrow chest of drawers with a plate glass shelf extending beyond the top at one side, and cutting across the lower half of the large circular mirror which is fastened to the wall.

RENEW HOME FURNITURE GRADUALLY, NOTE RESULT

The thrill of adding a new table, chair or rug, of providing the right kind of furnishings to make the family happier, is one which is enjoyed far too seldom in the average home. Try getting one small, new piece for each room and see how the whole house and the family respond. Repeat this often enough and you will soon have a completely rejuvenated home.

GOOD SPRINGS AND MATTRESS BOONS

Other Furniture Besides Bed Depends On Space And Preference

There is no room in the house where comfort is so essential and so dependent on particular pieces of furniture as in the bedroom.

Days, it is said, depend upon nights. So the selection of a good mattress and a good spring becomes one of the most important duties of the homemaker. Obviously it is false economy to choose either at a price which precludes good quality. Not only will it be a short-lived, but it never will, even at the outset, be comfortable.

Choice between twin and double beds for the room occupied by husband and wife depends upon individual preference—and the size and plan of the bedroom. To be sure that there is room for twin beds, measure the spaces in which you plan to place them. Although twin beds are likely to be more comfortable, the second bed, mattress, and spring must be paid for, and the upkeep will be somewhat greater on account of the additional bed linen and laundry required.

Additional Pieces

Since most bedroom furniture comes in suites, besides the bed or beds, a dresser, dressing table, and chest of drawers are offered the buyer. A major requirement for orderliness being that one have a "place for everything," it may be a great advantage to have all three of these pieces.

If the room is small, however, this is not advised. An essential is that the two occupants have plenty of room to dress, perhaps to dress in a hurry. Door and window spaces must not be blocked.

Except in a large and formal house or apartment furnished in sophisticated style, bedroom furniture is best in somewhat informal style. Early American and French provincial have been used a great deal in recent years. Modern, Hepplewhite and Sheraton styles—all rather slight and graceful pieces—are more in harmony with this particular season's trend toward greater elegance.

Give Individual Touch

Persons with a prejudice against furniture in suites can avoid them and develop for themselves rooms of individual charm by selecting a highboy in place of a chest; by using a lowboy for a dressing table. A draped dressing table also may contribute, besides a personal touch, grace and lovely color to a bedroom.

Mirrors, at least two if the room is occupied by two people, are necessities. Ideally, one should be full length. A bedside table with a lamp on it is one of the essentials. Other pieces of furniture which make for full enjoyment of the privacy which is the usual modern house, only a bedroom affords, are an armchair or rocker, a sewing cabinet, a desk, a small radio, a chaise longue.

The floor coverings most often used in bedrooms today range from plain rugs or carpets—usually in very beautiful light colors—in the more formal type of room to hooked type all-over patterned carpeting, or in a simple, informal room, several small rag rugs.

THE MODERN REFRIGERATOR

A handsome addition to the kitchen . . . a practically indispensable convenience for the housewife. That's the new electric refrigerator, now standard equipment in thousands of American homes. Incidentally, many of the features introduced in the electric models are now also available in boxes using ice. Labor-saving devise have been added each year . . . all contributing thir part to make the business of running a kitchen an easier job.

ENDS GARBAGE NUISANCE

An electrical device to be installed beneath the kitchen sink for the purpose of grinding waste food and quickly disposing of it through the drain pipe into the sewer system has been developed by engineers. This new invention is heralded by housewives universally as it eliminates the garbage can and its hazards.

GOOD FURNITURE AT HAND

Beautiful furniture now is more nearly within the reach of every one than ever before and the American living room can be one of the most charming places in the world with a little attention to selection and arrangement of furniture.

DECORATION GOES TO OTHER ROOMS

Dining Hour Should Be Happiest Of The Day With Family Gathering

"One of the troubles with you Americans," visitors from abroad are likely to comment, "is that you don't know how to eat. You're always too busy. You gulp down your food and run!"

And the criticism, it is generally admitted, is all too frequently justified. In home furnishings, for example, the dining room is, as a rule, the most neglected room in the house. There must be a dining room table, of course, and four, six or eight chairs, and a place to keep silverware and linen. And that's that.

"We're only in the dining room an hour or so a day, so we don't bother much about it," is the excuse offered.

Happiest Hours Of Day

These hours, however, should be the happiest of the whole day, furniture men have pointed out. Usually it is at meal time that the whole family gathers together. Dad comes home from the office, mother emerges from the kitchen (or maybe arrives home from a bridge party), the children are home from school. The smart homemaker will see to it that these hours, particularly, are spent in pleasant surroundings.

"Our experience has shown that the main consideration in furnishing a dining room is a matter of proportion," David Lenz, president of the National Retail Furniture association and a member of the committee in charge of national furniture week, commented recently. "People persist in buying dining room furniture without much regard for the size of the room in which the furniture is to be used. They'll buy a massive English suite for a small apartment dinette—and use breakfast room furniture in a big dining room."

That, decorators agree, is mistake number one. If the dining room is small, the furniture should be small enough so that the table, when extended to its maximum size, will still leave sufficient room to serve meals without falling over the diners.

Aother suggestion from Lenz: "Buy comfortable chairs.

"The main factor in determining comfort at the dining room table is the chair in which you sit," he explained. "A comfortable chair will make the food taste ten times as good. And the man or woman who is comfortably seated will not rush through the meal. They'll slow down—talk more . . . take it easy. That, according to the medical profession, is the best thing in the world to aid digestion.

Dining Room Chairs

"A handy tip for the housewife who deserves a dining room suite with eight chairs, and really hasn't room for them, is to use one or two in other rooms of the house. Dining room chairs frequently serve very well for desk chairs in the living room, as odd chairs in the hall or elsewhere. Then, when there are eight for dinner, they may be moved back to the dining room and the set will match, offering a far more attractive appearance than if two odd chairs were moved into the room for the occasion.

"In the dining room, as in every other room of the house, the size and makeup of the family is an important factor in determining the kind of furnishings that should be used. For example, if there are children of school age, who must use the dining room table for their 'home-work,' don't buy a table with a highly finished top that is early marred. Or, if you have such a table, get cover pads made to order and leave them on the table after dinner, or whenever the children are getting their lessons.

"Here, also, is another place where lighting facilities should be watched. Illumination that is sufficient for dinner time is usually not sufficient for reading. Keep an extra floor lamp handy, to be moved in when the children are using the big table for study purposes.

"The dining room, admittedly offers the smallest opportunity for individual treatment of any room in the house . . . but the women who make it the real center of her home will find herself well paid for the thought and effort."

FOR 'THE HEART OF THE HOME'

"Solid comfort" may be the man's goal in purchasing furniture, an air of luxury and refinement the woman's. Furnishings such as these meet both requirements. This setting was arranged from furniture shown at the recent market and style show held at Grand Rapids, Mich. Drum-type Duncan Phyfe tables have a place in many decorative schemes for the living-room.

PERSONALITY NOTE IN LIVING ROOMS

The Present Mode Transcends 'Sitting Room' Of Olden Times

Who does not recall the old fashioned living room? "Sitting room" it was called more aptly, for its furnishing often consisted merely of a circle of more or less uncomfortable chairs around a "center table."

When we remember it, we realize how far we have come in recent years toward making the living room a happy and comfortable center for family life, a hospitable spot in which to receive friends.

Although enough places in which to sit still are a major requirement of a living room, present-day standards demand notonly that they be adequate in quantity, but comfortable as well, and that they be arranged in groups for sociability and convenience. Where there are children, chairs of suitable size should be provided.

Today we recognize that to achieve maximum convenience and an atmosphere of easy informality, there must be other furniture besides chairs in the room—several small tables, set against the wall or by the sides of chairs and davenport, a radio, bookcases, a desk, perhaps.

The whole must be knit together by a pleasing color harmony. The color and, at night, the lamps give the room its emotional tone, make it depressing or cheerful, restful or stimulating.

Furniture, hangings and upholstery fabrics should be harmonious in texture. If the furniture is oak, in old English, Spanish or Italian style, the fabrics used in the room with it should be rough-textured and coarse-patterned. If the furniture belongs to a more refined type—colonial or modern—with smooth, shining surfaces, the other textures and the patterns in the room with it must also bespeak refinement.

The furniture need not be of identical period, but should be related in spirit. Light, graceful, smooth-textured pieces may be used together. Conversely, sturdy, coarse-grained, heavily-carved types are combined.

In this day of apartments and small houses, it is of the utmost importance to consider the scale of living room furniture. The prospective buyer should ask of each piece: "Is it the right size in proportion to the rest of the furniture and to the room itself?" If there is any doubt about it, she should actualy measure the furniture under discussion before buying it.

Accessories can contribute much charm to a living room, for it is through these that the owner can most emphatically express her individuality. If they are truly to represent her taste, she must rigorously exclude everything which is mediocre or inferior or which simply does not particularly appeal to her.

Pictures, maps, plants, books and magazines, bits of colorful pottery, hanging shelves, if well chosen and well placed, will give your living room the look of being lived in, and lived in by you.

GOOD SPRINGS AND MATTRESS BOONS

Other Furniture Besides Bed Depends On Space And Preference

There is no room in the house where comfort is so essential and so dependent on particular pieces of furniture as in the bedroom.

Days, it is said, depend upon nights. So the selection of a good mattress and a good spring becomes one of the most important duties of the homemaker. Obviously it is false economy to choose either at a price which precludes good quality. Not only will it be a short-lived, but it never will, even at the outset, be comfortable.

Choice between twin and double beds for the room occupied by husband and wife depends upon individual preference—and the size and plan of the bedroom. To be sure that there is room for twin beds, measure the spaces in which you plan to place them. Although twin beds are likely to be more comfortable, the second bed, mattress, and spring must be paid for, and the upkeep will be somewhat greater on account of the additional bed linen and laundry required.

STILL AT THE TOP

Somehow or other, an Early American bedroom has a personality all its own, which perhaps explains why great-grandmothers, grandmothers, mothers and now America's modern daughters all found furnishings like these for their homes. The charm of a past day is preserved in maple furniture of the old, familiar lines. Here's a group that shares honors with more modern ensembles in local furniture exhibitions.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Without a word to Fragonet Jo walked to the telephone, lifted the instrument from its cradle.

"What are you going to do?" he asked, moving across the room.

Jo spoke quickly into the mouthpiece: "Hello? . . . Please let me have the cashier's office."

Fragonet reached out as if to take the telephone from her hand, but Jo turned guardedly. "Cashier's office? This is Miss Darien in 718. There's been a little misunderstanding about my account. I want the statements to come to me—and not to Mr. Fragonet.

"Thanks so much."

Replacing the telephone, she turned to Fragonet again. "I may as well stay here until the end of the week. But after that, Peter, I want you to be a sensible person and not try to find my new address."

"But, Jo, it's so foolish not to accept my help. After all, I brought you here—and I'm responsible."

He took her hand. "It's not goodby, Jo. You can't dismiss me so easily." His eyes were clouded with faint anger, and Jo was fearful of one of his unreasoning outbursts. But with obvious effort he held himself silent, and left without further protest.

• • •

If Jo Darien lived to be a hundred she would always remember her first days in Hollywood—remember them in conglomerate nightmare detail. In her mind she had not dismissed Fragonet as completely as she wanted him to believe. In her heart she knew that if he proved himself really finished with Edna Fragonet, if he was sincere in not caring for the public fable of Peter Fragonet, she would be willing to see him again. It could be true that he loved her, as he said; and, after all, nothing that had happened was really his fault. Poor Fragonet was caught up in the complications of his own tenuous fame.

But, despite these conclusions, Jo was resolved to carry herself in Hollywood. Just how this should be done, she hadn't the slightest notion. The morning after Fragonet's revelation that he was still inextricably imprisoned within the destinies of Edna Fragonet and the Atlas organization, Jo took inventory of her resources. When she had paid a week in advance at the expensive apartment on Wilshire boulevard she found to her alarm that she had less than $100. She recognized too late that she should have moved at once and, spurred now by the swiftly approaching necessity, she spent hours in the bright sunlight of Hollywood, hunting for a job.

By bus and street car and on foot she searched through the shops and the stores and the restaurants—sometimes guided by "want ads" and sometimes going it blindly, hoping by sheer luck to run into something. But there were thousands like her in Hollywood—thousands who had come for money and fame and who were now anxious enough to settle into the security of a low-paid job at almost anything.

Her pride kept her from taking what little she had left and escaping with it to Weston. And in a few short days her money dwindled to the point where escape was impossible and a job—any sort of a job—was more important than ever before. She had not even advised her parents that she was no longer at Crest Lake, for she didn't want to worry them until she could assure them she was safely situated in a city which her mother had always regarded with more or less suspicion.

Jo knew that an appeal to Fragonet would surely find her something, and she suspected he was waiting for this appeal. It was this suspicion which made Jo all the more stubbornly set against asking his help. At the end of the fruitless week she left the luxurious apartment he had selected. Leaving no forwarding address, she moved into a single narrow room in an outmoded stucco bungalow owned by a widow who had descended to roomers in order to hold her property.

It was in that dingy, narrow room that the desperate Jo decided to make an appeal—not to Fragonet, but to Lolita Montez. With considerable trepidation she wrote her a note in care of the studio, for Montez, like Fragonet, had no listing in the directory. It seemed hopeless, for Jo felt certain that some secretary would answer her letter that Montez herself would never see it. But Jo reckoned without the fact that Lolita Montez was a star who took the time to glance at her fan-mail.

"A lady called while you were gone," Jo's landlady told her an evening or two later when the girl returned wearily from another seige of employers' fortresses. "She wouldn't give her name, but she left her 'phone number and said for you to call."

Puzzled, Jo dialed the number. "This is Jo Darien . . . was there someone there wanting to get in touch with me?"

"Miss Darien? Yes, just a moment . . . Miss Montez wants to speak to you."

Jo's heart leaped, and after a short wait she heard the familiar, husky voice of Lolita Montez. "Tell me where you are," the actress said, "I'm going to send the car around for you at once."

Warmed and delighted by Lolita's show of friendship, Jo gave her address and, within an hour the star's uniformed driver was helping Jo into a long, gleaming car. They pushed patiently through the traffic, then proceeded at a faster pace long wider boulevards toward the foothills. At last the car wheeled into a graveled drive and brought up before a low, rambling white house that took Jo's breath away with its sunlit beauty.

Lolita herself was on the porch and hurried down to meet Jo. "I suppose you've been here for days, not knowing which way to turn," Lolita accused Jo. "And then you write a letter to the studio!"

"I didn't know how else to reach you," Jo confessed.

Lolita laughed. "I suppose not. Come in . . . I want to talk to you."

But before the huge English fireplace it was Jo who had to talk first. She had to tell Lolita how she had come to Hollywood, and of her lonely, bewildering days since. "Of course," Jo said slowly, "I was a fool to come at all . . . But it's too late now to talk about that."

Lolita shook her head. "I knew all along that you'd come."

"How did you know that?" Jo asked, astonished. "I hardly knew it myself until the last moment when . . ." Her words trailed into silence.

"I know," the actress nodded. "Until the last moment when Fragonet urged you. I know Fragonet—how well!"

• • •

Montez rose, offered Jo cigarets from a beautifully enameled box on the mantel. Jo took one and as she accepted a light, she heard the actress say in a queer tone, "Are you in love with him?"

"I—I don't think so,' Jo faltered.

Montez exhaled a pillar of gray smoke quickly, almost like a symbol of hot anger. "Take my advice and forget him. Forget him completely. I'm going to give you money to get back home."

Jo shook her head. "I don't want that. You—you've been more than kind and I want you to know how I appreciate it. But all I'll accept is your help in finding a job."

The actress stared at her for a moment. "It's nice to be as proud as you are, Jo. But it can get you into plenty of trouble. If I do help you to get a job in Hollywood will you keep away from Peter Fragonet?"

"I'll do my best," Jo smiled.

She was about to go on, but at that moment a tiny dark girl ran into the room—an absurdly childlike replica of Lolita Montez, gazing at Jo with wide, black eyes.

"This is Miss Darien, Lola," her mother said.

The child acknowledged the introduction with grown-up politeness, then turned to her mother. "Can I ride to town with nurse? She's going shopping."

Lolita nodded, patting the child's dark head. When Lola had run out of the room Jo said, "She's lovely."

"She has an unbelievable charm already," the actress said queerly. "It's from her father, I suppose."

"He—is he—"

"Dead?" Lolita smiled, "Indeed not. Lola's father is very much alive. I'm going to tell you something, Jo. Her father is Peter Fragonet!"

Jo's face drained to a sudden pallor. She hardly heard Lolita's low, husky voice continuing, "We were married hardly a year. It was before either of us were very well known—and even in the studios few people know about it. When Peter began going up he felt he should have a wife like Edna, and not an actress." Lolita smiled bitterly. "You see, Edna had family and background, and Peter was a little dazzled by those things then."

NAZI WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Herbert Kwandt, an Austrian aged 19, seems doomed to travel the world indefinitely. He recently arrived at the Durban, South Africa, immigration detention depot, but must move on. Kwandt had stowed away in the Clan Malcolm at Gdynia, a Polish port, after fleeing from Austria, where he had been arrested for spreading Nazi propaganda shortly before Dr. Dollfuss' death. He has no immigration papers and the prospect of looking after Kwandt indefinitely does not appeal to the captain of the vessel, who is responsible for his unwelcome guest until he can be landed at an Austrian port. But the Clan Malcolm never touches at any Austrian port.

STILL AT THE TOP

Somehow or other, an Early American bedroom has a personality all its own, which perhaps explains why great-grandmothers, grandmothers, mothers and now America's modern daughters all found furnishings like these for their homes. The charm of a past day is preserved in maple furniture of the old, familiar lines. Here's a group that shares honors with more modern ensembles in local furniture exhibitions.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Without a word to Fragonet Jo walked to the telephone, lifted the instrument from its cradle.

"What are you going to do?" he asked, moving across the room.

Jo spoke quickly into the mouthpiece: "Hello? . . . Please let me have the cashier's office."

Fragonet reached out as if to take the telephone from her hand, but Jo turned guardedly. "Cashier's office? This is Miss Darien in 718. There's been a little misunderstanding about my account. I want the statements to come to me—and not to Mr. Fragonet.

"Thanks so much."

Replacing the telephone, she turned to Fragonet again. "I may as well stay here until the end of the week. But after that, Peter, I want you to be a sensible person and not try to find my new address."

"But, Jo, it's so foolish not to accept my help. After all, I brought you here—and I'm responsible."

He took her hand. "It's not goodby, Jo. You can't dismiss me so easily." His eyes were clouded with faint anger, and Jo was fearful of one of his unreasoning outbursts. But with obvious effort he held himself silent, and left without further protest.

* * *

If Jo Darien lived to be a hundred she would always remember her first days in Hollywood—remember them in conglomerate nightmare detail. In her mind she had not dismissed Fragonet as completely as she wanted him to believe. In her heart she knew that if he proved himself really finished with Edna Fragonet, if he was sincere in not caring for the public fable of Peter Fragonet, she would be willing to see him again. It could be true that he loved her, as he said; and, after all, nothing that had happened was really his fault. Poor Fragonet was caught up in the complications of his own tenuous fame.

But, despite these conclusions, Jo was resolved to carry herself in Hollywood. Just how this should be done, she hadn't the slightest notion. The morning after Fragonet's revelation that he was still inextricably imprisoned within the destinies of Edna Fragonet and the Atlas organization, Jo took inventory of her resources. When she had paid a week in advance at the expensive apartment on Wilshire boulevard she found to her alarm that she had less than $100. She recognized too late that she should have moved at once and, spurred now by the swiftly approaching necessity, she spent hours in the bright sunlight of Hollywood, hunting for a job.

By bus and street car and on foot she searched through the shops and the stores and the restaurants—sometimes guided by "want ads" and sometimes going it blindly, hoping by sheer luck to run into something. But there were thousands like her in Hollywood—thousands who had come for money and fame and who were now anxious enough to settle into the security of a low-paid job at almost anything.

Her pride kept her from taking what little she had left and escaping with it to Weston. And in a few short days her money dwindled to the point where escape was impossible and a job—any sort of a job—was more important than ever before. She had not even advised her parents that she was no longer at Crest Lake, for she didnt' want to worry them until she could assure them she was safely situated in a city which her mother had always regarded with more or less suspicion.

Jo knew that an appeal to Fragonet would surely find her something, and she suspected he was waiting for this appeal. It was this suspicion which made Jo all the more stubbornly set against asking his help. At the end of the fruitless week she left the luxurious apartment he had selected. Leaving no forwarding address, she moved into a single narrow room in an outmoded stucco bungalow owned by a widow who had descended to roomers in order to hold her property.

It was in that dingy, narrow room that the desperate Jo decided to make an appeal—not to Fragonet, but to Lolita Montez. With considerable trepidation she wrote her a note in care of the studio, for Montez, like Fragonet, had no listing in the directory. It seemed hopeless, for Jo felt certain that some secretary would answer her letter that Montez herself would never see it. But Jo reckoned without the fact that Lolita Montez was a star who took the time to glance at her fan-mail.

"A lady called while you were gone," Jo's landlady told her an evening or two later when the girl returned wearily from another seige of employers' fortresses. "She wouldn't give her name, but she left her 'phone number and said for you to call."

Puzzled, Jo dialed the number. "This is Jo Darien . . . was there someone there wanting to get in touch with me?"

"Miss Darien? Yes, just a moment . . . Miss Montez wants to speak to you."

Jo's heart leaped, and after a short wait she heard the familiar, husky voice of Lolita Montez. "Tell me where you are," the actress said, "I'm going to send the car around for you at once."

Warmed and delighted by Lolita's show of friendship, Jo gave her address and, within an hour the star's uniformed driver was helping Jo into a long, gleaming car. They pushed patiently through the traffic, then proceeded at a faster pace long wider boulevards toward the foothills. At last the car wheeled into a graveled drive and brought up before a low, rambling white house that took Jo's breath away with its sunlit beauty.

Lolita herself was on the porch and hurried down to meet Jo. "I suppose you've been here for days, not knowing which way to turn," Lolita accused Jo. "And then you write a letter to the studio!"

"I didn't know how else to reach you," Jo confessed.

Lolita laughed. "I suppose not. Come in . . . I want to talk to you."

But before the huge English fireplace it was Jo who had to talk first. She had to tell Lolita how she had come to Hollywood, and of her lonely, bewildering days since. "Of ccurse," Jo said slowly. "I was a fool to come at all . . . But it's too late now to talk about that."

Lolita shook her head. "I knew all along that you'd come."

"How did you know that?" Jo asked, astonished. "I hardly knew it myself until the last moment when . . ." Her words trailed into silence.

"I know," the actress nodded. "Until the last moment when Fragonet urged you. I know Fragonet—how well!"

* * *

Montez rose, offered Jo cigarets from a beautifully enameled box on the mantel. Jo took one and as she accepted a light, she heard the actress say in a queer tone, "Are you in love with him?"

"I—I don't think so,' Jo faltered.

Montez exhaled a pillar of gray smoke quickly, almost like a symbol of hot anger. "Take my advice and forget him. Forget him completely. I'm going to give you money to get back home."

"I'll do my best," Jo smiled.

She was about to go on, but at that moment a tiny dark girl ran into the room—an absurdly childlike replica of Lolita Montez, gazing at Jo with wide, black eyes.

"This is Miss Darien, Lola," her mother said.

The child acknowledged the introduction with grown-up politeness, then turned to her mother. "Can I ride to town with nurse? She's going shopping."

Lolita nodded, patting the child's dark head. When Lola had run out of the room Jo said, "She's lovely."

MATCHING PIECES SHOULD BE USED

Housewives Advised To 'Be Selfish' In Matter Of Equipment

When it comes to furnishing your bedroom . . . be selfish!

That's the somewhat startling advice of T. Austin Finch, one of the nationally-known furniture men in charge of National Furniture week, who has spent a lifetime building furniture, much of it intended for the bedrooms of American families.

"There's been so much emphasis recently on 'How to Furnish the Guest Room' that we find the 'extra' room in many homes being equipped with excellent furnishings at the expense of the master bedroom," Finch explained. "It is, of course, a hostess' duty to make her guests as comfortable as possible, but common sense should dictate that it's foolish to put the best springs, and the best mattress, and the best furniture, into a room used only occasionally, when there's another room, used constantly, in need of improvement."

When family budgets will permit only one bedroom to be adequately furnished, it's Finch's idea that the master bedroom is the logical choice. Then, when guests arrive, husband and wife may turn their own room over to the visitors and move into the guest room themselves, if they prefer.

When you build a home, or rent a home or apartment, try to provide all the space you can for bedrooms," he advised. "The master bedroom, especially, should be of ample size, for nothing is more conducive to a peaceful existence than plenty of space for the belongings of both husband and wife. No man likes to plow through a drawer of feminine doodads in search of his own handkerchiefs or socks . . . and the peace of mind of the average woman is completely destroyed by the hectic disarray in which drawers usually are left after such a search!"

The answer, it's pointed out, is a vanity, dresser or dressing table for the wife, a chest of drawers for the husband and—if there's room—perhaps, another chest . . . a highboy or lowboy . . . for the overflow.

Most of the new bedroom suites contain enough matching pieces for the buyer to choose the ones best suited to his or her needs. If the "suite" selected includes only three pieces, it's possible to pick up other bedroom furniture that will harmonize with the major pieces.

A night stand, for example, is called a bedroom necessity by furniture men. There should be at least one comfortable bedroom chair . . . two if space permits.

Sewing cabinets provide a separate space for sewing equipment . . . and sewing machines now are provided in cabinets that are excellent pieces of furniture, with the machine hidden when it's not in use. An end table next to the most comfortable chair . . . certainly a good reading lamp . . . perhaps a magazine rack or other novelties usually regarded only for a living room—all such things help to make bedrooms more livable.

JUST A WELL-FURNISHED LIVING ROOM

Possibly the favorite style today for upholstered furniture is the London club type chair and davenport, of which the two illustrated above are typical examples. The low, wide arms, tailored lines and generally comfortable appearance seem to appeal equally to men and to women . . . an unusual combination. The occasional pieces are also English. Although the panelled walls provide an ideal setting, such furniture appears to advantage in almost any kind of room.

DESIGNERS FAVOR USE OF MODERN FURNITURE

"We have gone modern. Modern is reaching all classes and its adoption into the average home is a welcome change," say prominent designers in the furniture field. It is evident that modern furniture will be more conservative in the use of veneer matchings—many of the standard veneers such as butt walnut and plain stripe are being used with conservative finishes.

Hardware, once very blatant on modern furniture, has been subdued and gives the furniture more of a functional appearance instead of that cold commercial look. Early American and Georgian designs continue popular in the conservative lines.

PRICES REMAIN AT ATTRACTIVE LEVEL

The American home—still the nation's most important institution—steps into the spotlight in the week of September 30 to October 5 when Indianapolis and the rest of the United States will observe National Furniture week, dedicated to the 25,000,000 homes in which are centered the activities of the nation's families.

Furnishings of all kinds—fresh from the industry's factories . . . are ready for the fall season, when America, after a summer of out-door recreation, returns home for the winter months. From the basement to the attic, from the living room to the kitchen . . . for the farm home and the Park avenue penthouse . . . for the two-room kitchenette and the forty-room mansion . . . nothing has been overlooked.

"National Furniture week has only one purpose," it was asserted in headquarters at Chicago, "and that is to focus attention everywhere on the importance of the American home and its furnishings."

Furniture Factories Busy

Co-operating with the four national furniture associations, are thousands of factories producing literally tens of thousands of items that go into the furnishing of the modern home and the furniture and department stores of the nation, bringing these new creations to every city and town in the country.

"If you need new furniture, buy it now, but whether you invest a cent in new furnishings, devote some thought to your home this week," the home makers of the nation were advised. "Attend the displays arranged by furniture dealers. You'll find new ideas in decoration on view . . . new ways to make your home more comfortable and more livable. Rearrange the rooms you haven't touched for years . . . freshen them with new ideas, new furniture, or both. Make America's homes this fall better places in which to live and in which to rear Americans of the future," is the word.

Prices for furniture and related lines have risen little from the depression low, it was pointed out, thus affording an opportunity to accomplish much, at relatively small cost, that may not be repeated. By next January, according to forecasts by authorities in the industry, prices will be 10 per cent higher, due to steadily increasing costs for raw materials and the continuation, practically throughout the industry, of NRA wages and hours.

Styles Change In Years

The last few years have brought great changes in the home furnishings field, leaders have pointed out. The well-furnished home, 1935 model, bears as little resemblance to its predecessor of ten years ago as do the modern motor cars compared to 1926 models. While certain general styles, favorites for generations, continue in vogue, as always, there have been countless improvements and modifications, making furniture more useful, as well as more beautiful.

"The man who has never driven a modern motor car doesn't know what he is missing," it was said at Indianapolis Furniture week headquarters, "and, in the same way, the man or woman who hasn't even been inside a furniture store or furniture section since the depression can't realize what a vast difference there is in the new furnishings."

Co-operating in presenting National Furniture week throughout the nation are the National Retail Furniture association, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association and the National Wholesale Furniture Salesmen's association.

DOUBLE TABLE SERVICE

Here's a bridge table that will delight the hostess who likes to choose her furniture in terms of service as well as for attractiveness. For this one is two tables.

TASTE, NOT MONEY, MAKES FOR CHARM

Furnishing Costs Themselves Will Not Determine The Outcome

Careful planning and intelligent arrangement—not dollars and cents—are the chief ingredients of the tastefully-furnished living room.

Although some types of furnishings require a heavier investment than others, it is possible to spend a young fortune for furniture and end up with a room that's a nightmare . . . and it's equally possible to achieve a charming effect through the expenditure of much thought, but little money.

"In fact," according to Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice-president of the National Retail Furniture association, whose work keeps him in touch with plans for literally thousands of homes, "the cost of what goes into a home, in itself, has little to do with furnishing results. Impressive interiors require diligent thought in execution, down to the finest detail."

Common sense, Rau pointed out, is what is needed most.

"At the same time," he continued, "it's better to buy good furniture—even though you get fewer pieces—than to fill up your home with furnishings that have nothing attractive about them except their price tags. A sparsely-furnished home, carefully arranged, can be very attractive . . . and then more pieces may be added later on, when the budget permits the additions."

General Ideal Room Impossible

No one, the furniture executive pointed out, can describe the "ideal" living room . . . for the excellent reason that an "ideal" room for one family wouldn't even come close to meeting the requirements of the folk next door. The habits, as well as the tastes, of each group must be taken into consideration. One major consideration is whether there are children . . . and of what age . . . and how much other space in the house is available for their use.

"For example," he said, "you may have a fondness for delicate, graceful furniture and, on top of that, a weakness for fragile vases and other accessories. If you have a small home, with no room set aside as a playroom, and you have young children, don't indulge that fancy. The kids must have a place to play . . . and if the living room is all that's available . . . keep that in mind. Then you won't have to be saying 'Careful' every few minutes!"

Plan Living Room Setup First

A good system in planning a living room, according to Rau, is to cut out small pieces of cardboard, on a scale of one-quarter-inch to the foot, representing all of the major pieces to go into the room. Then draw a diagram of the room, to the same scale, showing the doors, windows, fireplace, etc. Arrange the cardboards in this place until the desired result is obtained. This is much easier than moving the furniture.

"Ane one last work of advice," he appended, "is don't be afraid to be original. Read all you like about interior decoration . . . but adapt what you read to your own personality. A room designed by one of the movie stars (or more likely by a decorator employed for the purpose) may be a perfect background for the actress, but the world's worst setting for you!"

STUDIO COUCHES CHANGE

Now it's studio couches that look like glorified davenports, complete with back, arms and everything and adjustable into twin beds. Some models retain the more familiar appearance featured with trim, tailored lines and modern styling, some with chromium trimmings. Bolsters at one end or both seem to be preferred to the old three-cushion arrangement.

TEST CHAIR'S STABILITY

Before buying, it is wise to scrutinize carefully the back posts of chairs that are being considered and also the legs of beds, tables and cabinets. The pieces should be shaken to see if they stand squarely upon the floor; no one desires a tipsy table nor a wabbly chair.

HANDY FOR SOLITAIRE OR BRIDGE

With half the country excited over the "approach-forcing" and other systems of bridge, a permanent bridge setting that doesn't have to be put away when the game is over is a popular addition to the furnishings of any home with enough room for it. Awaiting her guests, Miss Virginia Lee Wessling, above, whiles away the time with solitaire . . . and it looks like she's having her difficulties.

WALL BRACKETS HANDY TO HOLD PLANT BOWLS

Charming are the new wall brackets for bowls of ivy or philodendron. They consist of round mirror plaques to be hung against the wall, with the hoops to hold the crystal bowls coming out from their bases. They add an exquisite touch to a colonial, Georgian, or modern room.

As for the plants, philodendron fits into a modern interior better than the more sentimental ivy, and has the advantage of being free from the microscopic spiders which so often infest the latter.

COMFORT IS IMPORTANT

Has every member of the family a comfortable chair in the living room? Is there a table near it? Is it properly lighted? These are cardinal requirements of every living room which proposes to serve the family.

MAGIC RADIO EYE 'SEES' STATIONS IN TUNING SET

A remarkable "Magic Eye" consisting of a special cathode ray tube, which virtually adds another sense of intelligence to an improved "Magic Brain" mechanism with metal tubes, and permits one to acautlly see when the radio receiver is tuned most accurately, was described by Mr. L. A. Lay of the Standard Office Supply Co., Inc., local RCA Victor dealers.

Designed to do by sight what the ear and sense of touch may not be able to do as accurately, the "Magic Eye" as embodied in the newest RCA Victor radio receivers, does away with bothersome tuning adjustments, guards against blurred and "off-center" tone and makes it possible to tune the radio set silently, because the volume need not be turned up to audibility until the station has been tuned in to its most accurate point with the "Magic Eye."

The public is invited to the showroom to see and hear these new and unusual radios.

DIXIE GIVES SUGGESTION ON GROUPING FURNITURE

One hint was given by the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company on the arrangement of furniture. Living room furniture should be arranged in groups and not just strewn around the walls. In even a small living room a better arrangement may be worked out if the furniture is placed in related groups. In a family where there are children of varying ages and consequently different interests, there can be an arrangement of the living room furniture which will accommodate the needs of all if it is properly grouped. Remember that many a living room is spoiled by having the furniture lined up all around the walls, with too much space in the center.

The Dixie Bedding and Furniture company is known for high quality furniture at a saving. They have many suggestions to offer on the arrangement of furniture in all parts of the house.

WARM CARPETS PROTECTION

Floors on which small children play should be carpeted for the greatest warmth. Elderly people in the family also are sensitive to drafts and appreciate a warmly carpeted floor.

NEW LIFE FOR ANY RADIO IN RCA TUBES

MATCHING PIECES SHOULD BE USED

Housewives Advised To 'Be Selfish' In Matter Of Equipment

When it comes to furnishing your bedroom . . . be selfish!

That's the somewhat startling advice of T. Austin Finch, one of the nationally-known furniture men in charge of National Furniture week, who has spent a lifetime building furniture, much of it intended for the bedrooms of American families.

"There's been so much emphasis recently on 'How to Furnish the Guest Room' that we find the 'extra' room in many homes being equipped with excellent furnishings at the expense of the master bedroom," Finch explained. "It is, of course, a hostess' duty to make her guests as comfortable as possible, but common sense should dictate that it's foolish to put the best springs, and the best mattress, and the best furniture, into a room used only occasionally, when there's another room, used constantly, in need of improvement."

When family budgets will permit only one bedroom to be adequately furnished, it's Finch's idea that the master bedroom is the logical choice. Then, when guests arrive, husband and wife may turn their own room over to the visitors and move into the guest room themselves, if they prefer.

When you build a home, or rent a home or apartment, try to provide all the space you can for bedrooms," he advised. "The master bedroom, especially, should be of ample size, for nothing is more conducive to a peaceful existence than plenty of space for the belongings of both husband and wife. No man likes to plow through a drawer of feminine doodads in search of his own handkerchiefs or socks . . . and the peace of mind of the average woman is completely destroyed by the hectic disarray in which drawers usually are left after such a search!"

The answer, it's pointed out, is a vanity, dresser or dressing table for the wife, a chest of drawers for the husband and—if there's room—perhaps, another chest . . . a highboy or lowboy . . . for the overflow.

Most of the new bedroom suites contain enough matching pieces for the buyer to choose the ones best suited to his or her needs. If the "suite" selected includes only three pieces, it's possible to pick up other bedroom furniture that will harmonize with the major pieces.

A night stand, for example, is called a bedroom necessity by furniture men. There should be at least one comfortable bedroom chair . . . two if space permits.

Sewing cabinets provide a separate space for sewing equipment . . . and sewing machines now are provided in cabinets that are excellent pieces of furniture, with the machine hidden when it's not in use. An end table next to the most comfortable chair . . . certainly a good reading lamp . . . perhaps a magazine rack or other novelties usually regarded only for a living room—all such things help to make bedrooms more livable.

JUST A WELL-FURNISHED LIVING ROOM

Possibly the favorite style today for upholstered furniture is the London club type chair and davenport, of which the two illustrated above are typical examples. The low, wide arms, tailored lines and generally comfortable appearance seem to appeal equally to men and to women . . . an unusual combination. The occasional pieces are also English. Although the panelled walls provide an ideal setting, such furniture appears to advantage in almost any kind of room.

DESIGNERS FAVOR USE OF MODERN FURNITURE

"We have gone modern. Modern is reaching all classes and its adoption into the average home is a welcome change," say prominent designers in the furniture field. It is evident that modern furniture will be more conservative in the use of veneer matchings—many of the standard veneers such as butt walnut and plain stripe are being used with conservative finishes.

Hardware, once very blatant on modern furniture, has been subdued and gives the furniture more of a functional appearance instead of that cold commercial look. Early American and Georgian designs continue popular in the conservative lines.

PRICES REMAIN AT ATTRACTIVE LEVEL

The American home—still the nation's most important institution—steps into the spotlight in the week of September 30 to October 5 when Indianapolis and the rest of the United States will observe National Furniture week, dedicated to the 25,000,000 homes in which are centered the activities of the nation's families.

Furnishings of all kinds—fresh from the industry's factories . . . are ready for the fall season, when America, after a summer of out-door recreation, returns home for the winter months. From the basement to the attic, from the living room to the kitchen . . . for the farm home and the Park avenue penthouse . . . for the two-room kitchenette and the forty-room mansion . . . nothing has been overlooked.

"National Furniture week has only one purpose," it was asserted in headquarters at Chicago, "and that is to focus attention everywhere on the importance of the American home and its furnishings."

Furniture Factories Busy

Co-operating with the four national furniture associations, are thousands of factories producing literally tens of thousands of items that go into the furnishing of the modern home and the furniture and department stores of the nation, bringing these new creations to every city and town in the country.

"If you need new furniture, buy it now, but whether you invest a cent in new furnishings, devote some thought to your home this week," the home makers of the nation were advised. "Attend the displays arranged by furniture dealers. You'll find new ideas in decoration on view . . . new ways to make your home more comfortable and more livable. Rearrange the rooms you haven't touched for years . . . freshen them with new ideas, new furniture, or both. Make America's homes this fall better places in which to live and in which to rear Americans of the future," is the word.

Prices for furniture and related lines have risen little from the depression low, it was pointed out, thus affording an opportunity to accomplish much, at relatively small cost, that may not be repeated. By next January, according to forecasts by authorities in the industry, prices will be 10 per cent higher, due to steadily increasing costs for raw materials and the continuation, practically throughout the industry, of NRA wages and hours.

Styles Change In Years

The last few years have brought great changes in the home furnishings field, leaders have pointed out. The well-furnished home, 1935 model, bears as little resemblance to its predecessor of ten years ago as do the modern motor cars compared to 1926 models. While certain general styles, favorites for generations, continue in vogue, as always, there have been countless improvements and modifications, making furniture more useful, as well as more beautiful.

"The man who has never driven a modern motor car doesn't know what he is missing," it was said at Indianapolis Furniture week headquarters, "and, in the same way, the man or woman who hasn't even been inside a furniture store or furniture section since the depression can't realize what a vast difference there is in the new furnishings."

Co-operating in presenting National Furniture week throughout the nation are the National Retail Furniture association, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association and the National Wholesale Furniture Salesmen's association.

DOUBLE TABLE SERVICE

Here's a bridge table that will delight the hostess who likes to choose her furniture in terms of service as well as for attractiveness. For this one is two tables.

TASTE, NOT MONEY, MAKES FOR CHARM

Furnishing Costs Themselves Will Not Determine The Outcome

Careful planning and intelligent arrangement—not dollars and cents—are the chief ingredients of the tastefully-furnished living room.

Although some types of furnishings require a heavier investment than others, it is possible to spend a young fortune for furniture and end up with a room that's a nightmare . . . and it's equally possible to achieve a charming effect through the expenditure of much thought, but little money.

"In fact," according to Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice-president of the National Retail Furniture association, whose work keeps him in touch with plans for literally thousands of homes, "the cost of what goes into a home, in itself, has little to do with furnishing results. Impressive interiors require diligent thought in execution, down to the finest detail."

Common sense, Rau pointed out, is what is needed most.

"At the same time," he continued, "it's better to buy good furniture—even though you get fewer pieces—than to fill up your home with furnishings that have nothing attractive about them except their price tags. A sparsely-furnished home, carefully arranged, can be very attractive . . . and then more pieces may be added later on, when the budget permits the additions."

General Ideal Room Impossible

No one, the furniture executive pointed out, can describe the "ideal" living room . . . for the excellent reason that an "ideal" room for one family wouldn't even come close to meeting the requirements of the folk next door. The habits, as well as the tastes, of each group must be taken into consideration. One major consideration is whether there are children . . . and of what age . . . and how much other space in the house is available for their use.

"For example," he said, "you may have a fondness for delicate, graceful furniture and, on top of that, a weakness for fragile vases and other accessories. If you have a small home, with no room set aside as a playroom, and you have young children, don't indulge that fancy. The kids must have a place to play . . . and if the living room is all that's available . . . keep that in mind. Then you won't have to be saying 'Careful' every few minutes!"

Plan Living Room Setup First

A good system in planning a living room, according to Rau, is to cut out small pieces of cardboard, on a scale of one-quarter-inch to the foot, representing all of the major pieces to go into the room. Then draw a diagram of the room, to the same scale, showing the doors, windows, fireplace, etc. Arrange the cardboards in this place until the desired result is obtained. This is much easier than moving the furniture.

"And one last work of advice," he appended, "is don't be afraid to be original. Read all you like about interior decoration . . . but adapt what you read to your own personality. A room designed by one of the movie stars (or more likely by a decorator employed for the purpose) may be a perfect background for the actress, but the world's worst setting for you!"

STUDIO COUCHES CHANGE

Now it's studio couches that look like glorified davenports, complete with back, arms and everything and adjustable into twin beds. Some models retain the more familiar appearance featured with trim, tailored lines and modern styling, some with chromium trimmings. Bolsters at one end or both seem to be preferred to the old three-cushion arrangement.

TEST CHAIR'S STABILITY

Before buying, it is wise to scrutinize carefully the back posts of chairs that are being considered and also the legs of beds, tables and cabinets. The pieces should be shaken to see if they stand squarely upon the floor; no one desires a tipsy table nor a wabbly chair.

HANDY FOR SOLITAIRE OR BRIDGE

With half the country excited over the "approach-forcing" and other systems of bridge, a permanent bridge setting that doesn't have to be put away when the game is over is a popular addition to the furnishings of any home with enough room for it. Awaiting her guests, Miss Virginia Lee Wessling, above, whiles away the time with solitaire . . . and it looks like she's having her difficulties.

WALL BRACKETS HANDY TO HOLD PLANT BOWLS

Charming are the new wall brackets for bowls of ivy or philodendron. They consist of round mirror plaques to be hung against the wall, with the hoops to hold the crystal bowls coming out from their bases. They add an exquisite touch to a colonial, Georgian, or modern room.

As for the plants, philodendron fits into a modern interior better than the more sentimental ivy, and has the advantage of being free from the microscopic spiders which so often infest the latter.

COMFORT IS IMPORTANT

Has every member of the family a comfortable chair in the living room? Is there a table near it? Is it properly lighted? These are cardinal requirements of every living room which proposes to serve the family.

MAGIC RADIO EYE 'SEES' STATIONS IN TUNING SET

A remarkable "Magic Eye" consisting of a special cathode ray tube, which virtually adds another sense of intelligence to an improved "Magic Brain" mechanism with metal tubes, and permits one to acautlly see when the radio receiver is tuned most accurately, was described by Mr. L. A. Lay of the Standard Office Supply Co., Inc., local RCA Victor dealers.

Designed to do by sight what the ear and sense of touch may not be able to do as accurately, the "Magic Eye" as embodied in the newest RCA Victor radio receivers, does away with bothersome tuning adjustments, guards against blurred and "off-center" tone and makes it possible to tune the radio set silently, because the volume need not be turned up to audibility until the station has been tuned in to its most accurate point with the "Magic Eye."

The public is invited to the showroom to see and hear these new and unusual radios.

DIXIE GIVES SUGGESTION ON GROUPING FURNITURE

One hint was given by the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company on the arrangement of furniture. Living room furniture should be arranged in groups and not just strewn around the walls. In even a small living room a better arrangement may be worked out if the furniture is placed in related groups. In a family where there are children of varying ages and consequently different interests, there can be an arrangement of the living room furniture which will accommodate the needs of all if it is properly grouped. Remember that many a living room is spoiled by having the furniture lined up all around the walls, with too much space in the center.

The Dixie Bedding and Furniture company is known for high quality furniture at a saving. They have many suggestions to offer on the arrangement of furniture in all parts of the house.

WARM CARPETS PROTECTION

Floors on which small children play should be carpeted for the greatest warmth. Elderly people in the family also are sensitive to drafts and appreciate a warmly carpeted floor.

"THE NEXT WHIPPING YOU GET WILL BE FROM YOUR FATHER."

"WOT'S MICKEY McGUIRE DOIN' OVER THERE WITH HIS HANDS IN THAT BUCKET!"

"I'M JUST SOAKIN' MY FISTS IN BRINE, SO THEY WON'T HURT WHEN I SOCK SOMEBODY!"

"BRINE IS JUST SALT WATER, BUT IT TIGHTENS THE SKIN SO HARDLY ANYTHING WILL HURT YOU."

"I KNOW WOT I'M GONNA DO!"

"WOT ON EARTH!"

"YOU RUN WITH IT AND IT WHIRLS AROUND LIKE ENNYTHING!"

"C'MON DOWN AND I'LL LET YOU RUN WITH IT!"

"HEY! MY WHIRLIGIG!"

"..... AND TORE IT ALL TO PIECES!"

"I TRIED EVERY HOUSE IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD!"

"I GOTTA IDEA! IF I CAN JUST FIND THE POWERFUL KATRINKA!"

CAPTAIN EASY

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

by ROY CRANE

ON THE SPOT! EASY, SINGLEHANDED, IS ORDERED TO WIPE OUT SIX OF THE NIFTIEST PURSUIT PLANES THAT EVER FLEW.

FAT CHANCE! BUT ORDERS ARE ORDERS.

ENEMY PLANES BELOW, SIR!

BLAST THAT EAGLE-EYED GUNNER! WELL, HOLD YOUR HAT, SON—MAYBE WE CAN CATCH 'EM NAPPING.

ATTABOY! GIVE IT TO 'EM, EAGLE EYE!

RATTA TA TAT

WHEE! WE GOT ONE! NOW IF ONLY WE CAN KEEP 'EM OFF OUR TAIL TILL WE GET HOME....

ZOOOOOM!

'HEY! THEY'RE ON US! THEY'RE TOO SPEEDY. GIVE IT TO 'EM, EAGLE EYE, BLAST YOU! WHY DON'T YOU SHOOT BACK?

RATTA TA TATTA TAT

BLAZES! HE'S DEAD! THEY GOT OLD EAGLE EYE! I CAN'T SHAKE 'EM! THEY'RE DRILLING ME! THEY'RE—HEY! I'M ABLAZE!

RATTA TATTA TAT

ONE, TWO, THREE, JUMP!

OH, HOW HORRIBLE!

LOOK! HEE'S FALLING! HEE'S A GONER!

HI HO! THIS MUST BE MY LUCKY DAY.

YES, SUH! I'M THE LUCKIEST BOZO THAT EVER-----

DEAD OR ALIVE, MEN!

DICK TRACY

by CHESTER GOULD

COME ON, OSCAR! SAY, YOU'RE DOING FINE THIS MORNING.

INDEED! HE'S DOING SPLENDIDLY, JUNIOR! I BELIEVE HE KNOWS HE'S GOT A RESPONSIBLE JOB NOW.

BUT SAY, MOTHER- HE ALMOST FORGOT HIMSELF WHEN A CAT RAN OUT OF AN ALLEY BACK UP THE STREET.

BAH- YOU WOULDN'T CHASE CATS- WOULD YOU, OSCAR?

WELL- I'M ALL READY FOR BUSINESS! GEE, IT'S GOOD TO BE BACK AT WORK AGAIN!

SAY MOTHER- DID TRACY DROP BY HERE THIS MORNING?

NO, BUT HE PHONED AND ASKED ME TO HAVE YOU BRING TWO OF THESE BAKED HAM SANDWICHES HE LIKES SO WELL DOWN TO HIM AT HEADQUARTERS.

HELLO, TRACY! HERE ARE YOUR SANDWICHES! SAY—!

SAY! WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING SO WORRIED ABOUT? IS IT SOMETHING THAT'S IN THAT LETTER?

NO, NO, KID. IT'S NOTHING AT ALL! I'M NOT WORRIED.

WELL THEN, YOU'RE DOING SOME PRETTY SERIOUS THINKING. AND IT'S THAT LETTER- THE SAME LETTER YOU GOT A COUPLE OF DAYS AGO. WHAT'S IN IT?

AHA- NOW COME ON- GIVE ME THE SANDWICHES.

AND NOW, LET US TURN OUR ATTENTION TO A CERTAIN GOVERNMENT ISLAND PRISON, ALCORETZ, BY NAME, SITUATED OFF THE SEA COAST SOME TWO THOUSAND MILES AWAY...

WELL, FAMONI, YOU'VE JUST GOT THREE MORE DAYS — HOW DO YOU FEEL?

GREAT, MURPHY, GREAT!

SERVING A THREE YEAR TERM FOR INCOME TAX EVASION HASN'T MADE ME ANY FONDER OF PRISONS, THOUGH.

THEY TELL ME THE RACKETS ARE ALL SHOT. YOU'LL HAVE A TOUGH TIME MAKING A LIVING WHEN YOU GET BACK TO THE CITY.

I'M NOT INTERESTED IN RACKETS ANY MORE, MURPHY, AND I'M NOT GOING BACK TO THE CITY! I'M SETTLING IN A LITTLE TOWN CALLED HOMEVILLE.

OH YEAH.

TRACY WOULDN'T TELL ME WHAT HE'S WORRIED ABOUT - BUT I PICKED UP THE ENVELOPE - OF THAT LETTER HE RECEIVED --OFF THE FLOOR.. H'M.. THE POSTMARK SAYS.... HOMEVILLE! H'M... HOMEVILLE.. I CAN'T MAKE OUT THE REST.
